BERGEN POINT, N. J., March 7.—A large number of persons witnessed the sweepstake shooting matches at the grounds of the New-York Gun Club here, yesterday. The sport opened with two sweeps at glass balls, both matches being won by Colonel Butler, with scores of eight and nine out of ten. The next contest was the 100-bird match between A. B. Dexter and H. Clay. The conditions were 28 yards' rise, Hurlingham rules. The birds were hard flyers. The contest was close, and resulted in favor of Mr. Dexter, by a score of 89 to 37. A twenty-bird sweep, at twenty-six yards rise, for $50 a side, between F. Levy and R. King against J. Irwin and F. Spencer, was won by Messrs. Levy and King, by a score of 16 to 13. The most important event of the day was the second competition for the Barron Cup. Fourteen men entered. The conditions were ten birds each, handicap rise, English rules. The winner of the cup was Mr. G. Morris, who killed ten birds in succession, at twenty-six yards. The other best scores were as follows: Dexter, twenty-eight yards, 8; J. T. Fallmen, thirty yards, 8; D. Barton, thirty yards, 6; H. Clay, twenty-six yards, 6; W. Stone, twenty-eight yards, 6; G. Jones, twenty-nine yards, 6.

TWENTY PRISONERS BREAK LOOSE.

WHEELING, W. Va., March 7.—Last evening at 9 o'clock about twenty prisoners confined in the workhouse mutinied, and, attacking the guard, escaped from custody. The attacking prisoners escaped unhurt, but the guard, who was roughly treated, fired and killed instantly an inoffensive prisoner.

We have "the" smart boy in Centreville. To explain all, I must first tell you of his father. Like many gentlemen, he takes his cod liver oil and whiskey each morning. Of course, such an opportunity of impressing temperance principles upon the youthful mind could not be lost. So—each dose went down with a shiver, terrible frown, and exclamation, "Boo! I could stand the cod liver oil, but this whiskey," another shiver, "is dreadful!" Our boy listened, and stored it all up in his youthful mind. The other day he was cleaning out the top shelf of a closet for his mother. "Ma, what's this?" Mother looks, and cautiously smells. "Oh! rancid cod liver oil." Soon another bottle is handed down, another and another; contents varying from a teaspoonful to half a cup, all "spoilt cod liver oil." At last the youngster raised his eyebrows and gravely remarked: "Ma, it's funny that ma tells all this good cod liver oil spoil, but never a drop of the whiskey!"—[Alameda Reporter.

THE LITERARY REVOLUTION.
VOLUNTEERS.

Our Friends know how, like "leaven," our books work when they get into a neighborhood. It is common for the sight of one to sell a hundred. In one case a sample of "Universal Knowledge" actually sold 1,000 volumes within a week. It got into a large manufacturing house, and "took" more rapidly than "smallpox" ever did! Our customers invariably become our friends and volunteer to work for the Revolution.

Our Catalogue, handed to an acquaintance by one who knows our books or knows us, with one good word of commendation, will be of real and probably of great service to the "revolution." Will not every friend who receives an extra catalogue make such use of it? We will gladly send any quantity for wise distribution.

Remarkable Progress. The success of this movement continues to be without parallel in literary history. But little more than a year ago one large printing press was sufficient for its needs. To-day our facilities, equalled in extent by only a few of the old millionaire publishing houses, are taxed to the uttermost, but cannot meet the demands for our books. For weeks we have been running our presses twelve hours a day, recently extending the time to fourteen hours; as one set of hands cannot endure such continued labor, we have already started two sets of hands, and the machinery, which never tires, will run the entire twenty-four hours six days in the week.

Type-Setting by Steam. It has not been commonly known that type is now set and distributed by machinery. It is a very interesting sight to see the machines at work which have set the type in our "Acme Libraries" of "History," "Biography," "Classics," and "The Library Magazine." With their aid one man does the work of five by the old hand process. One office at work for us has twenty-six of these machines already, and more are building. Probably no invention ever more severely taxed the ingenuity of man, and none was ever more completely successful.

Three Great Books
Three Great Offers } To Readers of this Paper.

