"HOTEL SIERRA" OPENS DOORS AT HONOLULU THIS MORNING

Oceanic Hostelry With Over Two Hundred Guests Makes Mushroom Appearance—China From the Orient With Passengers Who Enjoy Floral Parade Festivities — Mauna Kea Brought Hawaii and Maui Folk—Sonoma Will Inaugurate San Francisco-Australian Service.

Honolulu awoke and rubbed its eyes to the fact that another hotel had appeared, mushroomlike, during the night and had opened its doors to the visiting host.

"Hotel Sierra," a finely appointed caravansary of the floating type, is now doing business at a centrally located portion of the city.

The Oceanic steamship Sierra, from San Francisco with one hundred and ninety-four cabin and a dozen steerage passengers, was an arrival at the wharf before 8 o'clock.

The Sierra will take care of all passengers arriving today who are unable to secure accommodation at local hotels or boarding-houses.

This welcome news was imparted to the two hundred and more travelers yesterday by Purser Thomas Smith, who had received a wireless from the Honolulu agency to that effect.

In response to a cable dispatch to San Francisco headquarters of the Oceanic Company by C. Brewer & Co. some days ago, the local agents were authorized to communicate with the Sierra and give the large list of passengers an option of remaining on board that vessel during the stay in Honolulu.

A flat rate of $2.50 a day will be made, which is considered moderate and in keeping with the progressive spirit of the Oceanic Company, which has always worked in perfect harmony with the promotion interests of this city.

The Sierra was favored by fair weather on the way down from the Coast. The large number of passengers made things rather lively from a social standpoint.

"It is safe to say that one hundred and seventy of the passengers brought by us are tourists and have never before visited the islands," said Purser Smith, Dr. Clarke coinciding, on arrival this morning.

The Sierra brought a small cargo of less than two thousand tons, mainly consisting of hay, feedstuff and a refrigerator filled with ice-house stores of all description.

One stowaway was landed. The postoffice received 160 sacks of later mainland mail.

Captain Trask to the Sonoma.

Captain J. H. Trask, who for the past two years has been making regular trips between San Francisco and Honolulu as chief officer in the Oceanic liner Sierra, was missing from his accustomed place on the forward deck of that vessel on arrival at the port this morning. Captain Trask has been given command of the liner Sonoma, which is to go into commission in time to make a special trip from San Francisco to Panama, taking a large party of members from the Chamber of Commerce at the Coast city.

Captain Trask has been granted leave of absence to pay a visit to relatives along the Atlantic seaboard. He will return to the Pacific Coast in time to take command of the Sonoma, which is being rushed to completion.

According to reports brought down by the Sierra this morning, the Sonoma will inaugurate the new San Francisco-Samoa-Australia service, and the vessel is expected to start on her first voyage on or about July 1st.

Mauna Kea with Many Passengers.

Every stateroom in the Inter-Island Steam Navigation liner Mauna Kea was filled with passengers on the homeward trip. The flagship arrived at the port at an early hour and her passengers were soon circulating about the city and mingling with the crowds of pleasure-seekers and spectators of the Floral Parade.

Purser Phillips reports a fine trip with moderate winds and seas.

The Mauna Kea will receive freight for Hilo tomorrow up to a short time before the hour of sailing for Hilo on the special excursion to the volcano.

Indications point to a large number availing themselves of the opportunity of making the trip to the shrine of Pele.

Fleeing Missionaries Aboard China.

Missionaries fleeing for their lives are numbered among those passengers from the Pacific Mail liner China who spent the day in Honolulu and who participated in the Floral Parade festivities.

The liner is berthed at Bishop wharf completing a voyage from the Orient pronounced by such seasoned steamship men as Captain Emory Rice and Purser C. M. Sanders as one of the worst in the history of that vessel. From the time of leaving Yokohama the China met with the most terrific gales and seas, some mountains of water, estimated at many tons in weight, breaking over the pilot-house and the bridge. Luckily, no serious damage was done the gallant China save the carrying away of some lighter fittings about the deck. The officers report no casualties and no one washed overboard to be tossed back by a "returning wave".

Seven hundred tons of Oriental cargo will be discharged from the China during her stay at this port. At the same time four hundred tons of coal will be taken on board. The China despite her encounter with unfavorable winds and tempestuous seas, forged ahead at between 340 and 350 knots each twenty-four hours. The best day's steaming was recorded at 379 knots. The China was hurried along in order that the vessel might arrive here in time for the Floral Parade. The through cargo includes six hundred bales of raw silk, valued at something like one million dollars. Another interesting item in her cargo is two thousand pigs of tin which come from India.

The passengers to leave the vessel at Honolulu include 13 cabin, 27 second class, and 161 Asiatic steerage, among the latter there being 137 Filipinos for sugar plantations, 8 Chinese and a dozen Japanese. The through list of passengers includes 77 cabin, 11 second class, and 37 Asiatics in the steerage.

