THEY ADJOURNED TO LATER.

The City Enumerators Failed to Enumerate Themselves.

A meeting of the state enumerators who had taken the census of St. Paul was held at the senate chamber in the state capitol last night. Only about a dozen of the enumerators were present, and because of the small attendance the business which the meeting had been called to transact was deferred until next Saturday evening, when another attempt will be made to bring the St. Paul enumerators together. Just what this business is none of the people present last night would state. "Wait until Saturday evening," said J. R. Steiner, "and we will give you all the information you want" And that was all the reporter could get out of any of them. Evidently some of the leading spirits have a movement on foot that they desire to nurse in secret until such time as it may serve their purpose to give the public a tip as to its character.

EXTREMELY SAD DEATH.

Mrs. Frank J. Tourtelat Dies While East on a Visit.

Frank J. Tourtelat, superintendent of the dining car service on the Northern Pacific road, will have the sympathy of a wide circle of friends and acquaintances, because of the death of his wife. Mrs. Tourtelat had gone to New Hampshire for a visit to relatives in Laconia. Her visit had not extended over a week or two when she was taken sick, and despite the best medical attention and most solicitous care, death conquered.

DUGAY REMAINS.

His Rope Walking Is Very Popular.

The attendance at Como this week, drawn by the wire rope performances of Prof. Dugay, have been so marked that his services are to be retained for the remainder of the week. Dugay will give two exhibitions today, at 4 and 8:30. The professor, in his particular line, is without an equal. Watson's celebrated band will be there this week. The W. T. Carleton Opera company is giving "The Bohemian Girl" at Lake Harriet this week. Miss Alberta Fisher, a Minneapolis singer, well known in this city, is taking the part of the Gypsy, and has made a hit.

Praise for McGinnis.

Secretary McGinnis, of the Commercial club, felt highly elated yesterday over the fact that he had received positive assurance from two Chicago-St. Paul lines to grant him the much desired $5 excursions from points in Illinois and Iowa during state fair week. This promise was made regardless of what other lines may do in the matter and assures at least a large attendance of visitors from these two states, who should see Minnesota at her best. The other lines will get together this week, and the feeling is that all will grant a $5 excursion rate for at least one day of the state fair.

BRILLIANT LIGHTS

WILL SOON BE PLACED IN THE BUSINESS CENTERS OF THE CITY.

ALDERMEN TAKE ACTION

LOOKING TO ELECTRIC LIGHTS ON SEVERAL IMPORTANT STREETS.

DOG ORDINANCE VERY DEAD.

School Budget Is Passed—Alderman Murphy Gets After Comptroller McCardy.

At last the business streets of the city of St. Paul are to be lighted after dark. Electric arc lights of 2,000 candle power are to be substituted for the pale and sickly gas jets that only deepen the gloom that now hangs over the down-town streets. The brilliant metamorphosis in store for the city will transform the inky blackness of these thoroughfares into avenues of beaming light. Such will be the consequence of the action of the board of aldermen last night, provided the assembly concurs with it, and there is little reason to doubt that it will.

The board passed a resolution, introduced by Ald. Brady, which instructs the St. Paul Gas Light company to place arc lights of 2,000 candle power at every street crossing on the following streets:

Fourth street, from Jackson street to Seven corners; Fifth and Sixth streets, from Jackson street to Seventh street, and Wabasha and St. Peter streets, from Third street to College avenue.

The resolution also instructs the gas company to discontinue all the gas lamps on those streets between the points named, and likewise such gas lamps on the intersecting streets as may be dispensed with. This will effect a great saving to the city, as it will dispense with several hundred gas lamps. The electric lights are to be in operation from sunset to sunrise, and will cost the city $150 per lamp per year, whereas they now cost $127.75 per lamp per year, and are extinguished at midnight.

