LITERARY ITEMS.

A chapter from Mr. Howell's forthcoming book will be one of the attractions of the November number of The Atlantic. Bayard Taylor is writing a novel for the same magazine.

A. S. Hale & Co. of Hartford announce that they will soon publish by subscription, in one octavo volume, with portrait and illustrations, "Henry J. Raymond, and the New-York Press for Thirty Years," by Augustus Maverick.

The well-known firm of Mason Brothers have been led, by the death of one of their members, to retire from the publishing business, and have sold to Sheldon & Co. their entire list of School and College Text-Books, except the Analytical Readers, embracing Benson J. Lossing's series of Pictorial Histories of the United States, Burritt's "Geography and Atlas of the Heavens," Mattison's Astronomics and Pinney and Arnoult's French and Spanish Series.

A new London weekly, called The Gaiety Journal, is announced to appear on the 15th instant. Among its contributors will be Mr. John Oxenford, Mr. Dutton Cook, Mr. Sala, Mr. Boucicault, Mr. John Hollingshead, Mr. Frederick Boyle, Mr. Saville Clarke, Mr. Moy Thomas, and numerous others. A novelty in the appearance of the journal will be the introduction of illustrations, colored and tinted by what is called the "Gillott process," familiar to the readers of the Vie Parisienne and the Eclipse. These will be produced for The Gaiety in Paris. Mr. Sala will appear in the new journal both as a literary and artistic contributor. Each number will contain a satirical portrait similar to those of Vanity Fair, and what is called a panoramic picture of numerous figures occupying the two center pieces.

THE TRIBUNE ALMANAC REPRINTED.—Complete sets from 1838 to 1869, both inclusive, bound in two volumes. Price $10.
Politicians, Public Libraries, and all others interested, will be glad to know that we have been enabled to reproduce THE TRIBUNE ALMANAC for the years 1838 to 1868, inclusive, excepting 1842, in which year none was issued—comprehending the Politician's Register, and the Whig Almanac containing Annual Election Returns by States and Counties, lists of Presidents, Cabinets, Judges of the Supreme Court, Foreign Ministers, Governors of States, &c., with Summaries of Acts of Congress, and other Political Statistics. The following introduction to the volumes, by Mr. Greeley, more fully explains their scope:
"In the Fall of 1837—years before the establishment of THE TRIBUNE—the October Elections having developed a popular uprising against the Jackson-Van Buren dynasty which had for ten years seemed invincible—I was moved to issue a POLITICAL REGISTER for 1838, intended mainly to embody the election Returns of that year, and compare them with those of some preceding year. The reception of that little annual was such as to justify its reproduction for each succeeding year—that of 1842 only excepted—until the issue for 1868 will complete a series of thirty annual Registers of Election Returns, with other useful political and statistical matter, adapted for a trifle to each reader, though the preparation of each issue now involves a total cost of more than $1,000. This annual has been known successively as The Politician's Register, Whig Almanac, and Tribune Almanac, under which last name it has been issued for several years past. The stereotype plates of the earlier issues having been consumed in the fire which destroyed THE TRIBUNE building in 1845, it has for some years past been impossible to procure full sets of the work at any rate, and the imperfect sets from time to time thrown upon the market have commanded fabulous prices.
"At last the new art of PHOTO-LITHOGRAPHY—as yet in its infancy, but giving promise of great results in the future by no means distant—has rendered it possible to reproduce the old issues at a moderate cost; and it was resolved that a limited number of full sets of the work—at least so far as its contents were not ephemeral—should be photo-lithographed and offered to the public. Of that resolve, the work herewith presented is the fruit. As it will be wholly unique, and of great interest to historians and politicians, I trust that most of the sets may be promptly secured for Public Libraries, where they may be preserved and remain generally accessible. Those who fail to obtain a set directly will probably miss their only opportunity. HORACE GREELEY."
The complete sets of the Register and Almanac are comprised in two neatly bound volumes, and are now ready. Price for the two volumes, $10.
Those wishing to secure these interesting Political Statistics should send in their orders immediately, as only 1,000 copies are printed.
Each order must be accompanied with the cash. Address
THE TRIBUNE New-York.
