THE RED RIVER COUNTRY.

TIP.

Having heard so much about the "Red River of the North," one would imagine it equal to the James, the York, or the St. Johns, but it is no greater in appearance than the Kentucky River. It is a narrow, shallow, quiet stream that flows North through a country so level that you can scarcely tell which way the river runs. The bottoms are five to twenty miles wide on each side of the river, are ten to forty miles across, and break up into a beautifully undulating country that extends hundreds of miles away. The river and its tributaries lie principally in Minnesota and Dakota, and drain an area of 30,000 square miles, or 20,000,000 acres.

North Minnesota and North Dakota are the most beautiful portions of those two countries. The eastern portion of Minnesota abounds with pine timber, but west of that timber is exceedingly scarce. In fact it is found only along the rivers and around the lakes. The vast bottoms of Red River are level as a parlor floor, but not swampy. Anywhere ten thousand acres can be staked off, and a depression one foot lower than the general level can not be found. Grass grows everywhere, and grows naturally. Gullies and unsightly bare places are not known. Corn will not grow because the season is too short. Wheat is the principal crop. Wheat is to that country what cotton is to Georgia, oranges to Florida, tomatoes to Maryland and sugar to Louisana.

The farmer has a wonderfully easy time. He has no corn to plant, thin, plow, cut, shuck, shell, &c, and that relieves him of half his hard work. He has no fences to build, briars to cut, stumps to pull, or rocks to remove. He rides to plow, rides to sow, rides to reap and to mow. He threshes his wheat without stacking, and hauls to the railroad without housing. Every station has its elevator, or several of them.

If a man has stock he fences off a small pasture in which to keep them. But he doesn't need any stock more than a few cows and horses.

The country is filling up rapidly. railroads are increasing at an astonishing rate. The St. Paul, Minneapolis and Manitoba system has this year built seven hundred miles of road. It now has two thousand miles in Minnesota and Dakota, and several hundred in Montana. I traveled down and up the Red River, and away West into Montana, besides making other journeys. At every station there were evidences of new comers. An air of thrift pervades the entire country. There are no evidences of distitution, and none of idleness.

One of the finest countries I ever saw was in the Devils Lake region. The lake is a grand body of salt water sixty or seventy miles long, and five to twenty broad. It is one of the most beautiful bodies of water in the world. Surrounded with trees, it has a fine range of timbered mountains on the south side, and all around a grand country, undulating and rich. The town of Devils Lake is situated on north side, and is a delightful place of several thousand people. One of the best equipped and most prosperous looking newspaper offices I have ever seen in a town of the size, is the Devils Lake Inter-Ocean. On the south side is the town of Minnewaukon, and two steamers, one rather large, ply between the towns. Fort Totton is also south of the Lake. The Indians have a tradition that in the long ago two hostile tribes engaged in battle on the Lake in their bark canoes. During the battle, the Devil came up out of the water and scooped them all under They then called the Lake Minnewaukon, which means Devil water, hence the name—Devils Lake. I visited lakes Minnetonka, Pewaukee and Oconomowoc along the way, and think Devils Lake much more attractive than any of the others.

Among the residents of Devils Lake I found Mr. William Stuart and his son, Mr. George Stuart, both formerly of Clark county, Ky. The senior Stuart was a brother to the late S. G. Stuart, Sheriff of Clark. They are charmed with Dakota, and expect never to return to Kentucky. George Stuart weighed one hundred and forty pounds when he went to Dakota, three years ago, and now weighs two hundred and twenty.

At Argyle in north Minnesota, I saw the farm of Mr. Ramsey. It contains thirty thousand acres, and is all in wheat. Mr. Ramsey is a son of the Earl of Dalhausen, or some such a name, and married Miss Garrison of New York, a great-grand-daughter of Capt. James Estill, the famous pioneer of Madison county, Ky. Mr. Ramsey has an older brother who is a Lord and member of Parliament, but has no children, and some day I shall expect to see this great-grand-son-in-law of Madison county a Lord and member of Parliament.

The Ryan farm, farther up the river, contains forty thousand acres. Mr. Ryan lives in St. Paul, and looks strikingly like Mr. Ben Langford of Clays Ferry.

Away out at Fort Buford, 1,500 miles from Richmond, I met a Mr. Crofton, son of the commander of the post. When I told him I was from Kentucky, he asked what place, and when I said Richmond, he instantly asked, "do you know Wild Bill?" "What's his other name?" I asked. "Phelps," he said; "I knew him out east at Andover College." I knew he must have meant our George, and informed him accordingly.