The board also confirmed a contract with the St. Paul Gas Light company for placing and maintaining electric arc lights at all the intersections of Seventh street from Seven corners to Brook street, and providing for a discontinuance of all the gas lamps between those points. The resolution authorizing this contract was introduced into the assembly by Mr. Arosin, and thereinadopted. By the terms of the contract confirmed last night the city is to pay two-thirds of the expense of erecting or placing the arc lights at each crossing, which two-thirds will amount to $10 per lamp, the gas company consenting to pay the remaining $5. The saving to the city on Seventh street alone will amount to at least $2,500 a year. The terms of this contract are also to govern the placing of the electric lights on Fourth, Fifth, Sixth, Wabasha and St. Peter streets, and the work is to be completed by Sept. 15.

The board also adopted the resolution recommended by the board of public works which provides for an all-night service of the arc lights stationed in the parks, about the market house and in the masts, and directs the discontinuance of ninety-five gas lamps in the vicinity of these arc lights. This will effect another saving of $2,300 a year.

CITY DOG CATCHER.

The city of St. Paul may sometime have on its list of officials a dog catcher—but not this summer. The mayor vetoed the only dog catcher ordinance that has succeeded in passing both bodies of the council during the past three months. The chief grounds for the veto were stated in an accompanying message, in which his honor demonstrated that the ordinance was impracticable. The mayor declared that in his opinion it would be impossible for a man to construct a dog pound as required, furnish food for and maintain the dogs for five days, and employ men and teams to gather in the dogs, and meet all this expense upon the basis of compensation specified in the ordinance, which was to allow the dog catcher 25 cents for every dog license fee collected by him and 25 cents for every dog he drowns. The language "25 cents for every license collected by him" would not necessarily insure the dog catcher any revenue from that source in case the owners of impounded dogs chose to obtain the licenses at the city clerk's office. The mayor's objection in short was that the compensation provided was inadequate.

Upon motion of Ald. Markham the vote by which the ordinance was passed was reconsidered. Then followed a debate between Ald. Markham and Murphy as to the merits of the ordinance. Ald. Markham said he did not agree with the mayor that 25 sents for each dog license fee was inadequate compensation. Ald. Murphy explained that the city attorney had expressed the opinion that the dog catcher could not collect a cent for licenses issued at the city clerk's office.

Ald. Murphy then moved that the veto stand sustained, and such was the decision of the board by a vote of 7 to 1, Ald. Markham voting "no."

THE SCHOOL BUDGET.

The board concurred with the assembly in passing without alteration the ordinance allowing the school budget for the school year 1895 and 1896. The whole amount asked for and allowed is $477,250. Ald. Hare voted for the ordinance, but in giving his reasons therefor said that he did so under compulsion, as he was opposed to allowing the $8,650 for additional teachers.

On motion of Ald. Brady preliminary orders were passed for the paving of the following small triangular portions left by the paving of Fifth, Sixth, Seventh and St. Peter streets; Franklin street, from West Sixth to West Seventh street; Exchange street, from West Fifth street to West Seventh street; and Market street, from West Sixth street to St. Peter street.

The contract between the city and the Great Northern Railroad company whereby the latter agrees to pay one-third of the cost of the Como avenue bridge, was finally approved. By its terms the company is to pay its one-third in installments as the work progresses and the cost is ascertained.

AFTER M'CARDY.

Ald. Murphy, who is determined to force Comptroller McCardy into a corner, and compel him to explain why it is there is no money in the city treasury available to pay the policemen and firemen the salaries due them, offered a resolution to the following effect:

That the city comptroller be requested to report forthwith to the common council the amount of moneys received by the city from the county treasurer since the first day of January, 1895, and that he specify in detail the amount received on account of the taxes of 1894, and the various funds to which said amounts have been credited, and also report the amount received on account of taxes for the year prior to the year 1894, and also that he state the various funds to which the amounts so received have been credited.

The resolution was unanimously adopted.

