THE NEW YEAR AND THE OLD.

[illegible] our readers who were in New Orleans on the first day of January, 1860, will doubtless be struck with the contrast presented by the first day of January, 1866. Then the country was in the [illegible] of a bloody and devastating war, which did not fail to tell with fearful force on the trade and industry of the city. Even on its amusements; on everything, in short, from which it derives its wealth, the vicissitudes and the metropolitan peculiarities [illegible] a deserted levee, and grass-grown wharves, vacant wharves and empty warehouses, and the solemn stillness which brooded over the busy population, bore witness to the paralyzing effects of war, and threw a death-like pall over a community which had been noted for love and gaiety, for its enterprise and wealth. On the river, war ships and transports filled the places once occupied by the hundreds of trading steamers that brought down the overflowing products of the Mississippi, and of the ships which bore to our port the products of a hundred climes. In the streets the measured tramp of armed men had succeeded to the busy hum of peaceful commerce. Many thousands of our best and bravest and noblest had left their homes, some to find quiet or safety in foreign lands, others to upheld upon the battle field the cause which they had espoused.

Now all is changed. The last year was ushered in by rolling musketry and booming cannon. The horizon was dim with war clouds. The most discerning eye could not detect anything in the future but the "perilous edge of battle" stretched out to what seemed an infinite length. And yet we have been, for nine months, existing in a state of profound peace. Swords which once flashed and clashed in angry combat, have already almost rusted on the wall. Crops have been sown and reaped and gathered on the fields which have been made immortal by glorious deeds. The yellow corn and the snowy cotton have dallied with the breezes that swept the recent graves of departed heroes. A society which but recently was torn by war, and convulsed by revolution, has grown calm with marvelous quickness. Armies that but lately contended with desperation, and rushed impetuously to combat, have dissolved. Soldiers and leaders have returned to their homes to seek, by means of industry and the arts of peace, to repair their broken fortunes, and to regain their prosperity. On the great sea of Southern society there is so be seen not even the tossing waves which usually succeed the storm. All is calm and quiet.

Such is the aspect of the opening year, and such the contrast which this New Year's day presents with the last. Here in New Orleans the contrast is perhaps even greater than elsewhere. We have not only peace, but we enjoy a share of our former prosperity. Our streets are again thronged with busy people, and our levee is again lined with trading craft and steamers. Not, indeed, as in the past years gone by, before the rude hand of war had ravaged our industrial edifice; but still there is enough of life observable, enough of restored animation, to show that we still possess the resources and retain the energy, and will, unless to remedy much that has been deemed irremediable, and to restore much that has been thought irrevocable.

We have, therefore, reason to be thankful for on this 1st day of January, 1866. To be sure we have many things to regret. We have to mourn departed friends who shall never return to gladden us. If we recent chain of still mutely speak to us of those who have gone before to a bourne [illegible] hope, is no "dread bourne" to them. Their memories are sad, but dear while they are sad. They are a part of that new life which it is now our duty to consecrate to a reanimation and a reconstruction of our society. In this work New Orleans will do her full share, and her example, we are sure, will not be without influence and benefit throughout the country. To her people, therefore, we say a "Happy New Year," and many more, still happier than this one bids fair to be.

The choicest of good things, in the way of sparkling (not stomach-ticklers,) can always be [illegible] to the most tempting variety at the store of Tiers, Hill & Murdock, No. 54 Gravier street. [illegible] can chase liquors, cordials, fancy groceries, etc., [illegible] ever [illegible] comparison with any similar goods to come and [illegible] ed, and they challenge everybody perceive our [illegible] them a trial. By the way, we work with Hite and W. C. Driver has gone to a bully team. If you dock—another stout male in you can get it at Hite [illegible] to get a good thing, [illegible] dock's.

The Oil of Palm and [illegible] gives strength and beauty to the hair.

CHOICE GROCERIES.—We beg [illegible] to call the attention of the public to the advertisement of Messrs. Cellos, Allard & Goodwyn, who keep constantly on hand a choice supply of [illegible] kinds of groceries. Messrs. Ferdinand V. Cellos & [illegible] T. Goodwyn are old citizens of New Orleans and have long been identified with its steamboat interest. They have lately taken into partnership Capt. C. O. Allard, of Paducah, Ky., who is also a steamboatman of old standing, favorably known in St. Louis and throughout the Western States. Owners and captains of steamboats are especially invited to call at the store of Messrs. Cellos, Allard & Goodwyn, No. 16 Fulton and 13 Front streets.

COMMERCIAL READING ROOMS.—Mr. Overall has our thanks for an invitation to be present at an entertainment at the reading rooms this evening.

A MERRY NEW YEAR.—The King of Shirts takes this occasion of saluting his friends with the compliments of the season, wishing them all kinds of prosperity, and remarding them at the same time [illegible] Shirts on hand at the same old corner of Canal and Carondelet streets. Everything that is necessary to fit out a gentleman for the most fastidious Bonnemite of the Crescent City.

[illegible] W. H. Hewitt [illegible] that their wand brass [illegible] & Co. advertise to 12 o'clock, at their store on [illegible] to day, from 9 [illegible] the Exchange. Whatever [illegible] street, opposite [illegible] say, but as this is New Year's [illegible] many juicy things in said store, we [illegible] there be and will be there to see.

