WASHINGTON'S DAY.

It is Celebrated in Several of the Public Schools.

JACKSON SCHOOL TAKES THE LEAD

With a Varied Programme—Other Schools Celebrate—An Interesting Relic.

The principal exercises in celebration of Washington's birthday at the public schools were held at Jackson school yesterday. The celebration opened with a song by the school from the Gospel hymns. This was followed by a reading by Della Smith—Memory of Washington; a recitation by May Coulter—The Children's Heart; essay by Gertie Lewis—Washington Irving; recitation by Lizzie Trapp—I Can Not Write the Day and My Boy Outside; essay by Jennie Campbell—My Visit to Salt Lake City; recitation by Lillie Hanson—The Farmer and the Crows.

Another song by the school from gospel hymns was sung and the programme resumed with an essay by Nora Fulton—George Washington; recitation by Gertie Abbott—The Millionaire and the Barefoot Boy; essay by Mabel Wood—The Rocky Mountains; recitation by Amelia Seybold—Woman's Chivalry; essay by Maud Scott—Washington's Life; recitation by Inez Abbott—Killing Time; essay by Etta Beck—Necessity is the Mother of Invention; recitation by Rho Chesney—God is Nowhere; essay by Jean Bailey—India Rubber; song by the school; recitation by Ruth Trapp—Noll and the Bear; essay by Harry French—George Washington; recitation by Vida Wood—Football as the Girls See It; essay by Pearl McNeal—George Washington; recitation by Jessie King—The Inventor's Wife; essay by Ethel Short—Excuse Me; recitation by Bessie Hayden—The One-horse Shay; song by the school; essay by Frank Thompson—George Washington; recitation by Eddie Luff—The Height of Humanity; essay by Hiram Davis; recitation by Robert Martin—Fast Freight; recitation by Joe Reber—Whistling in Heaven; paper by Fannie Bellinger—Harlow's Magazine. The exercises were closed with singing.

At Clay school there were interesting exercises, but as the names of the participants in the programme were not preserved, it is impossible to give the exercises in detail. In the principal's room the Washington society had charge of the rhetorical exercises.

At Polk school the entire programme consisted of reminiscences of Washington.

The High school and Lincoln school held no special exercises. All the schools enjoyed a half holiday.

AN INTERESTING RELIC

Exhibited By a Pupil at Clay School.

One of the little girls at Clay school, Estella Leon, brought a very appropriate relic to the school for exhibition yesterday. It was a copy of the Ulster County Gazette, Kingston, Ulster county, New York, dated Saturday, January 4th, 1800, which contained a notice of the death of Washington.

It was in a very ragged condition and framed. The whole paper was not as large as one page of this paper.

The keepsake is the property of Estella Leon's great uncle, and had since been handed down in the family.

SONS OF REVOLUTION.

They Celebrate Washington's Birthday by Electing Officers and Hearing Speeches.

Washington's birthday was celebrated yesterday afternoon by the Sons of the Revolution. The meeting occurred in the east rooms of the state historical society, and was well attended.

The following officers were elected for the ensuing year: Avery Washburn, Topeka, president; W. T. Scott, Holton, First congressional district, vice president; L. Van Voorhees, Lawrence, Second congressional district, vice president; Dr. J. L. Furbee, Topeka, Fourth congressional district, vice president, and John G. Fonda, Bucklin, Seventh congressional district, vice president.

Judge P. G. Adams, resigned as secretary and his son, H. J. Adams, was elected in his place. T. E. Bowman was elected registrar, and F. H. Betton, historian.

Col. Harrison and Dr. Furber were elected delegates to the national convention to be held in New York the latter part of April.

February 22d was set apart as a day for special meetings and a banquet. Short addresses were made by Judge Webb, Col. Harrison, F. H. Betton, Avery Washburn, Geo. D. Hale, W. T. Scott and Allen Hollerafe. Judge Adams also prepared a paper which he did not deliver.

The society will hold meetings quarterly in this city.

AT THE THEATERS.

The Danger Signal at the Grand Tomorrow Night—Julia Marlowe.

The next attraction at the Grand opera house is "The Danger Signal." This is a railroad play written by Henry C. DeMillier author of many plays, some of them famous.

Contrary to usual plays of this kind, there is no heartless villain, and no deeds of villainy are enacted, but the scenes are simple and natural ones in the lives of people who occasionally are confronted by perilous adventures, and who thereby prove themselves heroes. There will be a matinee Saturday afternoon.

The sale of seats for Julia Marlowe Monday night began at 2 o'clock this afternoon instead of this morning at 9. There was a big sale and a large audience is assured.

DIED OF "THE SPLIT."

Results of the Dance Exhibited in "The Black Crook."