The committee on license recommended the passage of an ordinance abolishing the license system under which expressmen and draymen at present conduct their business and sugstituting therefor a system of registration. Under the license system drivers of one-horse carts pay a fee of $5 a year, while the fee for two horses is $10 and four or mere horses $25. The registration plan simply requires the draymen and expressmen to register their names and the numbers of their vehicles once a year in the office of the city clerk. The fee for the registration is $1. The driver must register his name and the number of his vehicle when he first procures his permit or right to engage in the business of hauling goods, wares and merchandise. Afterwards he is required to register on Jan. 1 of each year. The permits are not transferable. The ordinance requires the driver to attach his name and the number of his vehicle to the wagon, and also to wear a badge bearing the number, and indicating the nature of his business, whether drayman or expressman. Otherwise it is similar to the present ordinance regulating expressmen and draymen in the matter of police supervision.

Under suspension of the rules, the ordinance was passed.

GRANITE BLOCKS.

The committee on streets recommended the passage of the final order for paving with granite blocks the intersections of the streets at Seven Corners. The committee originally opposed the order as it provides that the cost of this paving shall be paid out of the general fund, but after a conference with the city engineer, the committee was satisfied that the present cedar blocks covering these intersecting spaces ought to be torn up and a granite pavement substituted in order to raise these portions of the streets to a level with the asphalt pavements on Seventh, Fourth and Third streets. The city engineer estimates the cost of paving the intersections at $1,300. The board passed the final order.

The ordinance authorizing the corporation attorney to employ help in making a compilation of general ordinances since 1884, was referred to the committee on ordinances and public accounts.

The resolution permitting the Northwestern Telephone company to erect new poles on the west side of Dale street from Summit avenue to University avenue, was adopted upon recommendation of the committee on streets.

Assemblyman Johnson's scavenger ordinance was referred to the committee on license.

BITS OF POLICE NEWS.

Turned Out by the Effervescent Globe Spigot.

The case of Fritz Mahler, charged with selling liquor to a minor, was again before the police court yesterday. The small boy to whom, it is alleged, the beer was sold, declared that his attitude on the question of strong drink was identical with that of Lady Henry Somerset. His father entertained diffrent views, and it was his father's beer, and not his own, that he had conveyed forth from the saloon, contrary to his natural inclinations and better judgment. Moreover, he had been provided with a written request for the hateful stuff, signed by papa. Judge Twohy is not convinced that the beer of the father should be visited upon the children even to the first generation. He therefore took the case under advisement.

Nellie Thompson wore a black hat a la Gainsborough, a Trilby heart upon her gentle bosom, and a very sleepy look, when she smiled at Bailiff McMahon yesterday morning. Nellie is a genuine Tom boy. She is only twenty-two now, but she has already learned to smoke cigarettes and drink beer as well as anybody's big brother. Sergeant Ross stated that Nellie runs about wine houses on Seventh street when she ought to be in bed, and that she is likely to grow up a real wicked girl. His honor, therefore, borrowed all the money Nellie had—some $20—to keep her out of mischief, and advised her to be more attentive to her Sunday school lessons.

John Scott will spend two months at Como. During the first thirty days he will reflect upon the folly of being disorderly when he was already drunk. During the next month he will shed tears for having committed an error in logic. John went down into the Omaha yards Monday night and asked the brakeman on a passenger train to pass him to Chicago under the guise of a wheel twisting understudy. When the brakeman failed to grasp the suggestion John accented his arguments with a rock. The monolithic hint failing to penetrate the brakeman's skull, the latter called upon Special Officer Doody, who continued the argument with such success that John was completely floored.

THERE IS NO TRUTH IN IT.

Report of a Strike on the Great Northern at St. Cloud.

A delegation of employes of the Great Northern road, who are also members of the A. R. U., called at the Globe office last evening and positively denied the story telegraphed from St. Cloud about a threatened strike of the employes of the Great Northern there. They said there was absolutely no truth in the report nor was there the slightest foundation for it. It is the opinion of the employes and the members of the union that the rumor was started by some of those who are bent on injuring President Hill in his Northern Pacific reorganization schemes.

LOWE STILL HELD.

JUDGE EGAN REFUSES TO GIVE HIM HIS LIBERTY AS DESIRED.

