Sweet Home.

How dear to our heart is the place of our birth,
That cot and the glebe seems the dearest on earth;
We love every spot, meadow, wildwood and stream;
Though ever we roam, we return in our dream
To gather the fruit that ripened and fell
And quaff from the pail that still hangs in the well,
Or kneel by that spring, often pressed by your lips,
As pure as the mead that old Jupiter sips.

The peach and the pear and the vine on the wall
All beckon us still to come round for a call.
We loved the sly trout we flicked with our hook,
And fruits from the meads, that grew luscious and sweet,
From woodlands and lanes, made the banquet complete.
Does the dog still bark at the game on the tree?
Is the team and the plow in the furrow for me?

No fauna to dread (but its Flora will please)—
With those turbaned mountains of conifer trees
With their flaunting scarfs of such changeable green
And their repertoire wardrobe of rainbow sheen.
The hands are now folded that once were our guide;
My spirit is tossed like a bark on the tide;
When it is hallowed by love and enshrined by joy,
The wayfaring man loves the home of the boy.

—J. Austin.

The Poultry Industry.

It is a fact not generally known that of all farm products poultry stands fifth in value. It is estimated that the cash derived from the sale of poultry and eggs amounts to half a billion dollars annually. Farmers, however, are only beginning to realize the profits that can be obtained from a well cared for flock of hens. It is doubtless true that many could more than double their present gain if they gave a little more attention to the feeding problem. Guy H. Parker of Middletown Springs, Vt., writes of the way he increased the egg production of his fowls: "My hens have doubled on the number of eggs since I began to use your 'Page's Perfected Poultry Food.'"

Any one sending his address on a postal card to C. S. Page, Hyde Park, Vt., and mentioning this paper, will receive by mail, free, postpaid, a sample package of "Page's Perfected Poultry Food."

TALK ON BANKING AND FINANCE.

National Bank Examiner F. L. Fish Addresses Rutland Club.

F. L. Fish of Vergennes, national bank examiner for Vermont, gave an informal talk before the Men's club of the Rutland Congregational church Wednesday night on banking and finance. He told of the system now practiced by national bank examiners in the examination of banks established under federal law and said that while it was not infallible it took considerable ingenuity to defeat it. He referred to the great care with which the books were gone over and said that the system was probably not perfection itself, inasmuch as it was the achievement of human minds, but it was the next thing to it and efforts were being constantly made to improve and perfect it to the end that the interests of depositors might be absolutely safeguarded.

He touched briefly on national banking laws and how banks were run under the supervision of the national government. There was probably room for improvement, he said, and referred to bills now before Congress which had for their object the betterment of banking conditions, some of which were wise in their broadness and should be put into effect. He deprecated the schemes practiced by some bank officials in the larger cities tending toward wildest speculation to the ultimate ruin of themselves and betrayal of the depositors' confidence.

Conditions in the stock market came in for a share of his remarks. Referring to the stringency of the money market, he said that money was now flowing in daily to relieve the situation and that there was no cause for further fear. Wall street prices were getting steadier every day and this was another good omen. Matters will be entirely adjusted before long and the financial flurry that stirred money centers for a time will have left no ill effects of permanent duration.

Boston's National Motor Boat and Engine Show.

Mechanics building, Boston, has been the scene of many great trade expositions, but judging from the preparations which have been made and the great interest already displayed by those connected with the industry, the coming National Motor Boat and Engine Show, which opens in Mechanics building January 25th, promises to eclipse them all, and as an exhibition in the boat building line, it will interest all New England.

There are probably more motor craft owned in New England than in any other section of the country, for there are so many splendid inland facilities for motor boating in addition to the magnificent coast line with its picturesque harbors and ideal cruising grounds. This year's exhibition which will stand alone and not be a part of the auto show, will be able to present in a most attractive way displays of motor boats and engines heretofore impossible in the limited space allotted to the boat section of the auto show.

The very largest types of cabin motor craft which it is possible to get within the building will be exhibited and these boats will be fully equipped for sea service. There will be countless types of power craft while the engine display will be the most unique in the history of the business. The Boston show will follow the great success of New York and Chicago. There will be an attractive musical programme each day.

ABOUT THE STATE.

Items of Interest Gleaned from Our Exchanges.

The Rutland city poor department cost $3,590.29 last year, compared with $2,968.29 in 1906.

I. N. Chase, who has been postmaster at East Fairfield for several years, has resigned his position.

Among letters patent just issued is one of Alba C. Booth of Burlington for an improvement in handles of brushes and other manicuring articles.

It is announced in Addison county that J. R. Donoway of Middlebury, formerly state's attorney in that county, is a candidate for state senator.

Town clerk Frank J. Simmons of Woodstock reports the vital statistics of the town for the year 1907 as follows: Number of marriages, 30; births, 44; deaths, 49.

