SLOSSON DEFEATS SHAEFER.

The «Student" Downs the "Wizard" by a Score of 600 to 248.

BOSTON, Mass., Feb. 8.—The last of the series of three games in the triangular billiard tournament, begun some time ago, were started in Bumstead hall last night when Jake Shaefer and George Slosson strung for position.

There were over 700 spectators present, among them many of the leading men of Boston and vicinity. It was the first time in many years that Boston people were enabled to see the game at its best and they thoroughly enjoyed it.

It was Slosson's night, the balls rolled to his fancy and his average of 26 2-23 shows what a rattling game he put up. Shaefer did not seem to be in the game at any stage. Score:

Slosson—0, 0, 8, 77, 0, 42, 1, 0, 3, 0, 8, 51, 18, 80, 24, 60, 65, 3, 4, 11, 50, 38, 2—600. Highest run, 92; average, 26 2-23.

Shaefer—1, 18, 17, 7, 3, 0, 42, 0, 0, 15, 29, 25, 30, 13, 17, 17, 23, 17, 23, 9, 0, 0, 0—248. Highest run, 25; average, 12⅜.

Confessed to a Murder.

MEXICO, Mo, Feb. 8.—The latter part of last July Samuel Turner was taken to the eastern suburbs of this city, at the hour of midnight, and murdered for his money. Joe Donnelly and Will McKinney, two young men of this city, were arrested, charged with the crime. The case is now being tried in the circuit court here. Will McKinney was put on the stand yesterday and turned state's evidence, testifying that he and McDonnelly took Turner out for the purpose of robbing him and when they reached a lonely spot, Donnelly struck Turner in the head with a rock, killing him. They both then ransacked the victim's pockets and fled.

He was drunk and insulted the postmistress, Mrs. Bailey, and was arrested by the city marshal and fined $32. In answer to a telegram the United States marshal telegraphed to hold him, as no such man is in the employ of the government.

Elections Repeal Bill Passes the Senate.

The Populists and Democrats Vote Together.

VOTE STOOD 39 TO 28.

Amendments Offered by Republicans Voted Down.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 8.—The bill repealing in toto all federal laws regulating the control of congressional elections, has passed both houses of congress and only awaits the signature of President Cleveland to become a law. After several weeks of discussion the senate yesterday finally came to a vote on the house bill repealing the federal election laws, and it passed by a vote of 39 ayes to 28 nays. Numerous amendments were presented by the Republicans, but they were voted down regularly and methodically, the Democrats not even taking the trouble to join in the debate on the amendatory propositions. Senator Stewart of Nevada voted with the Democrats on every proposition, giving as his reasons that he thought the power of the executive was already too great, and that the centralizing tendency of the age should be checked at once if the republic is to survive. The three Populists, Senators Allen, Kyle and Peffer, also voted with the Democrats on every amendment, as well as on the main bill. The measure as it passed the senate is identical with the bill as it passed the house, no committee amendments having been proposed.

RECIPROCITY NOT AFFECTED.

The Repeal of the Law Will Not Abrogate the Treaties Already in Effect.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 8.—Fears have been expressed that the repeal of the reciprocity clause in the McKinley act, accomplished by the late amendment to the Wilson bill, might have the effect of abrogating or limiting the reciprocity treaties already in existence between this country and several South American republics. But it is pointed out that the report contains the following clause limiting the extent of all repeals: "The repeal of existing laws or modifications thereof, embraced in this act, shall not affect any act done, or any act accruing or accrued, or any suit or proceeding had or commenced in any civil cause before the said repeal or modifications, but all rights and liabilities under said laws shall continue and may be enforced in the same manner as if said repeal or modifications had not been made."

Representative Hitt, who was closely identified with Mr. Blaine in the development of the reciprocity treaty, says the foregoing provision applies only to the pending suits on the appraisal of merchandise. He thinks the repeal of the reciprocity clause will terminate the negotiations with Venezuela, but will not affect the treaties with Brazil, Spain and other countries which were fully proclaimed. These treaties were brought about mainly by the feature of the reciprocity law which permitted the president to make commercial retaliations against such countries as failed to comply with the reciprocity treaties with this country. Now this power to retaliate is withdrawn, there will be nothing to restrain the treaty other than the good will and comity between the countries.

GEOLOGICAL SURVEY.