"The split," the now dance in "The Black Crook," which was one of the chief features of that performance here, isn't popular in Topeka. Nobody thinks it was graceful, and everybody says it was vulgar. It seems also that it is dangerous. Dainty little Bertote died from the effects of doing the "grand scarte" or "split" at a French theater a short time ago, and she is not the first terpsichorean who has succumbed to the novel new "art." Jeanne Fay, at Rheims, France, while doing the nonsensical business, broke her bones before she reached the floor, and Marcel Mignon was carried from the stage of the Moulin Rouge with a broken back, and died shortly afterwards. These poor girls were forced into their senseless and vulgar exhibitions by the moral taste of the public. The "split" became the rage, audiences demanded it as a fad, and the "artists" were compelled to cater to the detestable popular taste by these gymnastic efforts, in which there is nothing aesthetic or pretty. It was brought over with the last spectacular production at the Academy of Music where serpentine, Egyptine, Spanish and Dynamite kicked themselves into favor. Another lot appeared at a music hall in New York, and one of these died in a hospital, while another fractured her thigh and is crippled for life.

If the officers of the law would attempt to stop this atrocious, indecent and unnatural dance of death, they would do the stage, and particularly the "leerless" young woman with "split" proclivities, a great service.

TOPEKA GIRLS IN THE BALLET.

Three of Them Now Belong to the "Black Crook" Company.

Misses Margaret and Maude Lewis, two young ladies who were born in Topeka, and spent all their school life in this city, are with the "Black Crook" company. Miss Margaret, talking with a JOURNAL reporter, said that shortly after her father died several years ago, she went on the stage, and placed her youngest sister Maude in a convent until a little over a year ago. The girls studied under Signor Marquetto, a French dancing master in Chicago. Margaret has for the last three years, until the last three weeks, been with and taken part in nearly all the Henderson (of the Chicago Opera house) productions. She appeared in Ali Baba, during its long run in Chicago, and later she and her sister were in "Sinbad." Maude, the younger of the two sisters, has been with the "Black Crook" company since the beginning of the season; she is one of the four little girls who imitate the French quadrille dancers. Mr. Guyon, the treasurer of the company, says that Maude has a promising future on the stage and that his company are giving her every advantage to distinguish herself. Margaret says that she likes the stage well enough but that the late night stands which makes night travel frequent are trying on the health. She spoke of some of the pleasant times she had spent in Topeka when she belonged to several of the young folks' clubs here, and that she would always call Topeka her home.

Mrs. H. McFadden, formerly known as Miss Rose Ballou, who clerked in Flower & Adams' store during the holidays, joined the company here as one of the ballet and left with the company today.

She has been on the stage before. Her husband ran a barber shop under the Union Pacific Express office, and some time ago mortgaged the shop to two different parties and got all the money together he could and left for parts unknown. Mrs. McFadden is a clever little woman and will probably be a desirable addition to the ballet.

Grand Annual Ball of the Railroad Conductors

IS HELD AT HAMILTON HALL.

Governor Lewelling Mayor Harrison and General Manager Frey of the Santa Fe are Present.

Red, green and white lanterns representing to the conductors danger, caution and safety, were conspicuous at the annual ball of the Order of Railway conductors in Hamilton hall last night. American flags completed the decorations.

Governor L. D. Lewelling was a guest of honor, as were General Manager J. J. Frey and Mayor T. W. Harrison.

Before the dancing commenced D. L. Furbeck, master of ceremonies, who is still a member of the order, although retired to his farm for several years, introduced Mayor Harrison to welcome the visiting conductors.

The mayor made one of his happiest speeches, in which he told how, when he was a railroad man, his friends always tried to get a superintendent to accompany them at their picnics, as it insured a private car and a clear track. He told the visitors they had a round trip pass to everything in Topeka, and he hoped they would come often and make themselves at home.

Then Governor Lewelling made a speech, in which he referred to the assemblage as one of "fair women and brave men." "For," the governor said, "the conductors are brave men. Not only are their lives in hourly peril, but we trust them with our own lives and that of our wives and sweethearts. They are the only people we are willing to trust with them. The commerce of the nation we also leave in your hands." The governor then said dramatically the words of the poet:

"On with the dance, let joy be unconfined."

General Manger Frey was next introduced, but the railroad magnate is not a speaker, and he responded only with a bow and a genial smile. Then the audience applauded louder, and Mr. Frey said: "Ladies and gentlemen, I thank you for this kind recognition, but we are here to dance, not to talk, and I beg to be excused."

John Woodlands, the chief of the division of the Order of Conductors, responded to the address of welcome and in so doing read a telegram from Grand Chief E. E. Clark of Cedar Rapids, in which he expressed regret that he could not be present. General Superintendent H. R. Nickerson also sent his regrets.

