NITROUS OXIDE, or LAUGHING GAS, is usually inhaled from a small bag, into which the impure air, or carbonic acid gas, from the lungs, is returned to be again inhaled, and the process repeated until the contents of the bag are nearly absorbed and pass into the system, the face often presenting a livid appearance, and the same bag being used for an unlimited number of persons, making it an operation from which all should instinctively shrink.

DR. HOYT'S ANAESTHETIC NITROUS OXIDE has been administered by him for years, from a large receiver, by an apparatus so constructed that the impure air from the lungs cannot enter the receiver, but is thrown off into the atmosphere, enabling the patient to inflate the lungs at every breath with pure, fresh gas, avoiding the risk of contamination, and insuring pleasant and successful results; all operations being performed by Dr. H. in person, who often extracts 16 to 16 teeth at a single operation, without the knowledge of the patient.
