ABOUT THE STATE

HAPPENINGS OF INTEREST FROM DIFFERENT SECTIONS

A carload of calcium chloride has been put upon the streets of Rutland as an experiment, in place of oil or water. This covers about a mile of road, and is expected to gather moisture from the air and thus keep the road moist, keeping the dust down and preserving the road bed. The chloride is in the form of a white powder.

County Fish and Game Warden Hayward of Mendon has on his hands a tiny fawn, which was found in Mendon by Charles H. Lalor. It is scarcely 12 inches high and was very weak from lack of food, but has now been taught to take milk from a cup. Mr. Hayward will try to rear it. When Mr. Lalor first spied the fawn, another was with it, but during his temporary absence the other was carried away by a fox, and he returned just in time to see the end of the tragedy.
