THE RUINED CITY IN ARIZONA.

To the Editor of The Tribune.

SIR: Statements have recently been published in all of the papers in regard to the ruins of a city, said to have been recently discovered in Arizona, on the Little Colorado River. This discovery is not so very recent, after all. In July, 1859, a party, headed by a Capt. Thompson, in which were D. C. Collier, editor of The Central City Register, Wm. N. Byers, editor of The Denver News, Capt. Sopris, Dr. Bowlby, and a number of other scientific men, left Denver, and struck a line of march for the South West. Some time during the month of August they came upon these ruins, and upon their return made quite a voluminous report, which was published at the time in the Colorado papers, and afterward copied into papers throughout the States. Not having any maps with them, they were under the impression that the city was on Grand River, an affluent of the Colorado. Some of the buildings were in an excellent state of preservation, and an aqueduct, seven miles in length, built of hewn stone, with which the city had been supplied with water, was so well preserved, that but little repairs were necessary to make it available for its original purpose. The style of architecture was similar to that described by Mr. Stevens in his travels in Central America, and described by him as being of Aztec origin. In the valley, oranges, lemons, limes, and cotton were growing wild, showing that the land had at one time been under cultivation. The report of the discovery was made at Denver in September, 1859, and nothing but the persistent hostility of the Navajo Indians prevented the organization of a company for further explorations. Since then, the mines have absorbed the attention of parties emigrating to that section, and all interest in the discovery has been lost. A. O. M.

PRIMARY (40c.) ELEMENTARY (60c.)

PRACTICAL $1. MENTAL (40c.)

Clear, thorough, comprehensive; logically arranged; well graded; supplied with a great variety of examples; exact in their definitions; brief in their rules; condensed and searching in their analysis; up to the times, teach the methods actually used by business men; make the solution of a question an intelligent and not a mechanical process; perfect text-books; WITH NO REFRACTORY. Such is the verdict pronounced by teachers. Such are the advantages that are introducing them into schools everywhere.

CORNELL'S NEW SERIES.

PRIMARY (60c.) INTERMEDIATE ($1.)

GRAMMAR SCHOOL ($1 75.)

The text has undergone a right revision. The Map Questions have been brought in all cases directly opposite the Map to which they refer, and have been continued sufficiently to admit of a SUMMARY OF PHYSICAL GEOGRAPHY. The engravings are executed by our best artists.

One of the great features of this Revised Edition is its Magnificent Maps—the result of much experiment and labor—to which the publishers point with pride, as the most beautiful specimens in this line of art ever offered to the American public—accurate in their outlines, sharp and distinct in their lettering, admirable in the arrangement of names, tasteful in their coloring, and in all respects unexceptionable. The Grammar School contains a PRACTICAL SYSTEM OF MAP DRAWING.

MILLIONS OF COPIES HAVE BEEN SOLD!

They are used in the Public Schools of the City of New-York, and to the exclusion of all others in Brooklyn, Baltimore, Columbus, Charleston, Detroit, San Francisco, and scores of other cities; they are in very general use in all parts of the United States in Public and Private Schools.
