GASOLINE SHORTAGE ON PACIFIC COAST IS PREDICTION MADE

Entire Country May Also be Affected During the Next Year, According to Expert Speaking Before Mining Convention.

[Associated Press Correspondence]

Globe, Ariz., Sept. 22.—A serious gasoline shortage on the Pacific coast the effects of which would extend throughout the entire country during the next year was predicted here today during the closing sessions of the convention of the American institute of mining engineers.

W. H. Hamilton of San Francisco, president of the gasoline industry, said in the discussion. According to Mr. Hamilton, the only possible source of increasing gasoline production are in the increased production of refined oil or creating more gasoline from the grade of market crudes, or a successful innovation in refining methods. Most of these subjects Mr. Hamilton considered to be unfavorable in the immediate future although he said that by lowering the grade of gasoline production could be increased from 10 to 20 per cent. He calculated the future gasoline shortage to decreased production of refined oil (the decrease amounting to [illegible] barrels in 1915) combine increasing consumption, the discontinuance of imports and the heavy exports due to the European war demand.

Discussion of the value of chemistry in the coal mining industry, Francis M. Stanton, federal of a paper read at today's meeting that Americans have in the past been purchasing coal on its heat value rather than because of its heating power. He made public results of experiments which showed dull appearing coal to have better heating and burning properties than the bright coals which have formerly demanded premiums in the market. It is said that this discovery will greatly help to offset the cost of coal production without materially increasing the costs to the consumer.

Tomorrow the engineers will leave Globe on a hundred automobiles for a day's tour of the Apache trail and inspection of the Roosevelt dam, probably the greatest engineering feat of its kind in the world. The trip will be commenced in special train at Phoenix tomorrow night and Sunday will be spent at Grand Canyon. Since the start from New York city on September 1 the eastern party has visited practically every important mining centers of the southwest.

Insanity in Ireland Has Shown Decrease

[Associated Press Correspondence]

Dublin, Ireland, Sept. 22.—Insanity in Ireland has lately shown a decrease, chiefly among women. This is somewhat odd as Ireland's statistics for insanity have always been abnormally high. The superintendent of the asylum at Dublin declares the reason for the decrease is due entirely to the improved standard of living due to the restrictions on the liquor traffic. Many people who lived in poverty are not so extravagant luxury. There are, he declares, solid grounds for the hope that especially among women Ireland will witness a great diminution of mental disorders.

WOMEN'S STOMACH TROUBLES

The Great Woman's Medicine Often Just What Is Needed.

We are so used to thinking of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound as a remedy exclusively for female ills that we are apt to overlook the fact that it is one of the best remedies for disorders of the stomach.

For stomach trouble of women it is especially adapted, as it works in complete harmony with the female organism, since it contains the extracts of the best tonic roots and herbs. It tones up the digestive system, and increases the appetite and strength. Here is what one woman writes showing what this medicine does:—

Newfield, N. Y.—"I am so pleased to say I can recommend Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound as an economical and beneficial remedy in most ailments pertaining to women. At least I found it so by only taking two bottles. I had indigestion in a bad form and I am now feeling in the best of health and owe it all to Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound."—Mrs. Burr Williams, R.D. No. 29, Newfield, N. Y.

Many women suffer from that "all gone feeling," and "feel so faint," while doing their work. Ten chances to one their digestive system is all out of order. A tablespoonful of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound after each meal should completely remedy this condition in a few days.

EASTERN NEW MEXICO IS UNDERGOING MANY CHANGES, SAYS FALES

State Sunday School Missionary Notes a Wonderful Transformation in That Part of State; Great Inrush of Newcomers.

Santa Fe, N. M., Sept. 22.—A. L. Fales, state missionary of the American Sunday School union, who makes his headquarters in Roswell, is now in Santa Fe on several days and gives a great picture of the rapid changes in population that are being recorded in eastern New Mexico. He has photographs of churches and Sunday schools in those sections, showing also large groups of well dressed churchers and adults at work, which have taken place since the past year of two in sections that were absolutely devoid of inhabitants at the time of the last census.

At one place in Guadalupe county, the day he visited, 121 people arrived from Oklahoma and Texas to make their permanent home. At a new township in Union county he witnessed the arrival of a young man and his mother. Within twenty minutes after arrival the young man had bought a business lot and was putting up a garage. In the same place twenty-three business houses were started in one month. As a rule, the dry farmers were those who fared the best although as to be expected some have failed.

Mr. Fales tells of instances of well equipped eastern farmers coming with good equipment, livestock and several thousand dollars to build themselves homes and some had failing unfortunately, which some other fellow, with scarcely any equipment or money, succeeded in making a success. Everywhere in every dry farming community there are more failures than successes, but the successes demonstrate that it is not the land, nor the climate, nor the markets, but the additional knowledge and efficiency that are prerequisites for success. Mr. Fales feels confident that the settlement of eastern New Mexico is permanent and that the influx of newcomers which continues will transform the whole in many respects.

Clinkers

One of the most annoying conditions incidental to the operation of a coal fire is CLINKERS.

Genuine Gas House Coke Will Never Have Clinkers

If you use Gas House coke the coming winter you will never have to let your fire go out to clean out the clinkers that form on the grates. The ashes resulting from Coke fire can always be shaken through the grate and even this is not required oftener than once a day, and in many cases not so frequently, as the bed of ashes reduces the draft and only a very little draft is required when Genuine Gas House Coke is used.
