THE roof garden of the Alexander Young hotel has been an ideal place this past week to spend the evenings, and many well-known faces have been seen there. What is more pleasant than a little table surrounded by palms, an agreeable companion to share that long drink of refreshing iceness, soft balmy air free from the omnipresent mosquito and his ardent companions, and the canopy of the heavens above. People are beginning to find this out and the famous roof-garden has been well patronized throughout the week.

Leeds Entertain.

A charming little dinner was given at the Moana hotel on Saturday evening last by Mr. and Mrs. R. G. Leeds, of Richmond, Ind. A huge mound of pink oleanders made an attractive centre piece, and Mrs. Leeds was a picture of loveliness in a dainty lace frocks. The guests included Mrs. Timmons, Mrs. Milo Potter, Mrs. Alexander G. Hawes, Jr., Miss Nina Jones, Governor Cleghorn, Mr. Bruce Cartwright, Mr. A. L. C. Atkinson.

Mrs. Wilbur Coming.

Captain and Mrs. Harry Wilbur, who have been stationed at Fort Rosecrans, the army post at San Diego, have been ordered to Honolulu and will reach here the last of June, being a great acquisition to the army set here. Mrs. Wilbur is the daughter of Mrs. Widdifield of Honolulu and the sister of Mrs. Baird of Hilo. Mrs. Wilbur is as charming as she is pretty, and has been very popular in San Diego, where many friends will regret the departure of Captain and Mrs. Wilbur.

For the Lewton-Brains.

One of the delightful events of the week was the dinner Mr. Noel Deerr gave at the Moana hotel on Monday evening in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Lewton-Brain. Pink was the color scheme of the table, artistically carried out with pink roses, pink candle shades and maiden-hair ferns. The guest of honor, Mrs. Lewton-Brain, looked pretty in a white satin brocade Directoire gown, a wreath of tiny stars in white ornamenting her head. She expects to sail for England next week, Mr. Lewton-Brain joining her at Christmas time. Other guests included Mrs. Alexander G. Hawes, Jr., Mrs. Herbert Mist, Mr. James Wal. After dinner the guests were joined by Mr. and Mrs. Bottomley, Miss Norreys and Mr. F. W. Aston and Mr. Jamieson and Miss Bullen under the banyan tree, where much laughter and chit-chat made the evening pass rapidly. Mr. Noel Deerr is world-renowned, his book on sugar having made him famous years ago. Mr. Aston is a well known scientist from London, who is spending a few days between steamers. He brought letters to the Lewton-Brains.

Distinguished Visitors.

John Burroughs, the famous naturalist and author, who has been so much entertained since his arrival in Honolulu, left Friday for Maui, where he will enjoy the trip to the extinct crater of Haleakala, after which he will go to Hawaii and visit Kilauea. Dr. Barrus, his secretary, will take in both volcano trips, while Mrs. Ashley, also a member of the party, will leave Tuesday for Hawaii to join her friends for the Kilauea trip. The party are guests at the Pleasanton, but expect to spend a few days at Waikiki before they return to the states. Among those who have entertained them since their arrival are Captain and Mrs. Moses, Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Warren, Dr. C. B. Cooper, Mrs. Wright, Mrs. Lindsay, and others.

Mr. Burroughs has enjoyed several long tramps about the island, and will probably gather material for magazine articles to be written later. Dr. Barrus, who is of the party, is a woman of considerable note in the medical world and is woman assistant physician at the Middletown (New York) State Homeopathic Hospital, of which Dr. Ashley, whose wife is in this party, is at the head. Dr. Barrus is an insanity specialist and has herself published books on the subject, which is her special study.

Dr. Ashley, husband of Mrs. Ashley, visited Honolulu some time ago, and for a time was ill at the Queen's Hospital, but this is the first visit Mrs. Ashley has made the trip here. The trio had expected to leave on the Siberia for the states, but cannot secure staterooms and have consequently been obliged to make several important changes in the itinerary of their return trip. They now hope to sail on the Manchuria June 8.

E. Bishop of Oakland, who is known to many Honolulu people, is making his annual visit to his sister, Mrs. William F. Allen, of Beretania avenue, having come down on the last Hilonian.

For Miss Restarick.

The San Diego Union of May 1 says:

Miss Isabelle Ware-Morgan entertained Friday afternoon with an informal "Five Hundred" party at the Country Club, complimentary to Miss Constance Restarick, daughter of Bishop Restarick of Honolulu, who has arrived in this city to be the house guest of Miss Theda Burnham for a couple of months.

The club rooms were decorated with masses of white marguerites and smilax banked upon the mantel of the fireplace, on the piano and about the room.

Misses Emily Clayton, Leicester Sehon, Jean Robbins, Elizabeth Kendavy and Madeline Hawley marked the scores of the afternoon.