THE COMPLAINT DEFECTIVE,

ARGUED JUDGE CARD IN BEHALF OF THE PLAINTIFF, LOWE.

A SPIRITED CONTROVERSY

Between the Court and the County Attorney, Full of Entertaining Repartee.

The writ of habeas corpus for Charles R. Lowe, charged with murder in the third degree for the death of Clara Bergh, for whom he failed to provide proper medical attendance and nursing while she was sick and under his control in a room at the Globe hotel, came up again before Judge Egan yesterday on a new writ, but Lowe failed to gain his liberty, though his attorney succeeded in getting the court to doubting as to what should be done in the case. Judge Egan took the matter under consideration, and promised to give his decision tomorrow morning.

The contention of Judge Card, Lowe's attorney, was that the complaint under which his client is held is defective. The complaint charges Lowe with having entered into a contract to care for the girl during her approaching illness—this was Lowe's own explanation of how he came to be in the room with her—and then feloniously and willfully failing to provide for her, until she died. Judge Card maintained that the allegations of the complaint did not constitute any offense whatever, and certainly not murder in the third degree. The complaint could not be construed to charge manslaughter.

Judge Egan asked County Attorney Butler for his definition of murder in the third degree and the latter said it was, according to the statute, a killing wherein the act endangers the lives of others.

The court said that there being no others whose lives were endangered by the act, he doubted if it could be held to be murder in the third degree. But the county attorney held firmly to the opposite view and insisted that if it was not murder in the third degree it was manslaughter, and that a man might be held for murder who was only guilty of manslaughter, the greater offense including the lesser.

The court thought that according to the allegations of fact set up in the complaint the defendant should have been charged with murder in the first or second degree. If he was not guilty of that he was guilty of nothing. He shut the woman in a room and starved her to death.

"Suppose he did not mean to starve her to death?" suggested Attorney Butler.

"The intent is governed by the acts," replied Judge Egan. "I won't discharge this man, but it strikes me that the complaint is peculiar."

The court then thought that further argument might be advisable, inasmuch as the county attorney offered to submit any number of authorities, but the court was too general in his reply and Mr. Butler began to feel a trifle sore. After some further discussion as to the futility of his attempting to submit authorities unless he knew on what particular points the court desired information, the county attorney remarked:

"Well, it seems as if the court is never disposed to agree with me in any proposition I advance."

"Oh, that is uncalled for, Mr. County Attorney," replied Judge Egan with some show of feeling.

"Well, I simply express the feeling that comes to me from what has taken place in this case," said Mr. Butler calmly.

"Oh, I understand you gentlemen," said Judge Egan soothingly. "Every lawyer thinks he is infallible and unfortunately the court usually thinks he is infallible and the result is not always satisfactory to all concerned. But there is no occasion for gentlemen getting hostile."

"Logic is always hostile," replied Butler coolly.

"No, I disagree with you, Mr. County Attorney; logic is not hostile," said the court reflectively.

"It is hostile to fallacy," retorted the county attorney with a satanic grin.

"That's true," replied the court. "Why didn't you say that in the first place?" he asked as his spirit of humor began to assert itself. "Gentlemen, I will give a decision in this case Thursday morning without any further argument," he continued, and so the matter stands.

DOCTORS VS. LAWYERS.

Will Play Ball and Give Patients and Clients a Chance.

Those needing legal advice or medical treatment should enter into contracts for these little luxuries at once, because there will shortly be a great scarcity of talent in both these professions in St. Paul—the doctors have challenged the lawyers to play a game of base ball. The date of the game has not yet been set, but it will be just as soon as the necessary arrangements for ambulances, spiritual advisers and hearses can be completed. Judge Egan is to umpire the game, and as he will not be allowed to wear any mask or carry a gun, those desiring to succeed him on the bench should lose no time in getting their wires in order. Another suggestion that may be of importance to the public is that it has been hinted that the undertakers are circulating a petition for an advance in rates in view of the approaching boom in business, so those with one leg in the grave might save money by taking note of the fact.

