DRAKE MAKES CHANGES IN REVENUE OFFICE

Beginning with the first of the month, Collector Walter Drake will make several changes in the Internal Revenue office. Otto Berndt, street gauger here, will be transferred to Hilo as storekeeper and gauger at the distillery there. Lee Sing, deputy collector, takes Berndt's place as Honolulu street-gauger, and Lucy Lloyd, recently connected with the road department, goes in as bookkeeper and stenographer. C. D. Pringle, who has been acting as gauger at the Hilo distillery, comes back to take his old place in the bonded warehouse.

Mr. Berndt is now at Hilo, so that he will be ready to step into Mr. Pringle's place as soon as the latter is ready to leave.

BORN.

HAA—At Keehia, Hawaii, March 19, 1909, to Mr. and Mrs. J. K. Haa, a son.

"THE GEISHA" FOR LAST TIME TONIGHT

Following the vaudeville matinee today, the pretty and popular opera, "The Geisha" will be given for the last time tonight. This play is a favorite with the children, and they play their parts with an evident enjoyment that goes far to explain its popularity.

It is a revelation to watch these tiny actors behind the scenes. There is no talking among the children, with the exception of occasional interested comments on the play, all spoken in cautious whispers. No frantic stage manager rushes around to see that everyone is in his proper place, ready for his entrance. Everyone is ready and waiting for his cue. It is serious business with them, whether they are on the stage themselves or not. They are always on the qui vive. The stage director watches the play from the wings. His work is done and he knows that the children are letter-perfect.

Behind the scenes, they are modest and quiet as any children could be—all but the Heintz Twins. They are little rascals, full of fun and mischief.

Eva and Ivy Pollard divide the honors among the girls in this opera, and Teddie McNamara and Freddie Heintz are the little funny men. Both of them are great.

"The Runaway Girl," to be given tomorrow night at the final appearance of the Lilliputians, will doubtless pack the Opera House, for in addition to being the last play, it is the most popular one. There will be no matinee tomorrow. The matinee is for today, and will be a vaudeville performance.

MR. CURTIS TO MANAGE E. W. JORDAN & CO.

G. B. Curtis has been appointed manager of the dry goods house of E. W. Jordan & Co. on Fort street, and will assume his new duties on the 1st of April. Mr. Curtis is very favorably known to the dry goods buyers of the city and has made a reputation for himself as a hustler for business and in the interests of his customers. E. W. Jordan & Co. is one of the oldest dry goods houses in the city and Mr. Curtis intends to make it the most up-to-date.