The first prize, a brass incense burner, was awarded to Miss Ethel Keyes; the second prize, a brass vase, went to Miss Julia Powers; the guest prize, a silver hat pin, was given Miss Constance Restarick, and the consolation prize, a Teco vase, was presented to Miss Claire Parmelee.

The invited guests were the young matrons and the girls who were old schoolmates of Miss Restarick during her residence here, and included Mesdames Ware, Ada Ware-Morgan, Alfred Stahel, Jr., Lewis Ditt, Jr., Arthur Marston, Raymond Hoffland, Warner Edmonds, Alfred T. Johnson, Otho Beale Wetzell, Alex Reynolds, Jr., Misses Blanche Vogdes, Marion Vogdes, Julia Grant, Gertrude Gassen, Isabel Ingle, Lavina Fay, Ethel Keyes, Jessie Smith, Marie Ingle, Marion Gartzman, Pauline Gartzman, Julia Powers, Ethel Creigh, Theda Burnham, Beth Marston, Helen Timmerman, Mary Marston, Cora Edmonds, Stella Henking, Lucile Henking, Lucile Leovy, Frances Bridges, Claire Parmelee, Grace Ballard, Ruth Henking, Mildred Barlow, Frances Henking, Karoline Hammond, Daisy Kessler, Virginia Torrance, Violet Jessop, Maud Fay, Jane Jenny, Edyth Copley, Sadie Ware, Grace Bowers, Gertrude MacQuigg, Wilma Hawley, Myra Rife, Adlaide Fenton, Crossman, Gertrude Gilbert, Eva Holmes and Bess Gilbert.

Nobriga-Carreiro Wedding.

The Garden Island of May 15 says:

The marriage of Antonio Nobriga, the acting manager of the Hanamaulu store, and Miss Georgina Carreiro, one of the belles of Hanamaulu, was solemnized at the Catholic church in Kapaia last Sunday, before an overflowing congregation of the friends and well-wishers of the bride and groom, by Father Julian.

The principals in the wedding are both kamainas on this Islands and in fact were both born in Hanamaulu, have lived there all their lives, and obtained their education at the Hanamaulu school; and as a consequence their friends are legion in this neighborhood.

The wedding ceremony began at 9:30 o'clock, at the church, and was finished in three-quarters of an hour. The impressive ceremonial of the Catholic Church was observed, and there was not room enough in the church for all who wished to enter. There were over 200 people in the congregation. Joseph Souza acted as best man and Mrs. Souza was the matron of honor. The two sons of August Ferreira were the acolytes and by their skillful work in performing their duties showed the fine training they had had, for this ceremony, under the direction of Father Julian.

After the ceremony the bridal party, with the specially invited guests, walked back to Hanamaulu, for the wedding lunch at the home of the bride. Here a sumptuous repast was enjoyed by the guests, seated at three large tables, the bridal party, with Father Julian, being seated at the first table. Here also was Father John Couturiaux of Eleele, who had gone to the Kapaa church to take the place of Father Julian, whose regular day it was there, and had returned in time for the wedding lunch.

At the end of the lunch was brought on the magnificent wedding cake, which had been sent from Honolulu especially for the occasion, and was a tower of white frosting covered with sugar flowers and silver leaves. This course was the signal for the speech-making to begin and many were the brilliant speeches and witty toasts which were offered. Mr. Antonio Rapozo was the toastmaster and was responsible for several of the best speeches made. Among the others who made a hit was Mr. Manuel Caetano, the linguist, who made speeches in five different languages, and seemed an expert at each of them.

During the afternoon, the residence was serenaded by the Kapaia band, of which the bridegroom is a member. Its five new members have had time to become very proficient, and the twenty-two pieces of the band rendered selections of popular and classical music which were heartily enjoyed by the guests.

During the afternoon, the Kapaia photographer came in and took pictures of the bridal party.

Mr. and Mrs. James Austin Wilder were the host and hostess of a beautiful dinner on Wednesday evening at their bungalow on the Waikiki beach in honor of Mr. and Mrs. William W. Mines of Los Angeles, and Mrs. R. B. King of the same place. The table, set on the lanai, was decorated in yellow, artistically carried out with coreopsis and maidenhair ferns. Candles were at each end of the table. Two tables of bridge amused several of the guests later in the evening and the less strenuous ones sought the cool of the lawn, which extends to the sea, with the comfortable chairs so invitingly placed. Among the guests were ex-Governor and Mrs. George Carter, Judge and Mrs. Arthur Wilder, Mr. and Mrs. S. G. Wilder, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Ivers, Miss Carpenter, Captain Exton, U. S. A., Lieut. Chilton, U. S. A.

Quite a large party sailed with Mr. and Mrs. Eric Knudsen on Tuesday, for a taste of life on the Garden Island of Kauai. Among them were Mrs. Hosmer and her son, Professor Ralph Hosmer, Miss du Bois, Mr. du ois, and Mr. Schwartz. They will have a delightful time, for the Knudsens are noted for their hospitality. They were extensively entertained during their visit here, and Mrs. Eric Knudsen was greatly admired on account of her beauty and charm. Her mother, Mrs. l'Orange, preceeded them to Kauai in order to visit with the Robiasons, who sail next week for an extended trip abroad.