Then the grand march was commenced under the direction of Prof. J. H. Wetherell. Governor Lewelling, with pretty Mrs. Alex. Ferguson, led the march, and General Manager Frey with Miss McGinnis followed. Next in order were General Roadmaster R. J. Parker and Mrs. Parker, Trainmaster, H. A. Tice and Mrs. Tice, followed by the conductors, the visitors first and the home conductors afterwards. After them came the representatives of other railway orders, and then "just people" brought up the rear, of whom Chief Landsey and C. A. Taylor, of the governor's "staff" were the last.

Professor Wetherell led the 108 couples in the march through many intricate countermarches; four, eight, and finally sixteen abreast.

The twenty-three dances, of which half were square dances, were gone through before the guests realized it. Time passed swiftly, and 11:30, the time set for the banquet at the Fifth avenue hotel, arrived. It was one of the largest lodge balls ever given in Topeka, and one much above the average in its details.

The dances were inscribed, a part of them, to the friends of the conductors, as follows:

To the General Manager.
To the Locomotive Engineers.
To the General Superintendent.
To the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen.
To the Division Superintendent.
To the Locomotive Fireman.
To the Trainmaster.
To the Train Dispatcher.
To the Switchmen's Aid Association.
To the Next Ball, February 22, 1895.

The reception committee was composed of John Dadd, L. W. K. Lemon, Geo. Speer, T. P. Kelly, Chas. Short, A. J. Rader, P. T. Forster, Geo. Scott, D. Shafer, J. H. Griffith; the arrangement committee of R. J. Sloat, Alex. Ferguson, M. McCambridge; the floor committee of John Woodward, Geo. McNeal, Geo. Colbert, L. B. French, Geo. Stafford, Geo. Neaughaur, R. H. Stockton, Thos. Moore, W. R. Simmons, Geo. Tilford.

Watson's orchestra supplied the music.

The banquet at the Fifth Avenue hotel was well attended by the conductors and their friends. The supper was the best Manager DeMoss' kitchen could provide.

TO DYE A FAST BLACK

ANY WOMAN CAN GET A RICH COLOR THAT WILL NOT FADE.

Three Special Diamond Dyes for Black—Home-Dyeing a Pleasure With Them—Save Expense and Delay of Sending Goods to the Dyer—A New Dress for Ten Cents.

The fast black diamond dyes have saved thousands of dollars to thrifty housewives. There are three of them—for cotton, for wool, and for silk and feathers—and they have all made to look like new many a cloak, suit, dress jacket, or feather that would otherwise have gone into the rag bag.

Goods colored with these dyes will not crock or fade, and are fully equal in beauty to the work of the best professional dyer.

The color will not wash out in soapsuds, and sunlight will not fade it. A ten cent package colors from one-half to two pounds, according to the original color of the goods. Plain and explicit directions on the package make it easy for the most inexperienced to dye successfully with diamond dyes, thus saving the delay and expense of sending goods to the dye house.

All the standard and fashionable colors are easily made with diamond dyes, and a new dress for ten cents is often the result of their use.

LOCAL MENTION.

D. F. Jennings aged 41 years, died of paralysis at the asylum yesterday. The remains will be sent, for burial, this afternoon at 1:30, to his home at Manhatta, Kans.

Probate Judge Elliott has issued marriage licenses to William A. Warner of Shawnee county and Mattie W. Givens of Jefferson county, and also to William A. Clark and Lydia B. Hubbard, both of this city.

Chas. Green was arrested by Officer Blumenstock last night for being drunk and begging. He was stopping people on Kansas avenue, asking them for money and when they refused he called them some vulgar names. He pleaded guilty in police court to both charges and was fined $10. He was sent to the rock pile.

Nobody at the police station takes any stock in the story told by Col. Douglass of Willard about his being held up in an alley near the Rock Island depot Wednesday night. Any one who would go into an alley where there was a colored street walker and four male companions must be drunk or a fool. Frisky jays from the country who are generally old enough to be grandfathers have been "robbed" several times in Topeka in this manner, and it is their own fault in every instance.

Three Brothers Fall Out.

Three brothers L. H., Otis and C. C. Mays, all got drunk last night in North Topeka, in the vicinity of the Union Pacific depot. Some one telephoned the police that there was a free fight on the street there and when Officers Summers and Whitney arrived, they found the brothers lying in the street on top of each other and struggling. The patrol wagon was called and they were all loaded on and taken to the police headquarters. Two of them, Otis and C. C. pleaded guilty, but L. H. said he was trying to keep them apart. They were all fined $6 apiece, $3 on each charge.