A few changes in the personnel are noted, in that F. J. Leech, formerly second officer in the China, has been transferred to the newly acquired steamer Nile in the capacity of chief officer. R. Demerest, fourth officer, is promoted to third officer, and M. Wollasten has received the appointment of fourth officer.

The China was declared free from stowaways.

Many Changes in Oceanic Circles.

The contemplated placing in commission of the Oceanic Sonoma and Ventura on the San Francisco-Australian run has resulted in considerable shifting about of popular officials connected with the operation of the liner Sierra.

J. H. Dawson, formerly of the Alameda and Mariposa, was found on deck this morning serving in the capacity of chief officer in place of Captain Trask, who takes over the command of the Sonoma in April. Second Steward Black, who is well and favorably known to Honolulans, has been selected to prepare the Sonoma for sea service. He will perform a like service for the Ventura before that vessel goes into commission. C. Winnett, formerly of the Mariposa, has joined the Sierra family as a member of the steward's staff.

CHINESE SOCIETY FLOAT IS REVOLUTION SCENE

The United Chinese Society turned out one of the best floats in the Parade. C. K. Ai manager of the City Mill Company, has charge of the float of the Chinese community.

The float of the society includes a scene of one of the greatest wars of modern times—the Chinese revolution—which resulted in the upsetting of the Manchu dynasty and the establishment of a republican form of government.

The float is mounted on a wagon ten feet wide and twenty feet long, drawn by four mules of the City Mill Company. General Li, commander-in-chief of the revolutionary army which annihilated the Manchu army completely, is represented by Mr. Chang, a well-known Chinese youth. Chang wears the full dress uniform of General Li, and is surrounded by the staff. Boys from the Mid-Pacific Institute are on the float, appearing as soldiers of the revolutionary army. They, too, wear uniforms.

In the back part of the float appears the scene of a battlefield, where the Manchu and revolutionary flags are conspicuously in evidence. In the distance are painted ships of the Chinese navy which revolted against the Manchu government and hoisted the revolutionary flags at the tops of their masts. The Manchu soldiers are seen in their long and ancient Chinese army boots, while the revolutionists are resplendent in their up-to-date uniforms.

NO ACCIDENTS; CROWDS ORDERLY

It was a featureless Floral Parade morning, from a police point of view. No reports of accidents, runaways, riots or general disturbance during the Parade this morning were registered at the receiving station, and at noon today the captains of the different watches reported to Sheriff Jarrett that everything went along nicely this morning.

Captain C. H. Baker, senior officer of the day, was in charge of the policemen in town this morning, when the parade, under command of Brigadier General M. M. Macomb, started from the Palace Square.

Captain N. T. Neilson was in command of the policemen in Thomas Square and in that neighborhood. Edward Holt, senior mounted police officer, had with him about fourteen officers, who cleared the streets through which the procession marched.

Captain Kahanamoku remained in the police station most of the time this morning. Chief of Detectives McDuffie, assisted by Sergeant Kellett, had his men stationed in different places. They did their part well. Sheriff Jarrett was very much pleased with the way his men handled the crowd this morning. Practically the same arrangements hold good for this afternoon.

Have you books you want bound, ruling done, or books made, send them to the Bulletin job printing and bindery plant.

COURT MARTIAL FOR OFFICER HERE

First Lieutenant John K. Hume, Fifth Cavalry, is to be tried by general court-martial for being absent from his post without leave. Orders from the Western Division giving the detail of the court arrived at department headquarters today, February 26 being the date set for the opening of the trial.

Lieutenant Hume was recently sent to the general hospital at Fort Shafter, with orders to return to duty at Schofield Barracks as soon as discharged. The young officer left the hospital, but, instead of reporting to his commanding officer, dropped out of existence for six days. He is said to have spent that time in Honolulu.

The case of Lieutenant Hume has created a world of comment at the post, and speculation is rife as to what the outcome of the escapade will be.

Following is the detail of the court that will try the dashing young cavalryman:

Colonel James S. Rogers, Infantry; Lieutenant Colonel Willson Y. Stamper, Second Infantry; Lieutenant Colonel Harry A. Benson, Fifth Cavalry; Major Ernestc V. Smith, Second Infantry; Major N. F. McClure, Fifth Infantry; Major W. M. Cruikshank, First Field Artillery; Captains Peter E. Marquart, Second Infantry; G. B. Prichard Jr., Fifth Cavalry; Clarence Deems Jr., First Field Artillery; W. R. Gibson, Second Infantry; V. D. Dixon, Fifth Cavalry; De Witt Chamberlain, Second Infantry. Captain L. Foerster, Fifth Cavalry, is named as judge advocate.