RE-ESTABLISHMENT OF AN OLD CLOTHING HOUSE.—Messrs. C. C. Garthwaite and Wm. Stuart have gone in with Mr. Wm. M. Lewis in the Tulane Building, Nos. 31 and 33 Camp street, thus reviving the old firm of Garthwaite, Lewis & Stuart. The business in its fullest extent will be continued at the Tulane Building. The same firm operate also at No. 54 Pearl street, New York. See the advertised card.

FAIR GROUNDS JOCKEY CLUB RACES.—The opening of this Spring will require to near that the [illegible] is being fixed for a grand race week, to begin on the 4th of April next, at the Fair Grounds Course. The Fair Grounds Jockey Club will put up purses amounting to $5000, for five days' racing. Stakes for two and three year olds will be opened, and further particulars will soon be made public. These facts are officially announced in our advertising columns.

LYON'S SCHOOL AT CHATAWA, MISS.—The Rev. Albert Lyon's school for boys, at that pleasant and healthful place, Chatawa, Miss., on the Jackson Railroad, but a day's ride from the city, is an institution which we heartily commend to all who have sons to educate. The second session begins on the 15th of February and will continue till the 1st of July. In the advertisement in another column is given the list of teachers, respectively assigned to their different branches, together with terms and all other particulars. Circulars setting forth everything in full may be had of Robert Perkins, Nos. 13 and 15 Camp street.

DIED.

[illegible]

OBITUARY.

Killed at Hardenburg, Ky., on the 19th of October, 1865, in a skirmish between Pickensland's Confederate Cavalry and a company of the Kentucky home Guards, GEORGE W. MCCARROLL, of Lake Providence, La.

Our comrade has fallen! Beneath the soil of Kentucky rests one of Louisiana's noblest sons! Too sure that never quaffed at the sight of a foeman is dimmed forever; he has passed from among us to a brighter and happier clime, and in silence we mourn for him whom we shall see no more.

At the outbreak of the war the subject of the above entered the ranks of the Confederate army, and on many a bloody fought field he gallantly defended the cause he had espoused, and at last yielded up his life as a cheerful sacrifice upon the altar of his country. Was among his old comrades can ever forget George McCarroll, the warm-hearted, generous friend and daring soldier? Yes, we all knew and loved him, and time can never efface his memory from our hearts. He earned no position; his highest ambition was to stand in the front ranks, where he fell, bearing all that man could dare, that victory might perch upon the standard of the South. In the dark hour of adversity, when disaster and defeat had almost draped our flag in the dust, "true his voice that cheered the drooping spirits, and led them look forward to a brighter future. But that voice is now silent, and the stranger who reads the name on the humble head-board, thinks not of the fearless spirit whose grave it marks. Farewell, George. The cause you died for is lost; the flag you so nobly bore has been folded forever; but in our hearts your name is indelibly engraved.

A Few Reasons
WHY WILCOX & GIBBS' SEWING MACHINES
Are superior to All Others.
First—The superiority of their construction.
Second—Their noiseless motion, hardly perceptible in a large room.
Third—Their utility; performing all kinds of sewing in the neatest and strongest manner.
Fourth—The Needles cannot be set wrong, hence do not break, as do others.
Fifth—They do not get out of repair, or require frequent expenditures for "new improvements."
Sixth—Their economy; costing not more than one-half the price of inferior Machines.
Seventh—Their popularity, which is the best indication of their worth; they are now disposed of readily in every city in Europe, superseding every Sewing Machine hitherto in use.
Eighth—They perform their work with regularity and strength, without a false stitch or break, so frequent with others, and can be managed and made to work by a child.
It needs but a trial of these beautiful and simple Sewing Machines, to convince the most skeptical of their superiority over all others manufactured.
Please call and see them in full operation at

GREY JACKET CHIEF.

The peculiar properties of these Bitters are that, whilst possessing all the good qualities of Bitters in general, they INVIGORATE WITHOUT INTOXICATING; are one of the best Tonics ever known, and having been the means of relieving and in many instances saving the lives of thousands on the battle field, can be relied on in all dyspeptic and flatulent disorders.
Every ingredient contained in the article, and everything used in the putting up of these Bitters ARE PRODUCED ON SOUTHERN SOIL, and contain no injurious property.
For sale to dealers and merchants only, at
BARNETT & LION'S
81 and 83 Gravier streets,
New Orleans,
Manufacturers and Sole Proprietors.
And at retail everywhere.

CARD.
The Proprietors, in presenting to the public the above incomparable Bitters, assure them that but for a sense of gratitude to the generous donor of the recipe, and in response to the importunities of the hosts of Southern friends who have experienced their efficacy, they would have hesitated before placing an article of such sterling merit on a market flooded with deleterious compounds, libelling the name of Stomach Bitters. Our Senior, however, having, at the solicitation of those friends, expended on the manufacture of the GREY JACKET BITTERS the experience acquired in half a lifetime devoted to the preparation of Tonic Digestive Stimulants, and discovered their immense superiority over all other Stomach Bitters, we have unhesitatingly added them to the list of articles already prepared at our establishment, and so well known and largely patronized by the community at large.
BARNETT & LION take this seasonable opportunity of thanking their numerous friends for the immense increase in their business during the year, and inform them that, although the manufacture of the GREY JACKET BITTERS must necessarily cause an additional tax on their energies, yet from large additions in the improvements made and making in the manufacturing department of the establishment, their orders will be filled as promptly and they hope as satisfactorily as usual.