Capt. Henry A. Slocum, aged 82 years, an old-time whaler, who died January 15 at Dartmouth, Mass., was the father of Allison W. Slocum, professor of physics in the university of Vermont, Burlington.

Jerry Perkins of Rutland, aged 11 years, for tampering with the switches in the railroad yard, was given some good advice by grand juror H. R. Kingsley, but no action was taken against him, as the little fellow evidently did not realize the seriousness of his act.

The Patch Manufacturing company of Rutland, which is now working nine hours a day, has just been awarded the contract by J. F. Manning, as general manager of the Colorado Yule Marble company of Marble, Colo., to furnish the concern a big consignment of marble-working machinery. The contract is one of the largest which has come to Rutland in recent years, and calls for twenty-two sawing gangs, three rubbing beds, a diamond saw, a circular planer, and a large lathe.

Suit Against Central Vermont.

The case of Henry Greene, administrator of the estate of Truman P. Fuller, vs. the Central Vermont Railway company, an action to recover $10,000 for criminal negligence, has been filed in Chittenden county court. This action grows out of the death, January 4, 1906, of Truman P. Fuller of Burlington, it is alleged, from injuries received November 3, 1905, by a fall through a hole in the floor of the baggage room at the Central Vermont railroad station in Burlington.

The declaration sets up that Mr. Fuller on the day in question entered the baggage room of the station to attend to the transportation of his baggage; that the floor of the room was torn up to admit of some repairs to the heating apparatus in the basement below; that the room was dark and the opening in the floor was unguarded and that no precaution was taken to prevent frequenters to the room from falling into the same, and that in consequence Mr. Fuller did fall a distance of ten feet to the basement, receiving injuries from which he died January 4.

To Ship Horse Across Continent.

So attached did S. A. Morse and family become to their Morgan mare, "Jennie," while they resided in Montpelier that Mr. Moss has made arrangements to have the animal shipped to Alameda, Cal., where they have gone to reside. John A. McAvoy will go along to take care of this mare, which will be shipped in a palace stock car by her lonesome. It is expected the trip will take about three weeks. This mare is quite old and was formerly owned by the late J. G. Adams.

Received For American Insurance Co.

Boston, Jan. 18.—The American Insurance company, which has done business in Boston for 80 years, went into the hands of a receiver yesterday, yielding to the strain of the San Francisco disaster. The court proceedings looking to the receivership were begun some time ago. A. D. Hill was named as receiver yesterday.

May Be Excluded From Sugar Eat.

Those sons and daughters of Vermont whose loyalty to the Springfield, Mass., association of descendants of that state extends only to their attendance upon the annual sugar-eat are in danger of becoming alienated from the association unless they become active members of it, says The Springfield Republican. It has been found somewhat difficult for the workers and officers in the association to get members into it, because they could stay out and yet attend the sugar festival and other functions because they were thrown open to the public. It is now proposed to increase the dues of the association to place it on a solid foundation, and to exclude all those who are not members from the annual sugar-eat, to which hitherto Vermonters have flocked from far and near. It is hoped that thereby all those who have a fondness for the real genuine maple sugar will attach themselves to the society and help to maintain it financially and socially. The question will come up for discussion at the February meeting of the Sons and Daughters of Vermont, and will later be decided by the executive committee, to which the matter was referred.

At the recent monthly meeting of the association the president announced the appointment of the following committees: Membership, Elkan Allen, Mr. Weether, Thomas I. Sanes, Mrs. P. R. DeWolf, and C. J. Weston; social, Mrs. S. M. Boothsby, Mrs. F. E. Church, George Edwards, Miss Grace Conner, and C. J. Weston. Several young people coming from Vermont have recently become active in the association and a period of new life is expected, although the association has been unusually active during the past year or two. No plans have yet been made for the annual sugar festival, which comes the latter part of March or early in April.

It Does the Business.

Mr. E. E. Chamberlain of Clinton, Maine, says of Bucklen's Arnica Salve, "It does the business: I have used it for piles and it cured them. Used it for chapped hands and it cured them. UNIONS HERE TO STAY

Needed to Meet Modern Industrial Conditions.

GOLDEN CLUB FOR LABOR.

Why the Manufacturers' Association Would Destroy Workers' Organizations—Weakness of the Open Shop Policy—Welcome the Joint Bargain.

Apropos of the Van Cleave-Parry-Post $1,500,000 war fund to exterminate the labor organizations of our country we will say that if they through their Manufacturers' association were to raise such a fund to educate and discipline their own members to a recognition of a few of the fundamental truths of modern economics the money would be well expended. The declaration of war on the trades unions shows a lack of perception which would be amusing were it not saddening.

