NEW PUBLICATIONS.

JOSH BILLINGS, HIS SAYINGS. WITH COMIC ILLUSTRATIONS. 12mo. pp. 232. Carleton.

With a perverse system of bad spelling that suffers by provoking comparisons with the letters of Artemus Ward, this book contains genuine wit and a multitude of homely sayings which are extremely happy. The chapters headed "Remarks," "Affurisms," "Sayins" and "Proverbs" are by far the best. Josh Billings is something of a philosopher in his way, and if his thoughts are not always very profound, his expressions are almost invariably original. "Truth," he says, "is the onla thing I kno ov that kant be improved upon." "Marrying a woman for her munny is vera mutch like setting a rat-trap, and baiting it with pure own finger." "Real happiness dont consiss so mutch in what a man dont hav as it doz in what he dont want." "It is highly important, when a man makes up his mind tew bekum a raskall that he shud examine hisself clusly, and see if he aint better konstructed for a pool." The wood-cuts with which the volume is disfigured can hardly be called "illustrations," and are certainly not "comic."

FOURTH EDITION.
A VALUABLE BOOK ON THE HORSE.
D. APPLETON & COMPANY,
Nos. 443 AND 445 BROADWAY,
Publish this Day:
THE HORSE.
By WILLIAM YOUATT.
WITH A TREATISE ON DRAUGHT.
REVISED and ENLARGED BY WALKER WATSON, M. R.C.V.S.
1 Vol. 8vo. Over 100 Illustrations. 600 pages. Cloth. Price, $4.

"In undertaking the preparation of a fourth edition, the editor has endeavored as much as possible to carry out the original intentions of the author in accordance with the rapid advancement which veterinary science has of late years made. In doing this, considerable alterations have been made. The remarks on the early history and the different breeds of horses and the treatise on draught are nearly unaltered. The illustrations of the age of the horse, and some remarks on Mr. Rarey's method of 'breaking in the horse,' from Captain Richardson's work, also remain as in the last edition. In other respects the present edition will be found to have undergone a thorough revision and arrangement, many fresh diseases have been introduced, and the nature and treatment of others considered in accordance with the principles of Veterinary science at the present day. The great object of the editor has been to make the work as practical as possible for all classes of readers, by avoiding, as much as circumstances would permit, those technical details which none but the scientific reader would comprehend. It will, therefore, necessarily follow that any lengthened and technical details must be omitted, although it is believed sufficient have been retained to enable the general reader to understand the more important parts of the frame. The same remark applies to the chapters on medicines and poisons. In conclusion, the editor trusts that the alterations and additions which have been made will tend to enhance the value of the work and render this the fourth edition equally worthy of the public esteem and patronage which have been accorded to its predecessors."—[Preface to the fourth edition.

VOLUME FOR 1865.
THE ANNUAL CYCLOPÆDIA
AND
REGISTER OF IMPORTANT EVENTS FOR THE YEAR.

In presenting to the public a new volume of the ANNUAL CYCLOPÆDIA, containing the record of another year, no efforts have been spared to secure its completeness and accuracy.

The work was commenced in the year 1861, and is published one volume annually, in the same style as the "New American Cyclopædia." Each volume is intended to be a Cyclopædia of the material and intellectual development of the year, and embraces the civil, military, and social affairs of all countries; important Public Documents; Biography; Statistics; Commerce; Finance; Literature; Science; Agriculture; Mechanical Industry, &c. In a word, it covers the same field as the "New American Cyclopædia," but each volume is confined to the results of its year.

The portions of each volume devoted to the United States embrace the operations of the armies, step by step and day by day, and the causes and consequences of their movements; also, their organization, numbers and condition. The debates of Congress on all important questions; the Messages of the President, and public documents of the Government; finances; commercial and diplomatic intercourse; emancipation, peace, &c.; the internal affairs of all the States; their military enterprise, industry and prosperity.

Under Foreign Affairs, all those countries are noticed which have attracted attention during the year. The progress of those destructive maladies, the Cholera and Cattle Disease, are not overlooked, nor the peculiar features of the disease in swine.

Those branches of natural science in which progress has been made are noticed each year, and the developments fully brought up.

The condition of the principal religious denominations, with their branches, membership, numbers, views on civil affairs, and the spread of their opinions among the nations, is presented.

The geographical explorations and discoveries are stated. The record of literature and literary progress is carefully explained. Nor is the large mortality among distinguished men overlooked.

The contents are accompanied by a most extensive and complete Index.

NEW PHYSIOGNOMY; Or, SIGNS OF CHARACTER—As manifested through Temperament, and External Forms, and especially in the Human Face Divine. With more than 1,000 illustrations. By S. R. WELLS, Editor PHRENOLOGICAL JOURNAL. In one volume, handsomely bound, $5. Address FOWLER & WELLS, No. 389 Broadway, N. Y.

This work systematizes and shows the scientific basis on which each claim rests. The "signs of character" are minutely elucidated, and so plainly stated as to render them liable. It is in the delineation of individual character that the system finds its most useful application. The various races and nations are described. The Teuton, Celt, Scandinavian, Greek, Mongolian, Indian, Patagonian, African, &c., has each his representative. Portraits, in groups, of distinguished persons of ancient and modern times, with biographical sketches and delineations of character, render the work of interest to all. DIVINES, ORATORS, STATESMEN, WARRIORS, ARTISTS, POETS, PHILOSOPHERS, INVENTORS, PUGILISTS, SURGEONS, DISCOVERERS, ACTORS, MUSICIANS, &c., are given. It is an ENCYCLOPEDIA of biography, acquainting the reader with the career and character, in brief, of many great men and women of the past 1,000 years and of the present—such, for instance, as Aristotle, Julius Cæsar, Shakespeare, Washington, Napoleon, Franklin, Bancroft, Bryant, Longfellow, Berkes, Irving, Rosa Bonheur, Theodosia Burr, Cobden, Bright, Lawrence, Bolivar, Whately, Thackeray, Dow, Knox, Richelieu, Hopper, Buckle, Dickens, Victoria, Wesley, Carlyle, Motley, Mill, Spencer, Guthrie, Thompson, Alexander, &c. Every feature of the book, where practicable, has been illustrated with neat and finely-executed engravings. AGENTS WANTED.
