AID for EAST TENNESSEE ORPHANS.—To the Editor of The New-York Times: The Children's Aid Society of this city have been requested by the Secretary of the Christian Commission in East Tennessee, the Rev. E. P. SMITH, to provide homes in the West for about FIFTY ORPHAN CHILDREN of East Tennessee, made orphans by the calamities of this war. They are the sons and daughters of those faithful loyalists who have lost everything for their country. Their unhappy condition appeals to every lover of the Union, and especially to those of us who have escaped the most serious losses and evils of the war. They are the children of the nation. They need, above all, good and kind homes in which to grow up.

This Society are not permitted by their charter, which limits their work to the children of New-York and vicinity, to appropriate their own funds for the aid of these children, but they will gladly offer their machinery for such an act of humanity. They accordingly ask from the public liberal donations, to be used for the food, clothing, and care of these children, the expenses of the journey, and of watching over their welfare in the future. They propose, about the 11th of May, to send our their experienced Western Agent, Mr. TRACY, to meet this little company of American orphans, and to place them in the best Western homes open to them. Donations may be sent to the Treasurer, J. E. WILLIAMS, Metropolitan Bank; or to the President, WM. A. BOOTH, No. 95 Front-st.; or to the Secretary, C. L. BRACE, Clinton Hall, Astor-place.

The prompt and honorable payment of all losses under former Drafts has secured for this Office the entire confidence of its patrons and the public in its ability to promptly meet all losses.

In accordance with the above section, the Clerks of the Board of Fire Commissioners will be in attendance at Firemen's Hall on EVERY TUESDAY and THURSDAY EVENING, from 7 to 9 p. m., during the month of MAY, for the purpose of renewing Exempt Badges.

"ECONOMY IS WEALTH." FRANKLIN, THE GREATEST OF MODERN PHILOSOPHERS remarks that "a penny saved is a penny earned." Instead of destroying your waste paper, preserve it, and receive its equivalent in cash, which we will pay for old newspapers of every description, whole or torn; old pamphlets of all kinds, old circulars, handbills, tickets, cards, catalogues, and old scrap-paper, in all its varieties, in quantities large or small. Also old writing paper, and school books, old blank books, ledgers, &c., of any size, it matters not how much they may be written on or mutilated.

25 ANN-STREET.

A SONG FOR THE MILLION.

Philosophers and learned people say
That nothing in the world can be destroyed;
That all existing at the present day
Hereafter can be usefully employed.
And this is true, in fact, as well as rhymes,
For papers, although old and out of date—
The Journal of Commerce, Herald, Tribune, Times—
We buy by hundreds at a liberal rate.

Thousands of volumes, although torn and old,
And books, once blank, with writing covered o'er,
At Ann-st., twenty-five, can now be sold,
For cash, by millions, be they less or more.
Then "waste not trifles," let your motto be—
Collect your books and papers, every size,
Give us a call, and you will quickly see
The price we give for what we advertise.

STOCKWELL & EMERSON, 25 ANN-STREET.

From The Sunday Mercury.

A CAPITAL IDEA.—A gentleman who had a mania for collecting worthless old papers, old books, old pamphlets, etc., was suddenly reduced to poverty last April, by the failure of a firm whose paper he had indorsed. On Monday, he was complaining to a friend that he had not enough money to buy a meal! "Why don't you sell your old papers, etc.?" asked the other. "Who would buy them?" queried the poor fellow. "Why, Stockwell & Emerson of 25 Ann-st. will pay you a good price for them." It was enough; the old pamphlets, etc., were at once sent to the above-named firm, and the owner received nearly $100 for them.

STOCKWELL & EMERSON, No. 25 ANN STREET.

A SONG FOR THE PEOPLE.

All papers the size of The Herald,
The Journal of Commerce and Times,
And Tribune I buy by the hundred,
And readily pay out the dimes.
We take every hundred brought to us,
At seventy to seventy-five cents,
And papers of all other sizes
We purchase, nor care for expense.

If papers are torn, 'tis no matter,
We care not a straw for the looks;
And we readily buy up old volumes,
With all kinds of written blank books.
Then pamphlets we take by the thousand,
With books of all kinds and degrees,
So call at our store in Ann street,
You'll find us quite ready to please.

STOCKWELL & EMERSON, No. 25 ANN STREET.

PARODY ON A POPULAR SONG.

I dreamed that I wandered through newspaper hall,
Where talent and science were blended,
But soon I deserted those lower walls,
And up to the garret ascended.
There were papers by thousands, both wrinkled an old,
All sorts, all descriptions and sizes—
And I knew they d bring money if taken and sold,
To Stockwell & Emerson, as they advertise.

There were blank books and pamphlets of every degree,
In every state you could mention;
The sight of these matters was pleasing to me,
And attracted my earnest attention—
For I knew that their value was equal to gold,
When at Stockwell & Emerson's they chanced to arrive,
For there, when 'tis taken, 'tis easily sold,
The place is Ann-st., twenty-five.

STOCKWELL & EMERSON, No. 25 ANN-ST.

SAVE YOUR WASTE PAPER.

Old newspapers, mutilated books, pamphlets, and the different varieties of paper that accumulate in every house, and which is generally looked upon as rubbish, should be sent to Stockwell & Emerson of No. 25 Ann-st. They are paying liberal prices for all descriptions of waste paper, better than any one in the trade.

STOCKWELL & EMERSON, No. 25 ANN-ST.

