MEETING of the COMMISSIONERS of PUBLIC CHARITIES and CORRECTION.—At a regular meeting of the Commissioners of Public Charities and Correction, December 15, 1864, the following concluding extract from the opinion of Judge Edward P. Cowles appointed by the Supreme Court of the City of New-York Referee in the first suit against the Commissioners of Emigration, was ordered to be published, thus vetting the principle of liability on that part of that Commission for the support of Emigrants who have been forced upon the Charities of this city, and for which there still remains a large amount of indebtedness on account of Paupers, Vagrants and others who have been cared for in our Public Institutions, irrespective of their legitimate claim on the fund created by themselves.

The last payment made on this account, by the Emigrant Commission was on the 10th day of November, 1854, since which time further payment has been refused by them for what had been agreed upon, and for which disbursement was made out of funds appropriated by the city.

"And upon the facts so found, I do further find as conclusions of law, that the said defendants have become and are liable to pay to the plaintiffs the several sums hereinbefore found to have been incurred by them, amounting in the aggregate to the sum of eighteen thousand three hundred and twenty-two dollars and twelve cents, with interest as hereinafter stated, out of the funds and moneys received and now on hand by the defendants as aforesaid."

"Second. That the said plaintiffs are entitled to judgment in this action, that they do recover of the defendants, the Commissioners of Emigration, the said sum of eighteen thousand three hundred and twenty-two dollars and twelve cents, with interest upon three thousand one hundred and seventy-seven dollars and twenty-one cents thereof, from the first day of May, 1854; and upon three thousand and nineteen dollars and thirty-five cents thereof, from the first day of July, 1854; and upon two thousand five hundred and twenty-one dollars and ninety-three cents thereof, from the first day of September, 1854; and upon two thousand two hundred and seventy-nine dollars and twenty-one cents thereof, from the first day of November, 1854; and upon four thousand and ninety-seven dollars and ninety-nine cents thereof, from the first day of December, 1854; and upon two thousand and seventy-five dollars and sixty-four cents thereof, from the first day of March, 1855; and upon eleven hundred and fifty dollars and seventy-nine cents thereof, from the first day of April, 1855, beside costs of this action.

"All of which is respectfully submitted this 14th day of December, 1864. EDWARD P. COWLES, Referee."