Interesting Figures From the Annual Report of Director Powell.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 8.—Director John W. Powell of the geological survey has submitted his annual report to the secretary of the interior. It is a lengthy document and consists principally of technical details of the progress of various branches of scientific work. Photographic surveys were carried on in twenty-one states and territories, making 26,000 square miles the area surveyed during the year. The total area surveyed since the organization of the survey is 273,000 square miles in forty-seven states and territories. During the year seventy-seven topographic atlas sheets were engraved, sections of every state providing the subjects. During the early part of the fiscal year the field parties engaged in geological work were entirely reorganized owing to a large reduction of appropriations.

An investigation of the hydrographic office has resulted in the tabulation of some important figures, showing a growing interest in the subject of running waters of the country. Steps are already being taken, it is stated, to use at least the smaller streams for water power and irrigation. A rough computation based on the results of stream measurements and census figures indicates that the running streams of the region when all are used will have a value of at least $600,000,000. The total expenditures of the survey for the year amounted to $743,223, against an appropriation of $730,073.

NO QUORUM FOR SILVER.

Bland's Seigniorage Coinage Bill Balked in the House.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 8.—After the disposal of the Hawaiian resolution yesterday Mr. Bland, Democrat, Missouri, reported from the committee on coinage, weights and measures the bill directing the secretary of the treasury to issue silver certificates equal to the seigniorage on the silver bullion. The speaker put the motion to go into committee for the consideration of the bill. Lost—99 to 7.

Some of the eastern Democrats joined the great bulk of the Republicans and refused to vote. On motion of Mr. Bland a call of the house was ordered. It developed the presence of 245 members. Proceedings under the call were dispensed with and Mr. Coombs, Democrat, of New York, moved to adjourn. This being defeated without a division, the vote recurred upon Mr. Bland's motion to go into committee of the whole. It resulted, 154 to 4, still no quorum.

Mr. Coombs again moved to adjourn. It carried on a rising vote—104 to 19.

Mr. Bland was, however, resolved to continue the fight, and demanded the yeas and nays. The house refused to adjourn—87 to 137. Mr. Bland then moved a call of the house. It was carried on a rising vote—91 to 72.

Mr. Tracey demanded the yeas and nays. The call was ordered—127 to 63.

Mr. Wise, Democrat, of Virginia, moved to adjourn and another roll call followed. Roll call followed roll call in quick succession, each succeeding call developing the fact that members were slipping away, but at last Mr. Bland was successful in passing a resolution revoking all leaves of absence and instructing the sergeant-at-arms to take into custody absent members and bring them to the bar of the house. In order to make the resolution more effective it was made a continuing order until vacated by the house. Then at 7 o'clock the house adjourned.

Inspecting Immigrants.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 8.—The plan of inspecting immigrants at foreign ports before their embarkation to this country has been approved by the house committee on judiciary. The plan, as presented in a bill introduced by Representative Stone of Pennsylvania, provides that no alien immigrant shall be admitted to this country until he presents a certificate from the United States consul at the point of embarkation stating that a full inspection of the immigrant has been made and that he or she is entitled to admission under the laws. The bill further imposes on United States consuls the added duty of inspection of immigrants.

Whipping Will Be Discontinued.

Fire in the White City

CHICAGO, Feb. 8.—The Agricultural building at the fair grounds was slightly damaged by fire yesterday afternoon. The fire was discovered in the southeast corner inside the building, but was extinguished before it did much damage. After the fire was out a section of glass about 100 feet long fell from the roof, narrowly missing a number of firemen who were passing underneath. The fire was of incendiary origin.

The net profits for 1893 were $1,259,577.15, against $1,050,000 in 1892. Surplus and profits for 1893 were $1,471,629.95 and earnings about fifteen per cent on the capital stock.

Thomas is in jail charged with murdering the two as they journeyed homeward.

Mine Shooters Will Have to Go.

MACON, Mo., Feb. 8.—After being out a couple of days to consider the matter the coal miners at Bevier, Mo., have finally agreed to accept the operators' new ruling in regard to extracting coal by cutting instead of shooting solid. The cutting method requires expert miners, and the shooters will have to go.

Narrowly Escaped Lynching.

PEARIE DEPOT, Ohio, Feb. 8.—Orildon Devaulvis returned home drunk late last night, threw his wife down stairs, dragged her into the yard by the hair and threw her through a barbed wire fence. He then attacked her with a corn-cutter, inflicting numerous wounds. Devaulvis was arrested and narrowly escaped lynching.

RIO BOMBARDED.

Three Hundred Shots Fired With Little Damage.

The Aquidaban Runs the Gauntlet Uninjured.

FOUR MEN KILLED.

Toward Evening the Firing Almost Entirely Ceased.

