THE FARM.

DEHORNING THE COW.

If you are going to take off the cow's horns at all, now is the time, before there are any flies to annoy. Don't try to do it yourself; you will be likely to make a bad job of it. Get a man who knows what he is about, and who has some heart in him.

"The largest horse I can find in the United States," says a writer in Farm and Fireside, "is Royal Prince, who was raised in Crawford county, Pennsylvania. He is a dapple gray, stands nearly seven feet high at the shoulder, weighs 2,800 pounds when fat, wears a No. 20 collar and a No. 9 shoe, and is very finely proportioned.

NATIVE VARIETIES OF CORN.

The farmer should never send North or South for good seed corn. Until it becomes acclimated it will prove a disappointment. The best practice is to plant one or two acres with the best-selected variety, and cultivate it thoroughly and frequently with an implement that does not go deep enough to break the roots. Let all sterile stalks be cut out of the field, as well as all suckers. Corn to make well-bred seed corn should not be planted very thick. The idea is to make the highest type. From the first crop some 50 ears should be very carefully selected for a second crop. Uniformity in the size of ear and depth of grain is very important. Not a grain should be planted that does not come from a stalk that bore two or more good ears. As a general rule, red cobs carry the best grain, but no mixed corn of white, yellow and red should be planted. A genuine type of the best corn will show a hard and firm but not flinty grain, a small cob with the grains so adherent as not to be twisted with the hands, an average length of ear of from 9 to 11 inches (rarely 12), a weight of at least 55 pounds to the bushel, and oil enough in the grain to protect it from rotting. The number of rows of grain on the cob is not of any great importance. On large cobs there will be more rows of grain, but some of the best-yielding varieties have small ears and but 14 rows of grain. The number of rows vary from eight on the smaller varieties to 16 and 18 to 20. The Willis corn mentioned above usually has 14 rows.

SWEET POTATOES.

Sweet potatoes are becoming more and more popular in every part of the United States and in many portions of Europe. There are very many varieties, each having some point of excellence. The Jersey Red is a favorite in the North Atlantic States, but in the Southern States the Southern Queen and the Yellow Yam hold their places above all others. A variety that is preferred by many is the Brimstone Red; still another variety has a red skin, but white meat, and is known as the Bermuda. A long-rooted sweet potato known as the Spanish was once largely grown. It is not juicy like the yams when cooked, but is rather dry, producing a choking sensation when eaten. All these varieties and many more are grown in the South from Florida to Maryland. In the border States it is not safe to bed out sweet potatoes before the first of April. The hotbed is built above the ground by placing a load or two of fresh stable manure in the bottom of a pen, say five feet wide, ten feet long and two feet deep. On this stable manure, which should be at least one foot in thickness, fresh soil from the woods should be put to the depth of five inches. The potatoes should be laid on the bed so as not to touch one another and covered with fresh soil three inches deep. If the bed is protected from rains and watered every few days with suapsuds left after washing, the sprouts will soon begin to appear, and should be large enough to transplant on this four or five weeks should the weather be favorable for plant growth. A bed of this size will furnish enough slips to plant two acres.

NAME THE COUNTRY HOME.

Many of us find it extremely difficult to suggest a name for our country home. Sometimes, as in England, the names are descriptive, sometimes imitative and often the Christian names of some of the members of the family are united. Some very pretty names are taken from the color of the paint or the stone. "Greystone" is one of the best examples of this utilization of colors in the choice of names in a country place. "Red Top" was the name of a home near Washington belonging to ex-President Cleveland; and he also had another place named "Gray Gables." "Berthelys" is an attractive combination of Bertha and Ellen. The Christian or surname is often backwards, as Robert gives us "Trebor," and Edward "Drawde," women's names can be used in many ways, as "Mary Lawn," "Graceland," or "Roseglare," etc.

Names of trees give a pretty and descriptive title or a combination of names of trees that grow near a home. We have "Cedar Park," "Four Oaks," "Linbenshade," "Maplehurst," "Elmhurst," or Tennyson's "Aldworth."

"Brook is also charmingly combined, as "Silverbrook," "Hillbrook," "Clearbrook," and many others that will suggestgest themselves.

"Ingleside," Rest Cottage," "Heartsease," Hope Farm" are all lovely names.

The suffix "mere" is always beautiful, as "Elmmere," in the place of elms; "Willowmere" is more beautiful than willows.

Sometimes names are taken from the fruits growing on the place, as "Applehlossom," "Grapehill," "Peachblossom."

Some of the prettiest names for a country home are taken from flowers that grow in profusion about the place."Wildrose," "Clovermeck," "Linhe Lodge," and "Violet Villa."

If the home is built on the hill, "Rockledge," "Hilltop," or "Hillthrow" are always appropriate.

"Fernbank" is applicable where ferns abound.

Names taken from birds are very attractive, as "Swallowhome," "Wrenrest,"Eglesmere," "The Dove Cote," and "Pigeon Place."

The Better Way

The tissues of the throat are inflamed and irritated; you cough, and there is more irritation—more coughing. You take a cough mixture and it eases the irritation—for a while. You take and it cures the cold. That's what is necessary. It soothes the throat because it reduces the irritation; cures the cold because it drives out the inflammation; builds up the weakened tissues because it nourishes them back to their natural strength. That's how Scott's Emulsion deals with a sore throat, a cough, a cold, or bronchitis.

Children's Home Society.

The Kentucky Children's Home Society has sixty boys and girls between the ages of three and nine for whom they desire good, Christian homes. These children are unusually bright and attractive and we guarantee that as finely well be disappointed in a child we send them.

The winter months have given us an enormous number of work to do. We are receiving more children now in a month than we formerly did in a year and as a rule, the children are much brighter and much better looking and much easier controlled than children we formerly handled.

Will you not show your interest in this great work for humanity by giving a home to one of these little ones? Unless you have a first class home in every respect and unless you are moral and stand well in your community, do not apply, as we will under no circumstances place a child in a home unless it can get the very best advantages.

This is the Master's work, inasmuch as he said "Suffer little children to come unto Me and forbid them not." If you are interested in this charity and would like to take a child, please address the Kentucky Children's Home Society, No. 2136 Van Buren Avenue, Louisville, Ky.

Yours very respectfully,