BROAD ACRES IN QUESTION.

But It Is Insisted That the City Engineer's Survey Is Correct.

A conference between the city engineer and the board of public works yesterday developed the fact that there is a discrepancy of about six acres between the city engineer's survey of the land to be taken for Phalen park and the government survey, the latter showing the larger acreage. Mr. Rundlett explained that the difference was due to the fact that the government lines were run with a compass and the work done with no particular care, whereas the engineer's department used a transit instrument in determining the lines, and this insured absolute accuracy.

BOHANAN GOES TO HOSPITAL.

But It Is Believed His Injuries Are Not Very Serious.

Peter Bohanan, the negro who attacked a German out near Lake Phalen a few days ago, and, after cutting and robbing the latter, was himself cut in turn, and who has been in the county jail awaiting trial, was again removed to the city hospital yesterday. He complained of feeling ill. His wounds, however, are well nigh healed, and, in spite of rumors to the contrary, the physicians at the hospital do not believe that Bohanan's condition is at all serious.

ALDERMANIC WISDOM.

Directed to the Smoke and Bicycle Ordinances.

The aldermanic committee on streets disposed of several matters yesterday afternoon, some of which were acted upon in the evening by the board of aldermen, an account of whose proceedings appears in this issue.

Assemblyman Parker's smoke ordinance, which the assembly passed some months ago, was for the third time laid over, but not indefinitely, as the committee accepted the invitation of the engineer of the Albion apartment building to inspect the smoke consumer in operation there. The device is said to be very effective, simple and economical. The committee will examine it upon the day named for the next meeting, and will then take action on the ordinance.

Assemblyman Arosin's bicycle ordinance was laid over, and so was the assembly ordinance making it a misdemeanor for citizens to walk along the Omaha tracks between the East city limits and the Westminster street bridge.

BOARD OF ARBITRATION.

Minneapolis Submits Five Names to Gov. Clough.

At a meeting of the Trades Council of Minneapolis last week the names of five men were submitted to the governor, as candidates for appointment on the state board of arbitration. The delegates named were D. Morrisey, J. E. E. Johnson, E. H. Blackhurst, Matt Nott and F. W. Schmidt. It is expected that the governor will make his appointments in a few days, but at most Minneapolis can only expect to get two of the members, as the law provides that only two of the three members shall be appointed by the governor, and that the third member shall be named by these two. If the intent of the law is carried out in all particulars, there will be members appointed at various places throughout the state, so that when little difficulties occur in places remote from the cities a representative of the state board can be reached without the expense of giving the entire board a long journey.

DIES OF HIS INJURIES.

Young Auge, Who Fell From a Milwaukee Freight Car.

August Auge, the young man who was injured while climbing on a freight car in the Milwaukee yards early Monday morning, died of his injuries at the city hospital at 6 a. m. yesterday. An autopsy held in the afternoon by Dr. Rothrock developed that the cause of death was not the severe wounds about the head, but an obscure injury to the spine. Auge had evidently struck upon his back on a tie, rail or rock. The resulting hemorrhage about the spine had pressed against the spinal cord and gradually extinguished life. The remains will be sent back to Mendota and there buried.

HEARD THE ARGUMENT.

Discharged the Order for Same, Continued as to Others.

Judge Sanborn, of the United States circuit court of appeals, yesterday heard argument on an order to show cause why the receiver of the Brown Bros. Grain company should not be allowed to rent certain elevators owned by the company along the line of the Kansas City & Omaha railway. Judge Duffy, of Nebraska, appeared for certain creditors in opposition to the order, and the receiver was not represented at all nor did he himself put in an appearance. Judge Sanborn discharged the order to show cause as far as it applied to some five or six elevators in question, but the order stands as to others.

CATCHING AN ELEPHANT.

An Old Circus Man Gets Reminiscent.

