NEW MUSIC.

Mr. Homer N. Bartlett, a young composer of decided talent, has just published L'Esperance polka, a brilliant piece, written in a rather free style. (William A. Pond & Co.)

Messrs. Pond & Co. have published in separate numbers the principal songs of Sinbad the Sailor as given at Niblo's Garden, including the "Velocipede Song," "Go Ahead," and "Ask Papa."

Mr. Albert W. Berg has arranged a set of Delta Phi Waltzes, dedicated to the "Lampla chapter of the Troy Polytechnic Institute" (sic). Except in their gorgeous title-page they are no better than the average manufacture. (William A. Pond & Co.)

De Witt's popular Sixpenny Series of vocal and piano music, includes, beside the pieces we have already mentioned, several good ballads of a sentimental turn, such as "My Voice is Near," by W. F. Wrighton, "Blue-Eyed Violets," by J. T. Jackson, and "The Maiden and her Linnet," by W. H. Montgomery. The series also contains "Up in a Balloon," without which no popular collection now-a-days is thought to be complete.

SCIENTIFIC NOTES.

FIBRIN OF BLOOD.—Messrs. Bechamp and Estor maintain that the so-called fibrin of blood is only a kind of membrane formed by the microzymas associated with a substance secreted by them by means of the albumenoid substance of the blood.

TAILS OF COMETS.—Prof. Tyndall, in a lecture before the Cambridge Philosophical Society, expressed the opinion that the tails of comets, which are always turned from the sun, are produced much in the same way as symmetrical clouds are produced by vapors in tubes by the action of light. The heat is intercepted by the body of the comet, and a tail is produced by the deposit of vapors on the side opposite to the sun, which vapors become luminous by reflected light.

THE CHASSEPOT RIFLE IMPROVED.—It is said that the French Government are about applying an American invention to the Chassepot by which it will become a very formidable breech-loading weapon. By simply turning a button the converted Chassepot becomes a repeater, capable of firing eight rounds without reloading the magazine. The act of drawing the bolt to open the breech throws out the old case, the fresh cartridge comes up from below, and the closing of the breech pushes the cartridge into its chamber. The cost of the alteration is said to be very small.

NEW MODE OF PRODUCING OXYGEN.—Messrs. Montmagnon and Delaire produce oxygen from the atmosphere by means of charcoal and water, or by saline solutions. They state that 100 litres of fresh charcoal, when exposed to atmospheric air, will absorb 925 litres of oxygen and only 705 litres of nitrogen. If the charcoal so saturated with gas is then saturated with water there will be expelled 650 litres of nitrogen and only 350 litres of oxygen. Thus 575 litres of oxygen and only 45 litres of nitrogen are left in the charcoal. These gases they remove by means of an air-pump, when the charcoal is again ready to absorb oxygen and nitrogen from the air. The oxygen thus obtained is pure enough for all ordinary purposes, but the cost of procuring it by this method has not yet been practically determined.

PRESERVATION OF MARINE ANIMALS.—Mr. E. Verrill avers, in The American Naturalist, that he has successfully used glycerine for preserving marine animals by which they retain their natural colors nearly as brilliant as in life. The only precaution necessary is to use very heavy glycerine, and to keep up the strength by transferring the specimens to new glycerine as soon as they have given out water enough to weaken the first, repeating the transfer two or three times according to the size and number of the specimens until all the water has been removed. The old glycerine can be used again for the first bath. In many cases the specimens, especially the Crustacea, were killed by immersing them for a few minutes in strong alcohol, which aids greatly in the extraction of water, but usually turns the delicate kinds to an opaque, dull white color, but this opacity disappears when they are put in glycerine and the real colors again appear. The green shades turn red almost instantly in alcohol and specimens of this class should be put at once into glycerine.

CLIMATIC CHANGES PRODUCED BY TREES.—The British Medical Journal says the ground on which stands Ismailia, a town of 6,000 inhabitants, was but a few years since a dry, sandy desert, on which rain was never known to fall. All is now transformed. The old dried-up basin of Lake Timsah has been again filled with water from the Nile by a fresh-water canal. Trees, shrubs, and plants of all descriptions grow rapidly wherever the soil is irrigated, and the artificial oasis widens fast. Accompanying this extraordinary transformation of the aspect of the place there has been a corresponding change in the climate. At the present time Ismailia, during eight months in the year, is probably the healthiest spot in Northern Egypt. The mean temperature from June to September is 84° F., the four following months 74°, and the four Winter months 45°. Until two years ago rain was unknown, but in twelve months ending in April last there were actually fourteen days on which rain fell, and lately there fell a tremendous shower of rain—a phenomenon which the oldest Arab had never previously witnessed. Rain ceases to fall on a country deprived of its forests, or only falls in violent storms. Here we see rain returning to the desert on restoring the trees.

