New Orleans Daily Crescent.

THURSDAY MORNING, AUGUST 30, 1866.

LETTER FROM WASHINGTON.

Special Correspondence of the New Orleans Crescent.]

WASHINGTON CITY, Aug. 20, 1866.

Editor Crescent—The adjournment of the revolutionary body assuming to be, and exercising the powers of the Congress of the United States, has relieved the capital from the hot fever of political agitation under which it has so long suffered. Washington may be said to be the great nerve-center and blood-center of the United States. Whatever effect is impressed upon it, is instantly shot quivering along the large arterial channels and lesser veins of the body politic to the remotest confines of American thought and feeling. When Washington is tranquil, a blessed repose sheds its peaceful influence upon all the wide land.

Your correspondent chanced to alight in Washington at this present period of comparative tranquility; when the healthful air is no longer laden with the howls of furious faction; when halls, consecrated in theory to the grave purposes of one of the co-ordinate departments of representative government, are no longer dishonored and abased by the obscene orgies of a political Sabat. They rest now under silence, which, in mercy and in "decent respect for the opinions of mankind," one might wish to be perpetual.

The senseless ravings of mediocre talent—the vile devices of reckless and malignant power—which recognized as the sole purpose of legislation the perpetuation of oppression, whose political creed is founded upon the gospel of persecution and the saving efficacy of fraud, of perjury, and of subornation of perjury—whose wine is gall and whose sacrament is blood—all this has for the passing time ceased. Under the lofty dome, and within the sounding arches of the columned capitol, the hum of quiet conversation and the echoing step of passing spectators alone stir the pleasing quiet. Better that this quiet should remain undisturbed until the equilibrium of republican government is restored by the admission to the exercise of their constitutional functions of the representatives of eleven sovereign States of this divided Union. The radical members of the "rump" Congress late in session have hastened to their respective constituencies to prepare for the coming elections, to endeavor to perpetuate their desperate grasp upon the reins of power. The people—the source of all just power—are to be deceived by fraud and misrepresentation. The lithographed lies of "Harper's Weekly" are to be embellished by copious commentaries by "our special artists and correspondents!"—Stevens, Sumner, Banks, Wade, Trumbull & Co.

It is even possible that the authority of the immaculate Evangel, Wells, may be quoted to expound radical scriptures. He is the "beloved disciple." The National Union party will not be idle. Energetic measures—comprehending the Union in its entirety—will be taken to consolidate the conservative thoughts of the Northern masses. As a rule, the instincts of the people are unfailing as the promises of Revelation. The President, relying on he has always relied, upon those instincts, has thrown himself upon the people for support, with an abiding faith in their virtue and patriotism. They will not desert him. Under the apparently quiet surface of affairs the forward movement of invincible conservatism goes on. The swell of the tide is becoming visible, and we know that the motion of the surface commenceth, by the pressure of cohesion, its flowing energy to the lowest depths of the seas, and receives in its turn strength and power from the vast active mass of underlying waters. The coral insect labors in silence and unseen. No measure is taken of the grand proportions of its invisible architecture. But for all that, it builds up structures which dwarf the achievements of man, and vanquish the decay of time—towers and citadels, and pyramids—cities under the sea—strange and beautiful in accuracy of instinctive labor—enduring forever, because of the effect of heaven-directed conservatism, whose mission is to create and to maintain, and not to destroy.

The past week has witnessed a solemn and impressive ceremony in the Presidential mansion. You are aware that before its adjournment the National Union convention appointed a committee of two from each State, one from each territory and one from the District of Columbia, to convey to the President an authentic copy of the proceedings of the convention. The presentation took place on Saturday last. Your correspondent accompanied the large crowd in attendance upon an occasion of so important a character. The ceremony took place in the east room. The President stood nearly in the center of the room, surrounded by the members of his cabinet, except Mr. Seward, who was sick, and Mr. Stanton, whose absence was and is unexplained. General Grant stood on the right hand of the President. The committee formed a circle around the President. Soon Hon. Reverdy Johnson, the chairman of the committee, addressed the President on behalf of the committee and of the convention. His address was an able and eloquent history of the proceedings of the convention, and a exposition of the principles and purposes of the National Union party. He closed with an assurance to the President of cordial and sincere support by the convention and by the people, of the great and wise policy pursued by the executive, upon which depended the liberties of the people and the continuance of republican government.

The President appeared profoundly moved. He began his reply in a low and tremulous voice, but as he proceeded, the fitful rise and fall of utterance steadied itself, and strengthened into an even and vigorous flow of speech. His massive and thoughtful face was kindled with enthusiasm when he declared that "the only safety is to stand upon the broad principles of liberty and the Constitution, there was not power enough on earth to drive him from it." I thanked God that the country had a President whose wisdom, whose courage, and whose moral greatness, were of the highest and purest order.