Miss Constance Restarick, the daughter of Bishop and Mrs. Restarick, who left for San Diego several weeks ago to assist as bridesmaid at the wedding of Miss Cora Edmunds of the city of the Southern Bay, has been the complimented guest at several pleasant affairs, among them being a large five hundred party given at the San Diego Country Club by Miss Isabelle Ware Morgan, whose visit to Honolulu three years ago with the Southern California Editorial Association will be so pleasantly remembered by the many Honolulu people who entertained her.

It seems natural to see Mr. William Irwin, and his spanking team on the Waikiki road once more. The Irwin villa has its hospitable doors wide open, for he always entertains nearly every week while here. His guest, Mr. Lansing Mizner, the well-known club man and wit, is charming everybody. He is not quite as strenuous in his language as "Addison," and for that reason possibly a greater favorite in the more conservative households. Mr. Irwin is looking very well. Mrs. Irwin and Helene will probably join Mrs. Robinson at Newport some time during the summer.

Visiting last Sunday with ex-Governor and Mrs. George Carter in their hospitable home was Mr. Charles Pond McAvoy, roommate of Honorable Tremaine H. Newberry and classmate of Mr. Carter at Yale College. Mr. McAvoy, who is a fellow alumnus with Governor Frear and the Sons of Eli, has an apartment in town, but prefers to spend his time at Pearl Harbor, where he is chief inspector of the new navy work and where he lives in idyllic comfort.

Governor Cleghorn's place, "Ainahau," so historical and naturally beautiful, is often the center of animated tea parties. On Sunday Col. Schuyler and many officers of their mess of Leilehua were entertained and the walks through the estate, as well as the generously laden tea-table, were much appreciated. Probably no man here, unless it be the Honorable S. M. Damon, has so many letters introducing strangers to the hospitable owner of Ainahau.

Dr. and Mrs. Hobdy, who have been staying at the Pleasanton temporarily, have taken the Swiss chalet of Mrs. Mabel Wing Castle in College Hills, and moved in this week. Their return to Honolulu is a source of great gratification to their many friends here, who are giving them a most cordial welcome.

Letters received from Claude Braden and Fritz McDonald, the two California boys who spent some time in Honolulu last summer on their way around the world, tell of many pleasant and interesting experiences. A letter dated Aden says that they missed Roosevelt and his party by one day.

* * *

Lieutenant-Commander and Mrs. Moses entertained informally and most delightfully at luncheon on Wednesday at their charming home at the Naval Station, their guests being Mrs. Carpenter, Mrs. Falls, Miss Carpenter and Lieutenant Houston.

* * *

Mrs. Timmons sailed on Tuesday to be the guest of Mrs. Fairchild on Kauai. She has been much entertained and everybody admires her. The Leeds gave a swell dinner in her honor on Monday evening, and a succession of small luncheons and dinners have been going on all the week.

A pretty little dinner was given at the Alexander Young Hotel on Sunday evening by Mr. Schwartz, at which American Beauty roses adorned the table profusely. Among his guests were Mrs. Hosmer, Mr. and Mrs. Eric Knudsen, Miss du Bois, Mr. Ralph Hosmer and Mr. du Bois.

Paymaster and Mrs. B. Hayes Brooke, so well and favorably known here, are at Newport, Rhode Island, where Mr. Brooke is stationed. They have taken a large house on the cliffs, have a motor car and are thoroughly enjoying the life of the summer city by the sea.

Mrs. Osbourne of "The Rectory" gave a small and informal tea in honor of Mrs. Lewton-Brain recently. It is always pleasant at the Rectory, so homelike are the rooms, and so hospitable are the Canon and his charming wife.

* * *

On Monday Dr. and Mrs. James Judd gave one of their delightful little dinners in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Eric Knudsen. Other guests included Mr. and Mrs. Gerrit P. Wilder. Music and conversation made an interesting evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Marcel E. Cerf, guests at the Moana Hotel, are on their wedding journey. Mr. Cerf is a prominent lawyer of San Francisco and Mrs. Cerf, who is an unusually beautiful and cultivated girl, was nee Genevieve Martin, a granddaughter of Mr. Colton of San Francisco.

* * *

Col. and Mrs. Baddeley, who were guests at the Moana, thoroughly enjoyed their short stay at the popular hostelry. Col. Baddeley was a Royal Engineer and his friend, Major Brenin, was also a distinguished officer. They may return next winter.

Miss Burton, who is a guest at the Moana, is a tall, elegant looking young woman, and is often seen on the Waikiki road with Mrs. George S. Nixon, of Reno, Nevada, who is also stopping at the hotel by the sea.
