LITERARY.

Messrs Harper & Brothers have in press "The Thrilling Adventures of Daniel Ellis," written by himself. "Dan Ellis" was the great Union guide of East Tennessee, who, during the war, escorted thousands of loyal refugees and escaping prisoners stealthily through the mountains to the Federal lines. Probably his life, during the Rebellion, contained more romance than that of any other man in the country, and if his story be plainly and truthfully written, it will be a valuable contribution to our war literature. The work will be illustrated.

Publish this Day,
THE MINOR PROPHETS;
WITH NOTES CRITICAL, EXPLANATORY AND PRACTICAL, DESIGNED FOR BOTH PASTORS AND PEOPLE,
By the Rev. HENRY COWLES.
1 vol., 12vo., 424 pages. $2 25.
From Prof. John Morgan, D. D., Oberlin College.
I regard this Commentary as a very valuable addition to our aids for the study of the Word of God—good for the Bible class teacher, and good for every Christian.
From the Rev. Dr. S. Wolcott, Cleveland.
I believe that the publication of the work will be welcomed by all reverent students of the Bible, and that it will be found both by the learned and the unlearned, a valuable help to the fuller understanding of the portion of the sacred oracles to which it relates.
From Prof. Hitchcock, Union Seminary.
Prof. Cowles is certainly a man of exact and full scholarship, entirely competent to the work he has undertaken; and equally certain is it that the work he has undertaken is needed.

ANNOUNCEMENT.
MARSHALL'S PORTRAIT
OF ABRAHAM LINCOLN.

Messrs. TICKNOR & FIELDS beg to announce that they have arranged with the eminent engraver and painter, Mr. WM. E. MARSHALL, for the publication of his line-engraved Portrait of Abraham Lincoln.

This engraving is after Mr. Marshall's own painting, and is executed in pure line. It is the largest head ever engraved in this manner, and is by far the best engraving ever executed in America, and will take its place among the few great works which lineal art has given to the world.

The publishers, however, do not put this portrait of Mr. Lincoln before the public simply as a fine work of art, for it possesses the still greater value of being a true likeness of the Martyred President, representing him in his best aspects, and in a manner so different from all others that it may be considered essentially Mr. Marshall's own. The publishers believe it will be accepted as the standard portrait of Mr. Lincoln, and as grounds for that belief they invite attention to the hearty commendations it has received from persons who knew Mr. Lincoln intimately, all expressing thorough satisfaction with it in this regard.

The publishers respectfully invite attention to the following, as among the many commendations bestowed upon the picture:

[FROM ROBERT T. LINCOLN.]
CHICAGO, Sept. 25, 1866.
W. E. MARSHALL, esq.: SIR—I have seen a copy of your engraving of my father's portrait, published by Tickner & Fields, and I take pleasure in testifying to its excellence as a likeness. I cannot suggest any improvement. Yours very truly,
ROBT. T. LINCOLN.

[FROM MR. HERNDON, MR. LINCOLN'S LAW PARTNER, in Springfield, Illinois.]
SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Sept. 26, 1866.
MESSRS. TICKNOR & FIELDS: SIRS—I have known President LINCOLN for a period of quite thirty years—twenty years of which he and myself were law partners in this city. It has been my pleasure to study the man, physically and mentally, especially since 1854, when he fairly commenced looming up in the nation. I have seen and been with him in every mood, and under almost all conditions of human life, and his form and features are deeply impressed on my memory. Mr. William E. Marshall's engraved portrait of him has been shown me, published by your house, and I have studied the picture sufficiently long to form an opinion of it. If art is the expression of an idea embodied in fact, which at once translates itself to the intelligent observer, then this picture is a work of the highest art. The organs and features of the face are almost exact—are true to nature. In this portrait the artist has caught Mr. LINCOLN in kindness, tenderness and reflection combined—and in my humble judgment, this is the best portrait of Mr. LINCOLN I have seen. As a work of high art, it will take its proper place among the finest in America. Those who never had the pleasure of seeing the original may rest assured that the expression of organ and feature and mood of the man are well caught, expressed and preserved. I am pleased to know you are soon to make the picture public, through, I hope, universal sale.
Yours truly,
W. H. HERNDON.

[From the Poet, WHITTIER.]
AMESBURY, Mass., 9th Month, 1st day, 1866.
It was never my privilege to know ABRAHAM LINCOLN personally, and his various pictures have more or less failed to satisfy my conception of him. They might be, and probably were, what are called "good likenesses," so far as outline and detail were concerned, but to me they always seemed to lack one great essential of an entire portrait—the informing spirit of the man within. This I find in Marshall's portrait. The old harsh lines and unmistakable mouth are there, without flattery or compromise, but over all and through all, the pathetic sadness, the wise simplicity and tender humanity of the man are visible. It is the face of the speaker at Gettysburg, and the writer of the second Inaugural. The eminently successful artist deserves the thanks of all who love and honor the memory of LINCOLN.
J. G. WHITTIER.

[From Senator SUMNER.]
SENATE CHAMBER, 17th July, 1866.
MY DEAR SIR: I congratulate you upon your success in the engraved portrait of President LINCOLN. As a work of art, it will take its place among those rare productions not to be forgotten. As a portrait, it will always be valued as presenting the original in his most interesting expression, where gentleness and sympathy unite with strength. I think that I cannot err in predicting for it general favor among all who love art, or venerate the name of our martyred President. I am sure that many will look upon it with grateful enthusiasm. Very faithfully yours,
CHARLES SUMNER.
WILLIAM E. MARSHALL, esq.

[From the SECRETARY OF WAR.]
WAR DEPARTMENT, WASHINGTON CITY, July 18, 1866.
SIR: Your engraved portrait of the late President, ABRAHAM LINCOLN, has been carefully examined, and is regarded by me as a beautiful likeness of that great and good man. In many respects it represents his living expression with more accuracy than any other that has come under my observation.
As one who knew and loved him, I rejoice that you have so well succeeded in your effort, by a work of art, in preserving the memory of his countenance, and enabling the world to know what manner of man he was.
Your obedient servant,
EDWIN M. STANTON.
W. E. MARSHALL, Esq.

MILLY; OR, THE HIDDEN CREDS, is one of the best pictures of school life we have ever seen. The various characters we find in every school are here brought forward, and we see them in all their modes of expression.
"The conversations seem verbatim reports. We hear the tones of the voices and see the figures moving through the scenes of the story with all the elasticity and freedom and airy grace of girlhood. We have known every one of them—knew them in the old school days, walked with them and heard them repeat these very words. Although a smaller book than the novel to be found on School Days at Rugby, it speaks with it in goodness, tenderness and discretion. A delicate pen and warm sympathy, as well as a knowledge of character in its earlier stages of development, are brought to bear upon this little sketch, so fresh and pure in all its touches, so perfectly artistic because so perfectly natural. We most cordially recommend it."—[S. M. in The Evening Transcript.
Parents, you cannot do better than to put this book into your daughter's hands.