RIO DE JANEIRO, Feb. 8.—The comparative quiet which has prevailed here for ten days or more was rudely interrupted yesterday by a furious encounter between the Aquidaban and the forts, followed by an attack by the rebel fleet and the batteries in the possession of the rebels, upon the shore defenses of the city.

Later in the day another fight took place at Santa Anna and Ponta da Arica. The fighting, however, only resulted in the killing of four men and the mortally wounding of a fifth. These were all citizens of Rio.

What loss, if any, the rebels sustained, is not known. It had been rumored for seven days the Aquidaban had returned from the North and that after a trip to Desterro, she was waiting outside the bay for a good chance to run in.

Consequently the forces of the government and the rebels were on the qui vive ready to help or retard as opportunity presented itself. In spite of this the arrival of the Aquidaban was something of a surprise to all.

The night was unusually cold, a sudden squall lashing the waters of the bay and coast into whitecaps and leaving behind a heavy, low lying fog. Under cover of this, the Aquidaban approached and was almost under the shadow of Fort Santa Cruz before she was seen. This was at 4:20 a. m., about an hour before sunrise. Instantly the firing began from Fort Santa Cruz and a moment later Fort St. John joined in the fight. Little Fort Lage, further inside the bay, also sent her quota to increase the hail of missiles which rattled around the daring Aquidaban.

At that range, however, not a shot reached its mark, and without deigning a reply the big black ship passed silently on into the narrow channel between the fortresses. Further on, Fort Santa Cruz, not 300 yards away from the Aquidaban, worked her guns furiously, sending a plunging fire down upon the decks of the warship. Fort St. John, a mile away, sent her heaviest projectiles against the rebel ship's broadside, while Fort Lage swept her decks with a raking fire.

A ship could hardly be subjected to a more severe test, and yet the Aquidaban passed rapidly on, apparently unhurt by such shot as struck her. The shots glanced from her side. When just opposite Fort Santa Cruz, in the narrow and most dangerous place, she seemed to awake. From her huge guns fire spurted out, and their heavy projectiles flew forth against the enemy. Fort Villegagnon, in the harbor, now came into action and by her rapid fire attempted to draw off attention from the Aquidaban.

For half an hour the fight continued until at last the Aquidaban dropped anchor alongside the Tamandare, out of range of all hostile batteries. Then it was time to count results. Perhaps 300 shots had been fired, at ranges of from 600 yards to two miles, with guns of from nine caliber down to six pounders. Yet, so far as can be learned, absolutely no damage was done.

The Aquidaban, though struck heavily several times, was practically unhurt; while not a single shot, either from her batteries or from Fort Villegagnon, struck any of the government forts.

Later Guanabara, one of the rebel torpedo cruisers, opened fire at 5:35 a. m., on the shore batteries erected to protect the custom house. There was another from the shore but neither side seemed to do much damage. A little later Cobras Island and the cruiser Tarjano joined the Guanabara, and still later the Libertado, with Admiral Da Gama's flag flying, also came into action. The latter, however contented herself with firing three heavy projectiles, which passed over the shore defenses and buried themselves in the ground.

The fire ceased after awhile, only to be renewed at 3 p. m. against Santa Anna and Ponta da Arela, where it was replied to by the batteries there mounted and by those at Madams and Do Velho.

The action was desultory, little damage being done. This was a good day's fighting for Rio de Janeiro. Later in the evening a few more small shots were fired into the city, and an unknown man was badly injured.

Jail Delivery in Oklahoma.

NORMAN, Ok., Feb. 8.—Ten prisoners made their escape from the county jail last night. They had in some way obtained a saw and pocketknife and, while in the corridor, sawed into an old iron cell and out of the same. Then picking a hole in the brick wall they were at liberty. Fuller and James, who were in for murder, robbery and horse stealing, and were supposed to be members of the Dalton gang, were doubtless the leaders in the escape.

Another Railroad Bill.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 8.—Delegate Flynn introduced a bill to authorize the Missouri, Oklahoma and Texas railroad company to construct a line through the Indian and Oklahoma territories, beginning near the northeast corner of the Cherokee country and running southwest.

Committed Suicide Over a Love Affair.

MANKATO, Kan., Feb. 8.—Miss Dolly Mallory committed suicide at Exbon, this county, last night over a love affair. She was the daughter of the hotel proprietor.

After five weeks' idleness the miners in the New Lisbon, Ohio, district have agreed to accept a reduction from 75 to 61 cents.

FELT IT COMING.

The Engineer Had a Forewarning of His Terrible Fate.