I travelled sixteen hundred miles in Minnesota and Dakota, and I never found such agreeable railroad men on any system as those of the St. Paul, Minneapolis and Manitoba road. From General Passenger Agent, C. H. Warren, and his chief clerk, Mr. W. H. Connor, on down, they are a royal lot. There's Mr. W. D. Scott, conductor between Barnesville and St. Vincent—a hundred miles or more. He answered all the thousand and one questions I asked and that in the most intelligent and pleasant way, and turned me over to the Manitoba conductor with a wish that he could carry me on to Winnipeg. And there's Mr. T. E. Driscoll, who's run is between the growing electric-light-water-works-brick-built town of Crookston, Minn., and the far western wooden town of Minot in the Mouse River country. Driscoll would sit up every night in the week to accommodate a friend, and not consider it any hardship. I should not forget Mr. Birkheim, who runs between Larimore and Castleton. He is a walking encyclopedia of Dakota information, and imparts it with grace and patience.

Cold? Yes. The thermometer doesn't hesitate to creep down into the thirties and forties, and sometimes the fifties below zero. But it is a dry quiet, cold. When it freezes up in November it remains dry and frozen all winter. There is no mud, and slush and rain; and there are no sudden changes. Heavier boots are worn in Kentucky than in Dakota. Besides that a man has nothing to do but stay in the house.

The sun rises about 8 o'clock, and sets about 9 o'clock, in June; but in December it gets even by rising at 9 and setting at 3. The northern boundary of Dakota and Minnesota is 49 degrees North Laitude, or 12 degress north of Richmond. Heavy fur coats are much worn in winter.

I met an accommodating gentleman at Fort Buford. I refer to Mr. G. W. Hedderich, the Post Trader. He loaned me his Winchester rifle and gave me all the cartridges I wanted. I walked fourteen miles and killed a raven sixty yards off hand, but it was the only respectable shot I made that day. Game is exceedingly scarce. I saw a dress parade and heard the excellent military band at the fort. Fort Buford is on the upper Missouri River at the mouth of the famous Yellowstone, and on the line between Dakota and Montana.

Mr. A. C. Sine shipped Wednesday, a poplar tree that he bought from Mr. George T. McRoberts' knob place near town, which he says is the largest tree he ever handled. It was 56 inches at the butt and there were six cuts ranging from 8 to 14 feet long. There were 8,664 feet of lumber in them and Mr. Mc. received over $17 for the giant as it stood in the forest.—Stanford Journal.

OPINIONS OF OTHER EDITORS.

THEY UNDERSTAND THEIR PRESIDENT.
Cincinnati Enquirer.

The President's little speeches seem to please the people.

EASY TO SAY.
Poughkeepsie News-Press.

Mr. Blaine is reported to have said that he wouldn't accept the Presidency as a gift. That is easy to say. No class of people now living intends to make him a gift of the Presidency.

OHIO'S PRIZE IDIOT.
Chicago Herald.

Foraker, of Ohio, is nothing if not an ass, but his previous performances in the line of assinity have been quite outdone by his conduct since his return from the Constitutional Convention at Philadelphia.

CAN THIS BE TRUE?
Sioux City Times.

The Salvation Army will set apart one night this week when prayers will be offered for the salvation of the numerous Sioux City people who are living together as man and wife but who are not married.

FOREIGN ANARCHISTS.
Hudson Register.

Look over the list of Anarchists who are braying in behalf of the Chicago murderers; look over the list of the men who are threatening to subvert American law and destroy American institutions—not a native born American will you find.

PROFIT AND PATRIOTISM.
St. Louis Republican.

President Cleveland's advice to business men not to neglect the duties of self-government is sound and patriotic; but when a man's time gets to be worth from $10 to $100 an hour it is hard to induce him to bestow much of it on his country.

KEEPING QUIET.
Enquirer.

New York City has been investigating her "Children's Home," and found, among other things, that there had been a free use of liquor to quiet noisy infants. One of seven years and one of three are said to have been found in a state of complete intoxication, lying on the floor. It is hardly possible to comment on a case of that character in decorous language. It is enough to state it.

THE DIFFERENCE.
Omaha World.

Omaha Boy (in New York)—What are all those men rushing into that place for? New York Boy—That's a bucket-shop. "What's that?" "They buy and sell stocks there on margins same as they do in the Exchange." "O! its another Exchange, eh?" "No, it's bu-ket-shop." "Well, how do you tell the difference?" "Why, one is a great big building and the other is a little bit of a one."

HYPOCRITICAL WAILING.
Detroit Free Press.

The one expenditure which seems to wring the soul of Protectionists with anguish is the item of $4,000,000 or thereabouts, expended in collecting the internal revenue. Mr. Sherman can hardly speak of it without tears in his eyes for the poor, defrauded people; and even Mr. Kelley, notwithstanding his familiarity with iron, finds his heart soft and his voice husky as he refers to the iniquity of imposing this burden on the people.

