New Orleans Daily Crescent.

TUESDAY MORNING, APRIL 1, 1862.

FROM ISLAND NO. 10.—An officer high in command at Island No. 10 writes a private letter to this city, dated the 27th, from which we are permitted to make the following extract:

"We are expecting to be attacked by the forces opposite Island No. 10 and Madrid Bend, who, having secured skiffs, flatboats and other boats, will endeavor to take us on our flank and our rear. McCown is charged with the defence of all the country around. Gen. Trudeau expresses his ability to hold the Island against any gunboats that can be brought against him. He thinks they can be sunk by his guns. He has taken all precautions. He is in delicate health from incessant labor and watchfulness, but is resolute and determined."

TALK ON 'CHANGE.

The habitués of Carondelet street yesterday congregated on the shady side of the flags. We are not aware that there was any special necessity of keeping in the shade, except that "Old Sol" poured down his rays with something of a June order. It is hardly necessary to say that the spring time is approaching, with the thermometer ranging from 75 to 80. In fact, the good time is coming for a defeat of the Yankee invaders.

The private talk is, let us all keep quiet. The month of April has arrived, and we feel safe, so far as our city is concerned, because the climate, with the appliances of war, will check the rapacity of the Hessian invaders. At the same time, they are bringing an imposing force to conquer us. It may be all imposing, yet it becomes us to be prepared.

There is talk that some few pretended citizens are hesitating about appearing before the Provost-Marshals and conforming to the mandate of the authorities. It is somewhat surprising that any person of ordinary intelligence should attempt to defy the authorities. At two of the offices of Provost Marshals there were crowds, at others there was no press whatever. Those who intend to take the oath of allegiance have no excuse whatever now. There is ample room for that purpose, but no room for equivocation. Some folks talk that we shall learn "who is who." This is a question that has often been debated, and we are gratified to learn that the time is at hand for its being settled.

There can be no excuse whatever for any individual not appearing before the Provost-Marshals. We have merely to repeat to them, if they do not appear they will be sent after, with something more than a piece of paper issued in peaceable or ordinary times.

The telegraph was silent yesterday; not an item of intelligence was received before the close of business. There was some rather unfavorable intelligence received by mail from Florida, amounting to the surrender of the city or town of Apalachicola to the Yankees. The conquest will not amount to much in the end, as it is a real fever and ague place, with something of a good share of billious fevers always prevailing in warm weather. There were, however, on the 1st September last, 7560 bales of cotton in the warehouses at this place, and unless it has been removed, it will fall into the hands of the invaders, gratis, as it were.

We were gratified to meet yesterday some operators—exporters of cotton and importers of merchandise—in good humor. Though they did not talk freely, they had that pleasant smile indicating some favorable returns of hazardous movements. We can only say, bring in all the arms and powder you can find.

There were many rumors afloat about the Yankee invaders, but nothing of a positive character was ascertained. The steamer Robert Watson, from the New Basin, arrived at Mobile and caused considerable of a decline in sugar and molasses in that market. With little effort, the communication with Mobile can be kept open. This is as plain as that the sun will rise this morning.

It is now definitively settled that the steamer New London, which has been the terror of the Mississippi Sound for six months past, is a privateer, a private armed affair altogether.

Algiers, that is, across the river, is becoming something of a place. We have known it for many years, beyond a quarter of a century; yes, we were well posted up when Segnin was the pioneer of those ship-yards. It has now become a place of some importance, in fact, more than a place. It is the depot of one, that is, the place of reception and departure of one of the most important railways in the Southern Confederacy, say the Opelousas Railroad, besides others. Now this good village of Algiers has a paper, very ably conducted, as one of its attractions. The editor and proprietor comes over to town every two or three days.