The old circus man was in a reminiscent mood, and when he began to talk about the "good old wagon show days" an interested crowd gathered around to listen:

"So the Ringling Brothers are going to show here next Tuesday," he said musingly. "Well, well, how things do change. I can remember when Ringling Brothers' circus was a little overland affair, and the entire outfit was not worth $500. Nowadays I expect their daily expenses are ten times that, and they own and operate four long railroad trains. It only shows what push and good business management can do.

"The way Ringling Brothers got their first elephant was funny. One day while they were showing in a little town in southwest Missouri, a telegram was handed to Al Ringling.

"It was from the mayor of a neighboring town, and it informed the managers that they could have an elephant if they would send after it immediately. An offer like that doesn't come to a circus man every day, and they jumped at it. A couple of the brothers went over to get the elephant.

"They found the big brute at large, running amuck, and the whole town in a panic. A small show had stranded in the town several weeks before, and the authorities had seized the elephant for the license.

"For a while the elephant behaved pretty well. Then it got a tantrum. It broke out of the shanty where it was kept, nearly killed a hostler and ran trumpeting up and down the main street, breaking windows, demolishing awnings and scaring children into fits.

"Business was practically suspended, women were afraid to go shopping and the schools were in a state of demoralization. In his desperation the mayor wired to the Ringling Brothers.

"'If you can catch that elephant you can have it,' he said.

"And you can bet they caught it. That was an easy job for a circus man."

Like the widow's bottle of oil their elephant contingent has grown until a great herd of these ponderous beasts are among their zoologic possessions.

"There are the rarest animals from all the climes of the globe, including some far more interesting in some respects than any ever seen here.

"The show in its every department is replete with novelty and excellence, as will be manifest to the thousands who visit it.

Smith Wants to Be Guardian.

Charles L. Smith yesterday secured from Judge Kelly an order appointing him guardian of Franklin D. Smith, a minor, for the purpose of bringing suit against Emil Munch and Bohn Manufacturing company for alleged false arrest and malicious prosecution. Young Smith is one of the two men who were arrested a short time ago for attempting to cause a revolt in Bohn Manufacturing company's factory, but the cases were dismissed in the municipal court.

Pickaninnies Please.

Col. Pepper's Sunny South drew another large audience at the base ball park last night. The entertainment is particularly pleasing for these fine summer nights, being made up chiefly of vocal and instrumental music and given in the open air. The Pickaninny band and the numerous colored singers and dancers provide a programme which is both amusing and interesting. The prices of admission are only 15 and 25 cents.

Will Take Them to Sandstone.

The Minnesota Sandstone company will take a party of gentlemen to Sandstone, Minn., tomorrow morning. The party will consist of City Engineer L. W. Rundlett and his assistant, W. L. Watson, and the members of the board of public works, and the city engineer and board of public works of Minneapolis, also officers of the company. They go to inspect the quarries there, and the trip will doubtless be an interesting one.

A FLASK OF ACID.

WAS A DEADLY POISON AND ITS RESULT WAS FATAL.

ITS CONTENTS SWALLOWED.

SUDDEN AND SAD DEATH OF THE AGED ALONZO J. CORNELL.

AN OUNCE OF CARBOLIC ACID

Swallowed by Mistake, and After a Few Moments of Dreadful Agony He Was Dead

"My God, what was that?" demanded Alonzo J. Cornell, an old man on the West side yesterday morning, as he threw a flask upon the floor. The flask contained an ounce of carbolic acid. In twenty minutes Cornell was dead. He was fifty-seven years of age, a laboring man, and a well-known member of the G. A. R. With his wife and nine children he resided at 208 Robertson street.