The whole people owe to Mr. Johnson a liberal measure of respect and confidence, but there is due him from the Southern people peculiar gratitude and veneration. It is true he is fighting the battles of the Constitution, the common object of reverence, and the common ægis of protection to the whole country. But the violations of that sacred instrument, which fall but lightly upon the prosperous North, fall with crushing weight upon the homeless, helpless and desolated South. Therefore, I say, there is due to the President from the South peculiar gratitude and veneration.

The reports of the addresses of the President and of the Hon. Reverdy Johnson, which appear in the papers, are remarkably correct. Both of those distinguished gentlemen were often interrupted by bursts of applause, and the enthusiasm which arose responsive to the President's was universal and earnest. The citizens of this city almost unanimously sustain the executive policy.

The presence of General Grant upon the right hand of the President was significant of his approbation of the principles upon which the policy of the administration is conducted. The radicals who have claimed that distinguished soldier as in sympathy with their destructive schemes, are startled and discouraged by this emphatic denial of their pretensions.

How could it be otherwise than it is? How could General Grant, whose devotion to the Union has been signalized on a hundred fields—whose name is associated with the Union, as one of its strongest bulwarks—how could he dishonor his principles and tarnish his glory by abetting a sectional party, whose object is disunion, and whose success would be despotism?

Forney's Chronicle, in its account of the proceedings of Saturday, omitted all mention of Gen. Grant's participation—a silence significant of disappointment and apprehension.

It is probable that mass meetings will be held all over the North to indorse the action of the National Union Convention. I suggest the propriety of having meetings for a similar purpose all over the South. There should be a Southern movement responsive to the Northern movement. It is eminently proper that this course should be pursued in all the Southern cities—the large centers of population. Let New Orleans blaze with patriotic fires.

I have been as yet unable to see Queen Emma—the nation's guest; and now particularly Mr. Seward's guest. Owing, it is said, to the irrepressible intrusion of American curiosity—invading in any shape the privacy of her majesty, the secretary of state offered her the security of his private residence. The queen speaks English fluently, and with only a slight accent. She is said to be graceful and self possessed in her manners, has a pleasing and intelligent face, and dresses with simplicity and good taste. She is queen dowager of the kingdom of Hawaii, which numbers about one hundred and ten thousand inhabitants.

But enough for the present. ELSIE.

Last year $5400 were set apart to pay the expenses of the commission sent to hold conferences and negotiate with the Indian tribes west of the Arkansas. The commission was absent two months, and had interviews with the representatives of seventy-five thousand Indians. The accounts have just been settled, from which it appears that all the expenses, including presents to the Indians, amounted to only about $10,000, an extraordinary low figure, considering the circumstances connected with the important mission.

The above is from a Washington dispatch. It is incredible.

MARINE EXHIBITION AT BOULOGNE.—An international marine exhibition was to open at Boulogne on the 10th inst. Norway, Holland, Denmark, Prussia, England, Ireland and Scotland have already forwarded contributions of the various fishing tackle made use of in those countries, as well as of valuable works, drawings, prints, etc., bearing on marine subjects.

DR. MAGGIEL'S PILLS AND SALVE—

A NEW AND GRAND EPOCH IN MEDICINE.

Dr Maggiel's Pills and Salve.

These wonderful Medicines are now as familiar to the people that but little indorsement of their value as a Physic need be made. The Pills of Dr. Maggiel contain no mineral. They do not gripe, and they do not enfeeble the system by extreme purging. They are universal in creating

A VIGOROUS APPETITE!

And correspondingly strengthen the digestion. They tone the Liver, clear the Head, and steady the Nerves. To those who are not familiar with the use of

DR. MAGGIEL'S PILLS,

As an anti-bilious remedy, the following extracts from various letters will be, it is hoped, of sufficient importance to justify the quoting of them here:

What the Patients Say of Dr. Maggiel's Pills and Salve.

"The best Pills for headache I ever had."

"My liver works like an engine, thanks to your Pills."

"I am pleased to say to you, Dr. Maggiel, that I would not be without a box of your Pills for curing me of morning nausea, for the world."

"You will find inclosed one dollar; Your Pills are only 25 cents, but I consider them worth to me one dollar."

"Dear Doctor—My tongue had a fur on it every morning like the back of a cat. Your Pills took it away."

"I took half a pill and crushed it to powder, and gave it in jelly to my little baby for cholera morbus. The dear little pet was well in three hours after."

"I suppose it is hardly worth while to tell you my burned foot has got well from the use of your Salve. Inclosed find 25 cents for another box to keep in the house."

"Send me another box of Salve."

"Inclosed find 75 cents for two boxes of your Maggiel's Pills and one of Salve."

"The most gentle yet searching medicine I ever swallowed."

MAGGIEL'S PILLS AND SALVE

Are almost universal in their effects, and a cure can be almost always guaranteed.

FOR BILIOUS DISEASES

Nothing can be more productive of cure than these Pills. Their almost magic influence is felt at once; and the usual concomitants of the most distressing disease are removed. These remedies are made from the purest

VEGETABLE COMPOUNDS.

They will not harm the most delicate female, and can be given with good effect in prescribed doses to the youngest babe.

FOR CUTANEOUS DISORDERS