Trades unions are the necessary and inevitable outgrowth of modern industrial conditions. They are here quite as much by force of circumstances as because the wageworkers themselves desire them. In fact, the continuous work of the large corps of organizers of the American Federation of Labor is partly due to the fact that thousands of wageworkers have to be taught the necessity and advantages of protecting themselves by organization. The employers in the Manufacturers' association already seem to be tolerably well alive to their own interests. They have organized, and instead of frankly conceding that right to the wageworker they want to destroy his organization so that they in organized force may more easily become masters of all they survey.

At the recent meeting of the Manufacturers' association where it voted to raise the war fund there was no sign of the members having advanced to any higher level of good citizenship than that which characterized them in the past.

It is well to bear in mind the tactics of employers' associations. They flourish in different sections of the country under different names, but we must judge them by what they do.

Employers, often having more educational and social advantages than wageworkers, might be expected to maintain at least as high a standard of morals, citizenship and conduct. Do they?

Let us see. The Manufacturers' association is never weary of abusing trades unions and misrepresenting their attitude.

On the other hand, the unions freely concede the right to employers to organize and insist only that the same right be accorded the wage earners. We may add that, accorded or contested, the wage earners have organized to a great extent and will continue the good work.

Organized labor has done much for the working people to protect them from the avaricious, greedy and ignorant employer. Organized labor has been so fair to the fair minded and just employer, it has brought such a degree of sunshine to the homes and lives of the toilers, that it has come to stay. To stay! Do you understand, Van Cleave, Parry, Post? To stay! Organized labor has thousands of written and verbal agreements with intelligent, fairly inclined employers, who recognize such agreement—the joint bargain—as the modern, progressive method of adjustment of the labor conditions of workmen. They could not be persuaded to go back to the old, effete policy of the so called open shop, but, more properly speaking, the open union shop, where it is every man for himself and his Satanic majesty take the hindmost. That is the policy of industrial idiocy, injurious to all alike and tending to tear down industry and commerce as well as the manhood, citizenship and character of our people.

Not much longer in the congressional and state, legislative or even in the judicial field will the capitalist "war fund" avail, particularly as against the effort of organized labor and the people to secure legislative relief and real judicial justice.

The hidebound Van Cleave-Parry-Post aggregation may well go to, with its antiquated methods and picayunish $1,500,000 "war fund."

Organized labor is here to stay!—Samuel Gompers in American Federationist.

Pillars of Sand.

The deserts of Arabia are among the most remarkable places of the world and are especially remarkable for their pillars of sand, which are raised by whirlwinds and have a very close resemblance in their appearance to waterspouts.

INVESTORS OBSERVE

In determining market values of shares, the following facts are essential: the market price, the dividends paid, and the margin of safety or surplus, after the payment of such dividends.

Market Letter No. 56 shows earnings, dividends paid and margin of safety on over 100 railroad and industrial shares actively quoted.

This letter will show you why it may be wise for you to sell stocks you now own and re-invest the proceeds in shares yielding larger returns and having a greater margin of safety.

The letter also mentions Bay State Gas.

20 Horses For Sale!

Some work horses in matched pairs, weighing from 2000 to 1200 each. Some driving horses, also my full power outfit.
LORD BROS., West Berlin.

A WOMAN TO BE PRETTY

Must Have Luxuriant and Glossy Hair, No Matter What Color.

The finest contour of a female face, the sweetest smile of a female mouth, loses something if the head is crowned with scant hair. Scant and falling hair, it is now known, is caused by a parasite that burrows into the scalp to the root of the hair, where it saps the vitality. The little white scales the germ throws up in burrowing are called dandruff. To cure dandruff permanently, then, and to stop falling hair, that germ must be killed. Newbro's Herpicide, an entirely new result of the chemical laboratory, destroys the dandruff germ, and, of course, stops the falling hair, and prevents baldness. Sold by leading druggists. Send 10c. in stamps for sample to The Herpicide Co., Detroit.

Two sizes—50 cents and $1.00.

RESCUERS HEAR BURIED MINERS.

Their Release Is Expected Within 36 Hours.

Ely, Nev., Jan. 20.—Saturday night solid ground was reached in the Alpha shaft in the 1,000-foot level in which three miners have been entombed since December 4.

Timbers which had fallen from above were wedged in the shaft, holding back the debris and leaving an opening large enough for the rescuers to crawl through. They descended on a ladder to a point 700 feet below the mouth of the shaft.

The opening extended farther, but just how far is not known. The ladder broke, and this prevented further exploration.

Saturday afternoon mine foreman McAfee descended to within 20 feet of the 1,000-foot level, where he found solid ground. It is now believed the men will be released within 36 hours.

It is rumored that one of the men has lost his mind, the cause being the receipt of a letter announcing the death of his mother.
