WOMAN IN THE CASE

The affair between a Porto Rican luna and a laborer at Aiea reported in the morning paper turns out to be a personal fracas in which the plantation was in no way interested. The story as told by a reliable authority is that Ramon had worked on the plantation and was discharged. About six weeks ago he asked to be taken back and was accommodated. Sunday night he was seen around the Porto Rican luna's house. The luna's wife told her husband that Ramon asked her to run away with him and being met with a refusal assaulted her. Last evening the luna met Ramon at the plantation store. The story of the wife was denied and the luna demanded that Ramon go to the house and face his wife with the denial. The pair started off down the railroad track, and Ramon changing his mind and refused to go further. A fight then ensued in which Ramon got very much the worst of it.

SANTA CLAUS HIMSELF APPEARS.

Honolulu is fast adopting the ideas of large cities on the Mainland, and the attractions each Christmas bring back pleasant memories. One of the leading novelties this year will be a representation of the Arctic home of Santa Claus at Kerr's new store. A neat little house with a red chimney has been erected in the main part of the store and every afternoon and evening, commencing tomorrow, Thursday evening, Santa Claus himself will come down the chimney. Any child accompanied by their parent or guardian will receive from Santa Claus a packet of candy. This novelty should surely prove a winner and the older folks will be entertained from 7:30 to 8:30 with music by Solomon's Quintet Club.

Neatly furnished rooms at the Popular, $1, $1.50, and $2 per week. 1349 Fort street. *

The Foursome Tournament

The Honolulu Golf Club will hold a foursome competition next Sunday. This will be the last for the present season. The draw of players is as follows:

Guild and Jamieson 16, vs. Tetley and Miles, 10; Thayer and Anderson, 16, vs. Winner of above; Derby and Garvie, 14, vs. H. Giffard and Wall, 11; Munro and D. Ross, 13, vs. Bottomley and McIntyre, 17; W. M. Giffard and Buchanan, 17, vs. McGill and Cockburn, 18.

The players have been coupled in such a manner that a good player and a lesser light have been placed against two medium players as a general rule. The handicaps marked above have been arranged accordingly.

Munro and Ross ought to carry off the honors of this competition with Guild and Jamieson as runners up. The last competition was won by Sinclair and McGill.

The playing will begin at 10 o'clock. A bus will meet the players at the Kalihi Rapid Transit terminus at 9:30 a. m. sharp and will convey them from there to the Moanalua links. The competitors will play over a nine-hole course.

Valuable prizes will be selected for the winners of the competition and for the runners up. The first prize will probably be a couple of silver cups while the runners-up will probably receive golf sticks.

The committee in charge earnestly requests each player to be on the grounds at the hour stated as tardiness will not only affect the late man but also his partner.

The competition on Sunday will be the last of the season and will mark the close of a very successful season.

The annual meeting of the Golf Club will be called shortly, at which the officers for the ensuing season will be elected.
