THE CHARTER OAK COOKING STOVE.

THE PATENT INCREASED DRAFT FLUES—IMPROVEMENTS CONTAINED IN NO OTHER STOVE.

The Flues of this Stove, which are singularly enlarged from their commencement to their termination at the pipe collar, thereby increasing the size of the flues, thus more area is given to the heated air passing around the oven, which has the effect to create an increasing or ascending draft in the Stove, which continues through the pipe into the chimney, hence none of these Stoves ever fail to have a good draft.

It is to be furnished with its large Lecture Room in the Basement, in conformity with the other three College Buildings, with ample facilities for music, lectures, etc.

The Baptist State Convention, at Lexington, Miss., 1857, refused the endowment of a College, and offered the money, one-half in hand, and the other in two years, if the Baptists would pledge themselves to raise the other half. Well, such an endowment fund was pledged, and the College was opened in October, 1858, with a Faculty of ten Professors, and a Preparatory Department, and has ever been, and is now, in a prosperous condition.

The friends of the College are now engaged in raising another fund, to place it on a permanent footing.

When the officers of any school or college send circulars for endowment or patronage, they should not be so modest as to omit the fact that the Baptists of Mississippi have established a College, and are patronizing it. Hence, every consideration to induce any boys with their parents to patronize, or contribute to, a College, apply to this College, and with equal force.

The high standard of Scholarship and student discipline of this Institution, and its moderate charges, place it within reach of College and Universities in popular circulation and general prosperity.
