A picked team of candle pin players of this city will play a picked team at the Daley alleys at Montpelier this evening. The Barre team will be comprised of R. Marriotti, Rydeberg, T. Davidson, Crowley and Harold Nute.

A fine show was seen at the Pavilion last night. Ross and Shaw, the comedy musical artists, present one of the funniest musical acts ever seen at that popular little theatre. This act is on the pantomime order. They carry a special scene representing the jungles of Africa, where the act is supposed to occur. They depend entirely on action for their comedy, and they are some laugh-makers. They kept the audience doubled up during the entire act. Is is really an act without a dull moment from start to finish. Harry Morgan, the Scotch singer and dancer, was a hit also. His act consists of Scotch songs and dances with a little music thrown in. All his numbers were new and fresh from Scotland, as he is really a Scotchman and has not been long in this country.

Brock, Hugh Boyce, Warner Beck, Luke Beck, Clarence Carr and William Cleveland.

Herbert LaPier of Fair View is exhibiting some beets of the red variety which he believes will be hard to duplicate. A sample of the kind of vegetables he has grown is a beet which measures 2 ft. 1 in. around its largest circumference and 1 ft. 11 in. around another way. A few days ago Mr. LaPier read in a Boston paper of a beet grower who had produced one measuring something over 18 inches for its largest dimension. His figures have the Massachusetts gardener distanced by a good many inches. The king pin of his crop, figures for which are given above, weighs 6 and one-half pounds. Mr. LaPier is a small gardener whose planted plot on Fair View has been the envy of his neighbors for several years back. Some of the bumper beets which he recently harvested have been placed on exhibition in E. M. Lyon's store, where the seeds were procured early last spring.

The Home of Good Overcoats

When we speak of our good overcoats, we mean the kind that are of thoroughly dependable quality, of trustworthy materials, as well as those with style.

You must go farther than mere style, color, or pattern in your selection; for none of these things count after you have worn the garment a week or two, unless there is the quality of workmanship also. If all these points appeal to you we will be glad to serve you from the largest assortment of overcoats, suits and furnishings in town.