Yesterday morning he arose very early, and was feeling in the best of spirits. He remarked to his wife that he would go to a neighboring saloon and get a drink. A moment later he caught sight of a half-pint flask on top of a tall cupboard. Evidently thinking that he had found some liquor, he reached up, grasped the flask, and swallowed its contents. As soon as he learned his appalling mistake he hurried to the faucet and drank glass after glass of water. His wife brought vinegar, and he swallowed that. But his agony was becoming unbearable. Groaning heavily, he sank into a chair. The white blisters forming about his lips and chin, wherever the corroding acid had touched the skin, told too well what destruction was taking place among the delicate internal membranes. His groans at last ceased, but his face grew paler. It was covered with a cold sweat. His breathing became faster and faster. He placed his hands to his forehead, and his chin sank upon his heaving chest. "Oh, the needles in my head!" he cried, wearily. Soon his hands slipped down upon his lap, and the torture was at an end. It had been impossible to secure the presence of a physician in time.

Cornell was born in Geneva, N. Y. He enlisted first in the Twenty-fourth infantry and again in the Fifteenth cavalry of New York. He had been married thirty-two years. Recently he had been employed as a farm hand in the harvest fields, and was on the point of leaving again for the country yesterday morning. No inquest will be held, Coroner Whitcomb deciding that Cornell's death was manifestly the result of an accident. The deceased will be buried under the auspices of the G. A. R.

SISTER SAILED IN AHEAD.

And Won the White Bear Junior Yacht Club Race.

The White Bear Junior Yacht club sailed its regular weekly regatta yesterday afternoon. The Sister, sailed by J. W. Johnson, won first honor, with Dean's Aurelia in second place. A fine full-sail breeze from the northwest blew with nearly uniform velocity throughout the race. Shortly after 3 o'clock the boats crossed the line in the following order: Britannia, Coquina, Mayflower, Daisy, Galatea, Aurelia, Sister. It was just the wind for the Sister, and, starting last, she finished first, being well sailed throughout. Britannia, however, held the lead past center, to Wildwood, giving place to Mayflower and Aurelia only when center buoy was reached again on the return from the south end of the lake. Charles Stickney entered the Coquina, and although the breeze was not quite strong enough for the trim little yawl rig, she sailed a pretty race. Mayflower sailed her first race with the new club yesterday. She was formerly called the Elsa.

The following is a list of the boats entered and their sailors, in the order of their finish: Sister, J. W. Johnson; Aurelia, S. B. Dean; Coquina, C. A. Stickney; Britannia, F. W. Pinska; Galatea, Olin H. Espy; Daisy, Edward M. VanDuzee Jr. Next race will occur next Tuesday afternoon, starting at 2:45 sharp.

INDIANA WARDENS.

They Visit Stillwater and Express Praise of the Prison.

The party of wardens from the state of Indiana that arrived in the city yesterday included Warden Hert, of the Southern Indiana penitentiary at Jeffersonville, and Warden Harter, of the Northern Indiana penitentiary at Michigan City. They were accompanied by Ernest Bicknell, secretary of the Indiana Board of State Charities, who took them over to Stillwater yesterday morning. On their return they expressed themselves as highly pleased with the methods employed in the conduct of the prison, and they will spend today in visiting the jails of the two cities.

The Dayton's Bluff Union of St. Paul united with the Woman's Suffrage association—the different W. C. T. U. in both cities—in holding a basket social at the residence of Mrs. M. A. Warner, on Simpson avenue, yesterday afternoon. About fifty ladies were in attendance, including a number of guests from the East. The afternoon session opened with devotionals, led by Mrs. Irvine. Mrs. Pierce, of Minneapolis, gave an interesting talk on social purity, which was followed by a discussion on the subject. A committee was appointed consisting of the superintendents of social purity, with Mrs. Simmons as chairman, to visit the Rescue League home, of Minneapolis, Friday of this week.

A committee was also appointed to make arrangements for procuring Mrs. M. C. Edholm, of Chicago, to lecture in St. Paul.

At the close of the session the ladies grouped on the lawn and were photographed. A trip was also made through the Hamline university buildings under the guidance of Dr. G. S. Innes.

GOOD CITIZEN GONE.

A Worthy and Respected Man, a Revered Knight of Pythias.

