GRANT.

BEFORE THE PEOPLE.

Shame on the nation, if, while thou do'st wait
Thy People's judgment for a gift unsought,
The gall of party have so basely wrought
As to assail thee with its slanderous hate!
Thou, only thou, did'st wring from churlish fate
The prize at which thy comrades vainly caught;
Stood in the field, when all the fight was fought,
Alone, unpeered, self-balanced, modest, great!
Not victory alone was in thy hand,
Nor the slow-healing balm for wounds of strife,
Nor equal freedom, nor supreme command;
Not only these, we cry with feelings rife,
Not only victory thou gav'st the land,
Peace, liberty, and law, but very life!

Forget not, countrymen, the man who came
Before your faces when your hearts were low,
When all who led had failed before the foe,
And hope seemed dying by the hand of shame!
As Israel's Singer, with his brow aflame,
Came to sad Saul, your silent prophet so
Passed through your tents, that shook with stormy woe,
And calmed your hearts, and raised your ancient fame.
Crown his shy worth with gratitude, and lay
The Nation's rod at his scarce-willing feet,
That so his mission may be made complete;
And what he won you in the bloody fray
May grow to glory, in a peace so sweet,
Watched by his eye, and fostered day by day.

GEORGE H. BOKER.