MAKE MONEY.—Now is the time for people to make money, or to save it, which amounts to the same thing. Heretofore large quantities of paper have been wasted in every household, because it was so cheap that people would not be troubled with saving it. Rags which brought one and two cents a pound were carefully collected, and when a sufficient quantity was on hand they would be sold to replenish the pin-money of the housewife. Now old papers, books or pamphlets will bring six and seven cents per pound, and we believe Messrs. Stockwell & Emerson of No. 25 Ann-st., are paying even higher rates than these, and it is therefore the part of economy with housewives everywhere to save the paper hitherto wasted, and by sending it to these gentlemen receive the ready cash for it. This can be done by persons living in the country, as well as those who reside in the city. All they have to do is to pack their papers in a compact bundle and direct them to Stockwell & Emerson, No. 25 Ann-st., New-York, giving their own name and address, and forward them to these gentlemen, when they will receive immediate returns in "greenbacks." Paper is precious now, and our readers would do well to remember that in this matter economy is wealth.—[Police Gazette.

SAVE THE PIECES.

Who would not economize by selling old papers, instead of throwing them away? Messrs. Stockwell & Emerson of No. 25 Ann-st. will pay the most liberal prices for old books, old pamphlets, newspapers, and every description of waste paper, and will wait upon any party desiring to dispose of such articles, on receiving a note to that effect. Gather up your old papers, and get a good price for them.

STOCKWELL & EMERSON, No. 25 ANN-ST.

Brooklyn Daily Times.

LOOK OUT YOUR OLD PAPER.

"We would call the attention of our readers to the advertisement of Stockwell & Emerson. They offer the highest prices for old newspapers, pamphlets, and all kinds of waste paper. This is good news to those who want to realize on their increasing stock of books and papers. Paper is pretty high just now, and old paper is worth a good price."

STOCKWELL & EMERSON, No. 25 ANN-ST.

From The Sunday Atlas.

"SELL OFF YOUR OLD PAPER.—Stockwell & Emerson, No. 25 Ann-st., are doing an immense business in the purchase of old paper of every description. They pay liberal prices in cash for old pamphlets, newspapers, manuscripts, and other useless trash in the shape of paper.

"WASTE NOT, WANT NOT.—You should not waste anything—not even a piece of old paper; for, by carefully hoarding up all your waste scraps, such as old newspapers, pamphlets, circulars, and all kinds of odds and ends, you can turn them into cash. Messrs. Stockwell & Emerson, No. 25 Ann-st., give a good price for such material, and will call at any address to make purchases. Therefore waste nothing."

From The Evening Post.

THE HIGH PRICE OF PAPER.—The great and inevitable medium of intelligence, paper, is now sufficiently advanced in price to admonish all to be careful of it. It is now bought by the dealers at from six to seven cents per pound; and this fact has induced tens of thousands to sell their surplus gathering of antiquated books and journals. In one establishment, Stockwell & Emerson, No. 25 Ann-st., over one ton and a half of newspapers and pamphlets is purchased daily. These are sent in bundles of 200 pounds to the mills in Massachusetts and other places to be remanufactured. In the bags may be seen a curious and heterogeneous mass of documents—all tumble Jumbled—the writings indicating that that extraordinary scarce commodity in these latter days—brains. One canvas receptacle contained, for instance, chirographic and printed works, among them the life of St. James, Sermons against the small-pox, Diogenes's Courtship, Calvin a Murderer, Adventures of Larry O'Gaff, etc. Here was a strange mixture, created by the advanced price of paper. Old volumes of New-York newspapers, which committed certain editors to measures they now denounce, also appeared in the bag, and the dealers put them at the bottom, as if ashamed of the transformation which time had effected in such ancient scribes.

The dealers, with Goth-like impunity, divest the books thus sold to them of their covers. How a connoisseur's heart would ache to see Salmist or the Praises of Hell in their earliest dress, appearing in the mere nakedness of its red and black title—with its clasped parchment cast on a heap of rubbish, formed of scraps of posters and other materials, which a dozen of women are busily assorting for the mills. Yet such is the sight which is hourly presented at the establishments of the paper-dealer. The mills and the editors lack paper—and the science which are preserved in successive generations with fanatical fondness, must reappear—undimmed, and unmarked by the records of the past, or the thoughts and fancies of other ages, in order to enable us to print the battles, murders, outrages, etc., of our day. We advise, therefore, all who have a quantity of old paper on hand, to sell it, as they will get a better price for it now than in ordinary times, when the supply of printing paper is abundant. The proprietors of libraries, and the owners of large establishments, especially, should now a days be particularly careful of their old books and waste paper, as there is a class now in the city, who, well aware of the high prices which they can get for them, sell them to old paper-dealers.

[See our illustrated catalogue for explicit testimony to their superiority, from a majority of the most eminent organists in America.] Prices, $85 to $500 each.

CAUTION TO PURCHASERS.—The great reputation which our Cabinet Organs have obtained, and the extensive demand for them, have induced dealers to advertise, in some cases, quite different instruments as Cabinet Organs, and in others to represent to purchasers that Harmoniums and other reed organs are the same thing. This is not true. The excellencies of our Cabinet Organs, which have given them their high reputation, are the result not merely of the superiority of their workmanship, but also, in large measure, of essential differences in construction, which, being patented, cannot be imitated by other makers. From these arise their better quality and volume of tone and unrivaled capacity for expression. Warerooms in New-York, No. 7 Mercer-st. MASON BROTHERS.