DEMOCRATIC EDITORS.
Waterloo Observer.

There was no editorial annex to the Democratic convention at Saratoga yesterday, such as was conceived and carried out at the Republican convention. Democratic editors do not require to combine under an iron clad oath to support their ticket. They will do it heartily without any coercion, and consequently do not require such an organization as their Republican brethren entered into.

TARIFF.
New York Star.

The Atlanta Constitution is making a serious mistake in trying to run Senator Colquitt out of the party because he is a free trader. If he persists in this policy Mr. Howell will be apt to find that he has got hold of a boomerang. The people are getting tired of paying taxes on the necessaries of life for the sake of enriching rich manufacturers and piling up a surplus in the Treasury, which only serves to unsettle the financial condition of the country.

THE BASE BALL BROTHERHOOD.
Baltimore American.

Base-ball is unquestionably the great national game. People from one end of the country to the other are interested in it. Thousands of dollars are invested in it. Nothing will insure its permanent hold on popularity so successfully as a scheme that will improve the personal of the players and give them adequate financial protection. The Brotherhood is the practical embodiment of this purpose. Its intention is to reach further than the mere question of sajaries and to secure more respectability among the men. This is one of the great points in its favor.

MASSACHUSETTS REPUBLICANS AND CHEAP WHISKY.
Philadelphia Record.

In the same platform in which the Republicans of Massachusetts recommend a repeal of the internal tax on whisky they resolve in favor of submitting an amendment to prohibit the manufacture and sale of alcholic liquors. While they are devoted to the cause of temperance and the encouragement of all other virtues, they would rather drench Massachusetts with cheap whisky than permit any interference with a tariff system which enables its manufacturing monopolies to make dear the clothing, blankets, flannels and other necessaries of the people.

AN EXPERIMENT WITH A GUILLOTINED HEAD.
Science.

The superstition that human beings should sleep with their heads to the North is believed by the French to have for its foundation a scientific fact. They affirm that each human system is in itself an electric battery, the head being one of the electrodes, the feet the other. Their proof was discovered from experiments which the Academy of Sciences was allowed to make on the body of a man who was guillotined. This was taken the moment it fell and placed upon a pivot, free to move as it might. The head part, after a little vacillation, turned to the North, and the body then remained stationary. It was turned half way round by one of the professors, and again the head end of the trunk moved slowly to the cardinal point due North, the same results being repeated until the final cessation of organic movement.

PRESIDENT CLEVELAND.
Philadelphia Enquirer (Rep.)

The visit of the President of the United States to Philadelphia revealed to those of his fellow-citizens with whom he was brought into personal contact a different man from the one they knew from representation. The portraits of him with which they were familiar, whether drawn by pen or pencil, did not denote him truly. There are fine, noble lines of intellectuality and feeling in his face, which the portraits have not given; he has characteristics of the head and heart which have not been shown by the portraits. After seeing this mentally strong, bright man, it is folly to talk of his having achieved his present high position by mere accident, chance or luck. He achieved it by the possession and use of remarkable abilities, and his thought, speech, manner, appearance all go to prove it. His popularity in Philadelphia to day ten thousand times greater than it was a week ago. His praises are in the mouths of those of wisest censure, of those opposed to him politically, whose respect and confidence he won during his brief visit here by the fine dignity and courtesy of his manner, his strong, fibrous intelligence, his evident sincerity of purpose and patriotic spirit. In view of his personal popularity, it will be well for those who are to select a leader to oppose him in the Presidential campaign to make no mistake. They should understand, what is to those who have seen Mr. Cleveland the most obvious truth, that he will be a candidate hard to beat. It will be best to recognize that fact early, so that opportunity may be taken advantage of to shrewdly select his Republican opponent. To be forewarned in this case is to be forearmed.

NEWS PARAGRAPHS.

Dr. Fielding, a Knoxville colored man, has inherited $60,000 from his father to whom a large property was left by his master, a southern Kentucky farmer.

The State Normal School, for the training of colored teachers, began its first session at Frankfort Wednesday with eleven students present and the expectation of double that number in a short time. Tuition is free.

A syndicate of Springfield and Eastern capitalists has purchased 68,000 acres of coal land in Breathitt county, Ky., and will at once proceed to open the mines and build railroads through the country. The company has organized with $3,000,000 capital.

Mrs Garfield and Miss Mollie Garfield sailed from New York Wednesday for Europe to visit Miss Mary Mason, Mrs. Garfield's niece, who is dying in London. They will not return until next spring, and it was because of this fact that the marriage of Miss Garfield and Mr. Brown, was postponed.