TEMPERATURE OF THE SEA AT GREAT DEPTHS.—Dr. Carpenter lately stated at the Royal Microscopical Society of London that the expedition fitted out under the auspices of the Royal Society, for deep-sea dredging between Cape Ross, Scotland, and the Faroe Islands, also endeavored to ascertain the temperature of the sea at great depths. For this purpose they sunk three thermometers at each trial, and on account of the uncertainty of registering minimum thermometers, no observation in which at least two of them did not agree, was relied upon. They were much astonished to find, in one series of observations, that at a depth of 500 fathoms the temperature of the sea was only 32 deg. Fahr.; for other observers, Sir John Herschel and Dr. Wallich, had given 39 deg. Fahr. as the lowest deep-sea temperature. This cold temperature did not extend beyond a limited area; for on each side of it, and also further westward, the temperature was much higher; and they supposed it to be due to a cold current from the north meeting here with the Gulf Stream, which latter then passes in a forked direction on each side of the cold area. The range of the surface temperature was from 50° to 54° Fahr., generally about 52°. At the depth of 3,900 feet the dredge brought up varities of crustacea, sponges, rhizopods, &c., and the scientists of the expedition have expressed the opinion that, given a warm temperature and a gradual subsidence, animal life may exist at any depth.

THE TRIBUNE ALMANAC REPRINTED.—Complete sets from 1838 to 1868, both inclusive, bound in two volumes. Price $10.

Politicians, Public Libraries, and all others interested, will be glad to know that we have been enabled to reproduce THE TRIBUNE ALMANAC for the years 1838 to 1868, inclusive, excepting 1842, in which year none was issued—comprehending the Politician's Register, and the Whig Almanac, containing Annual Election Returns by States and Counties, lists of Presidents, Cabinets, Judges of the Supreme Court, Foreign Ministers, Governors of States, &c., with Summaries of Acts of Congress, and other Political Statistics. The following introduction to the volumes, by Mr. Greeley, more fully explains their scope:

"In the Fall of 1837—years before the establishment of THE TRIBUNE—the October Elections having developed a popular uprising against the Jackson-Van Buren dynasty which had for ten years seemed invincible—I was moved to issue a POLITICAL REGISTER for 1838 intended mainly to embody the election Returns of that year, and compare them with those of some preceding year. The reception of that little annual was such as to justify its reproduction for each succeeding year—that of 1842 only excepted—until the issue for 1868 will complete a series of 1837 (date when Registers of Election Returns, with useful political and statistical matter, afforded for a trifle to each reader, though the preparation of each issue now involves a total cost of more than $1,000. This annual has been known successively as The Politician's Register, Whig Almanac, and Tribune Almanac, under which last name it has been issued for several years past. The stereotype plates of the earlier issues having been consumed in the fire which destroyed THE TRIBUNE building in 1865, it has for some years past been impossible to procure full sets of the work at any rate, and the imperfect sets from time to time thrown upon the market have commanded fabulous prices.

"At last the new art of PHOTO-LITHOGRAPHY—as yet in its infancy, but giving promise of great results in the future by no means distant—has rendered it possible to reproduce the old issues at a moderate cost; and it was resolved that a limited number of full sets of the work—at least so far as its contents were not ephemeral—should be photo-lithographed and offered to the public. Of that resolve, the work herewith presented is the fruit. As it will be wholly unique, and of great interest to historians and politicians, I trust that most of the sets may be promptly secured for Public Libraries, where they may be preserved and remain generally accessible. Those who fail to obtain a set directly will probably miss their only opportunity. HORACE GREELEY."

The complete sets of the Register and Almanac are comprised in two neatly bound volumes, and are now ready. Price for the two volumes, $10.

Those wishing to secure these interesting Political Statistics should send in their orders immediately, as only 1,000 copies are printed.

Each order must be accompanied with the cash. Address

The wood is to be delivered on the wharves of the respective posts, and the coal in the yards, or places provided for its reception at each post, and paid for according to the weight, as certified to by the Acting Assistant Quartermaster at the place of delivery.

Bidders must state separately the price at which they will deliver the wood and coal called for, at each of the above-named places.

Each bid must be accompanied by a guarantee, signed by two responsible persons, that in case the bid is accepted, and a contract entered into, they will become security in a sum equal to one-fourth of the amount of the contract, for the faithful performance of the same.

No bid will be entertained that is not made in accordance with this advertisement.

The Government reserves the right to reject any or all bids regarded as disadvantageous to the Department, or to accept such portion of any bid, not less than for one Post, that may be deemed of advantage to the public interests.

Bids may be made and will be entertained for delivering the coal and wood at any one or more of the places named herein.

Bidders have the privilege of being present at the opening of the bids.

Proposals must be addressed to the undersigned, and indorsed "Proposals for Wood or Coal" (as the case may be), to whom application should be made for additional particulars.