There is no shadow of doubt but that Engineer Edward T. Swope, who met with a terrible death in the cab of his dummy engine at Philadelphia lately, felt that he had a forewarning of some dire calamity. It came to him thirty-six hours before it occurred. He intended to heed the warning by not running his car that day, but shook off the feeling as a foolish superstition.

Swope said to his wife on the morning of the previous day: "To-morrow will be my last day on the dummies."

Asked what he meant the engineer turned it off by saying pleasantly: "It will be Saturday, and I mean the last day of the week."

Saturday morning he told his wife that he had had a terrible dream on Thursday night, and feared that it boded no good to him, and that he would not go to work that day. He went out and bought a turkey for their dinner, and when he brought it home he said: "I don't see why I should be such a dance as to worry about that dream, and I will go and take my car out," which he did. Two hours later his dead body was carried home.

The tongue of a farmer's wagon, driven with terrific force by runaway horses, penetrated the cab and disemboweled the unfortunate engineer, and he was killed almost instantly.

The Eugenia of the Present.

The Empress Eugenie has settled down into the solitude which best enables her to endure her memorable and cumulative sorrows. Her tall, sad figure goes in and out among us with only the recognition of silent sympathy. The empress likes to have communication with as few people as possible. For instance, when she shops (she does her own shopping) she likes to be waited on by the same salesman always. I was witness of an incident of this sort the other day. The empress walked into a well-known London shop and asked for Mr. ——, naming one of the head men. She was told he was out, whereupon she remarked that she would call again, and went away. I was told that she certainly would come again, that Mr. —— always waited on her, and that she would not be served by anyone else.

New Studies at Yale.

Arithmetic, which has been on the Yale list of requirements since the university was first founded, has been dropped. As a compensation a large amount of study in English literature must now be done before a student can enter Yale. Much more algebra and geometry must also be studied in the preparatory schools, and examinations in these subjects can be taken in two years if wished. Several new courses are announced in the scientific department. Work in electricity, metallurgy, history and biology is to be done in the future along entirely original lines.

Cooking by Steam.

Cooking dishes are now made in England, in which in the boiling process the meat does not come in contact with the water or steam. The edible is contained in a jacket, which in turn is immersed in the outside kettle containing the boiling water. It is claimed that by this the nutritious qualities of meat are preserved nothing passing off in vapor. There is moisture enough in the meat to prevent it from burning and all the flavor is retained while, again, the fibre retains a tenderness not found in any other method.

A Traveled African.

"Now," said the intrepid explorer after he had shown the guileless native the inside workings of the brass watch and had noted his naive wonder at the mysteries of mechanism, "I will let you have one of these for two tusks. Then you can be the envy of the whole tribe." The native gentleman yawned. "I traded a second-hand war club for a bushel of those things when I was at the world's fair last summer," said he, "and there was not a one of them that ran for more than a week. Got any chewin' about your clothes?"

The King's Cook.

The king of Sweden popped in the other day at the sailors' home at Stockholm just as dinner was being served up, and asked the permission of the sailors to be their guest, which, of course, they consented to. Suddenly his majesty exclaimed to his chamberlain, "Why, look here, here's excellent cabbage soup. I never get such soup as this at my table." After this the king went into the kitchen and interviewed the cook. This diplomatic proceeding ended by the cook being taken into the king's service.

Dances in Kentucky.

The Kentucky people believe in having a good time. At an old-fashioned dancing-party the other night, to which several women came with their babies, some young men changed the clothes of the infants while their parents were dancing, and mixed them up generally. On the following day there was a great commotion—boy babies had unaccountably changed to girls, and, as the families lived miles apart, it took several days to restore the innocents to their respective mothers.

A King Who Could Change the Winds.

King Dricus of Sweden publicly confessed that he was a sorcerer and magician. He was the owner of an enchanted cap, which he pretended enabled him to control the spirits and change the direction of the winds at pleasure. So firmly did his subjects believe in the supernatural power of their ruler that when a storm arose they would exclaim, "Ah! the king is again wearing his magic cap."

On Taking Hood's Sarsaparilla—Ague, Malaria, Neuralgia, Sick Headaches.

Miss Hattie Stuart

I have found such benefit in Hood's Sarsaparilla during the summer that I intend never to be without it. I could scarcely go about, for ague and malaria, when I got a bottle. Every day after that I found myself improving. I took three bottles of Hood's Sarsaparilla, and I get as fleshy and strong as any woman would wish to be. Instead of housework being a burden it is now a pleasure. I used to have

Neuralgia Headaches,