At the ball given by the Veiled Prophets of St. Louis, Mrs. President Cleveland was gorgeously attired in a gown of bright ruby plush, made with a simplicity as to outlines that well set out the contour of her fine figure. The train fell in long, rich folds, and the skirt in the clinging manner natural to plush. The pointed boudice was cut away in a square in the front of the corsage and in a small V at the back, Duchess lace following its outlines and resting against the white neck. A narrow fall of the lace also shaded the otherwise sleveless arms, which were covered to a point above the elbows with light tan gloves. A riviere of diamonds circled her throat, and solitaires sparkled at her ears, and diamond stars and a crescent of the purest sparklers flashed against the close Grecian coil in which her dark hair was arranged and in the loose waves of her Langtry bangs.

The Niobrara Land and Cattle Company, incorporated in East St. Louis, St. Clair county, Illinois, has made an assignment to Judge Keifer, of Belleville, Illinois. Their nominal assets are $250,000, upon which they will realize from 25 to 50 per cent. Their liabilities are $350,000. One year ago the round-up showed 39,000 fat cattle in hand, for which they were offered $1,000,0000. The June round-up reported but 9,000 head, and the September round-up showed no improvement. The paper accordingly could not be met and they determined to wind up the affairs. The paper is held by Eastern and Lt. Louis banks. Newman & Farr, of the Stock-yards Bank, were principal stockholders, and before the assignment was made they transferred their bank to Isaiah Klox, paying him a bonus to assume all responsibilities. Mrs. Farr mortgaged her home in Vandeventer Place for $30,000 to meet this bonus. The Mechanics' Bank of St. Louis paid the depositors of the Stock-yards Bank in full, paying out $200,000. The bank will continue in business.

THE "BUSY BEE" CASH STORE

Began business less than one year ago with the firm determination to make a struggle through years to come for comfort and independence, doing business upon the smallest shade of profit ever attempted in the County,

WITH NO THOUGHT OF GETTING RICH IN A DAY.

We can now look back over the brief period behind us with, we trust, a pardonable pride at a degree of success rarely obtained by any house in so short a time, and an amount of patronage and encouragement

That Awakens Our Profoundest Gratitude Toward the PEOPLE OF MADISON AND SURROUNDING COUNTIES.

We can afford to be liberal to the verge of recklessness, and all departments in our house are filled to overflowing with bargains. All departments are greatly enlarged for this season with the most attractive assortment of fall and winter goods ever seen in Richmond.

The Dry Goods Department

is unequalled in quantity and price. Domestics, such as Cantons, and all-wool Flannels, lower than for years. Jeans and Pants stuff of all kinds cheaper than ever.

The Clothing Department

is a Clothing Store in itself. Bargains never known in this market before. Suits and parts of suits at less money than you could buy the material alone for. Call and examine splendid drives in suits and pants.

Ladies' Wraps.

All shapes and styles of garments in favor this season. We intend to make this Department a great feature of our business. Do not think of buying a Cloak or Jacket until you have seen our stock and heard prices now and striking for cheapness.

Boots and Shoes.

We sell almost all custom-made work, and at the lowest prices ever known even for common Eastern goods. You always save from 50 cents to $1 in a pair of shoes bought from us. We buy them low for cash and sell them cheap for glory and a small shade of profit.

Our house is now the known head-quarters for Trunks and Valises. We have revolutionized the trade on them. The handsomest and cheapest Trunks in the State are shown by us; look and be convinced.

Blankets, Spreads, and Comforts are piled mountain high on our counters, and at prices that dishearten competitors and capture the trade of the street. When it comes to cash down we wrap up a pair of beautiful blankets for 10 to 25 cents profit, and we buy them down low, you bet.

HATS AND CAPS.—Our record and reputation for selling bargains in these goods can't be matched. The cheapest and best hats shown anywhere are constantly displayed on our shelves and counters. We never fail to please in style, quality and price.

THE RECORD BEATEN.—With the splendid name this house has for selling Notions cheap, this season will eclipse all past experience. We will display the grandest assortment of handkerchiefs, hosiery, ties, gloves, and the thousand other articles useful and beautiful that can be found in any city. It is a fairy-land itself. Come and look, even if you need nothing. We study day and night how much we can give our customers for a dollar.

THE CARPET DEPARTMENT has been greatly enlarged and added to. The prettiest patterns and lowest prices ever heard of. You can carpet every room in the house for what it used to cost to carpet one. It will do you good to see how little it will cost.

Everybody is most cordially and earnestly invited to visit us and see the many attractions displayed, whether wishing to buy or not.

With thanks for past encouragement, we are gratefully, yours to command,