In the death of Adolph Henschel not only his family but the Knights of Pythias of St. Paul have suffered a grievous loss. Mr. Henschel has resided in St. Paul since the city was a mere hamlet, and has always borne a high reputation as a neighbor, a business man and a public-spirited citizen. He had built up a profitable business as a confectioner through attention to his business and square dealing. Up to a very short time ago he was able to attend to his store as usual, but a complication of diseases wore his strength down until he could resist no longer, and he succumbed to the inevitable early Monday morning.

Mr. Henschel was a native of Germany, born in 1837, and came to St. Paul in the early sixties. He was a pioneer Pythian, one of the oldest members of the order in St. Paul, and a charter member of Champion lodge. His funeral will be in charge of the Knights of Pythias, and will occur Thursday at 2 o'clock p. m. The body will be taken to Pythian hall, 63 East Fifth street, where the service of the order will be held at the hour stated.

CARPENTERS' UNION MEETS.

Elects New Members—Garment Workers' Entertainment.

The carpenters' union held a well-attended meeting at Assembly hall last night. Three new members were taken in and J. L. Hughes was chosen as marshal for the Labor day parade. The union passed a resolution imposing a fine of 25 cents on any member caught wearing overalls not bearing the label of the garment workers' union. This is a movement in the interest of the factory girls, who have recently organized a union and are making an effort to induce the different factories to employ only union girls and thus entitle them to the use of the label on their goods.

Speaking of the garment workers' union, it may be stated that the girls have decided to give an entertainment at Assembly hall Thursday evening, Aug. 29. Among other features of the entertainment short addresses are to be made by W. W. Erwin and J. J. Ryder.

THE DRIVER'S LEG BROKEN.

A Runaway on Concord Street With Serious Results.

Paul Fischer, a young man who drives a wood wagon for Wolff & Lehmann, of 472 South Robert street, had his left leg broken yesterday morning through his team running away. The horses took fright on Concord street near Robert. They ran but a short distance when the cordwood began to slide off. With the wood came the driver, but the wood was on top. The latter was soon uncovered and attended by Dr. Beals. It was found that Fischer's leg was broken in two places below the knee, and that he had received a severe laceration of the right upper arm. He was removed to his residence on the corner of South Robert and Congress streets.

SEVENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO

Was Laid the Corner Stone of Fort St. Anthony, New Fort Snelling.

A prominent and patriotic attorney of Minneapolis has addressed the following communication to the mayors of St. Paul and Minneapolis. His suggestions are well worthy of consideration:

Minneapolis, Aug. 20, 1895.—To the Mayors of Minneapolis and St. Paul—Gentlemen: The records show that the corner stone of Fort St. Anthony, now our romantic old Fort Snelling, was laid Sept. 10, 1820, seventy-five years ago.

"'Twas the tenth of September,
As we all well remember,"

As the anniversary of Perry's victory on Lake Erie. It is the day of the national encampment of the Grand Army of the Republic at Louisville. The time is short, but cannot the Twin Cities arrange an appropriate ceremony to commemorate the day at the site of the old land mark of early days? It would freshen the interest of the new generations in this the oldest, most historic and most picturesque of the many objects of interest within and adjacent to these cities. The old walls are going to decay, and press rumors say it is to be finally abandoned as department headquarters. Perhaps a rousing and historic celebration would renew and quicken the interest of the government and nation to such extent as to cause congress to rebuild its tumbling walls, at least to the extent of preservation to its romantic picturesqueness. The regular army, the Grand Army posts of the state, the state commandery of the Loyal Legion, the Sons of Veterans, the state national guard, city, county and state officials as well as civic bodies should all participate in the historic remembrance.

The Sworn Tormentors

Of the Spanish Inquisition never inflicted tortures more dreadful than those endured by the victim of inflammatory rheumatism. The chronic form of this obstinate malady is sufficiently painful. Arrest it at the start with Hostetter's Stomach Bitters and avoid becoming a lifelong martyr. The Bitters will remove malaria and kidney complaints, dyspepsia, constipation, nervousness and neuralgia, remedy debility and hastens convalescence.