The old millionaire publishing houses, whose monopolies and power we are breaking, of course fight us as best they can. Many newspapers under their power and influence have refused us even the use of their advertising columns, and have prejudiced slaveholders against us, as it is the people's interest, and we have sold books in spite of them, notwithstanding their opposition, as it is the interest of the people to buy our books, instead of being misled by their ads. The best men of this class, however, are learning and accepting the fact that the "revolution" is in their interest also, as it vastly increases the sale of books, and our "Terms to Clubs" afford abundant profit to the bookseller who has sense and a proportionate amount of brains to invest. The greatest enemy which the revolution has thus far met has been "incredulity." Some clergymen have thought we meant a "practical joke" by offering Gelkie's "Life and Words of Christ" complete for fifty cents. Good people commonly have thought books could not be made so cheap. It is a simple fact that thus far it has cost us about as much to advertise our books and convince people that we are really telling the truth about them as it has cost to manufacture the books themselves. If it were not for this immense tax for advertising, it would be possible for us to make prices even less than we have done. With the special object of demonstrating to the readers of this paper the great things which are being done for lovers of good books, and making further advertising unnecessary, we describe below three great books, one or more of which is sure to be wanted by every intelligent owner of $5 cents. They fairly represent our large and rapidly growing list of Standard Books, in quality of paper, printing, binding and luxurious cost.

First Offer. Either of the three books will be sent by mail on receipt of price and postage, and if not found satisfactory may be returned, at once, and the price will be immediately refunded.

Second Offer. To any reader of this paper who will cut out and return this ad. within one week from the time he receives it, with the sum of $1 50, we will send the three books by mail free of postage, and either or all may be returned at once if not satisfactory, and the price will be refunded.

Third Offer. Any reader of this paper who will take the trouble to show this advertisement to his neighbors, and influence them to unite with him and order, within one week from the time he receives the paper, of the three books, to the value of $5, we will send the box free of expense, and send to him one book extra, for his trouble. Any or all of the books may be returned if not satisfactory, and the money will be refunded. This slip must be cut out and returned at the time we agree to secure these terms.

The Editors and Publishers of this paper know well both us and our books, that they are all we represent them, and that we do all we agree to do. If you inquire of your neighbors you will probably find some who have already dealt with us, for our customers are now found in almost every village in the United States and Canada.

Acme Library of Biography.

Twelve standard books, at one time published at $1 25 each, now issued in one volume, beautiful brevier type, neatly cloth-bound, for 50 cents, postage 8 cents, containing: "Frederick the Great," by Macaulay; "Robert Burns," by Carlyle; "Mahomet," by Gibbon; "Martin Luther," by Chevalier Bunsen; "Mary, Queen of Scots," by Lamartine; "Joan of Arc," by Michelet; "Hannibal," by Thomas Arnold; "Cæsar," by Lodbrook; "Cromwell," by Lamartine; "William Pitt," by Macaulay; "Columbus," by Lamartine; "Vittoria Colonna," by Trollope.

The Book of Fables.

Æsop's Fables, complete, with text based upon Croxall, La Fontaine and L'Estrange, with copious additions from other modern authors; profusely illustrated by Ernest Griset. About 400 pp., cloth, price 50 cents; postage 8 cents. Ready March 10.

Our new edition of the Fables of Æsop, we think, will be found, for reading or reference, the best ever issued. It contains about twice as many of the fables attributed to Æsop as the editions we have hitherto published, with nearly as many more of later date. The type is a large, legible brevier, on a beautiful face, and the illustrations, nearly forty in number, are by the best artist who has ever pictured the wit and wisdom of the antique satirist.

VERDICT OF PRESS AND PEOPLE.

One of Many. It hardly seems possible, and yet this book is one of many which are published by this house at low prices. It is a marvel in bookmaking.—[Telegraph, Pittsburg, Penn.

A Country Parson's Opinion. I bid you God speed in the worthy enterprise of giving us good literature and cheap. We country parsons can now fill our shelves with good books at small cost.—[Rev. C. H. A. Bulkley, Port Henry, N. Y.

The Important Problem. The American Book Exchange is solving the important problem of furnishing good and standard books at prices within the reach of all persons of moderate incomes.—[Chicago Evening Journal.

A Rich Relative. Has some rich relative left you a colossal fortune which you are spending in publishing books for the people at nominal prices? If so, I admire your taste. But won't the old line publishers be glad when it is gone!—[R. F. Congdon, Randolph, N. Y.

Reliable—Too Strange to be True! The American Book Exchange is reliable. This we say from actual knowledge. It is almost too strange to believe that standard books should be published at so low a price, but it is an actual fact, and the books are well printed and bound. We unhesitatingly endorse the American Book Exchange and commend its course in bringing the best literature within the reach of all classes of people.—[The Central Baptist, St. Louis, Mo.

Can't Lend Ours! To our friends of literary tastes we would say: Your lives will be intolerable without this work. Send and get it—we can't lend ours.—[State Journal, Jefferson City, Mo.

Editor of The Tribune. Dear Sir: I write with shame and confusion of face to take it all back, i. e., what I wrote in my first communication, since receiving I have received from the American Book Exchange the volume for which I sent. I now regard Mr. Alden as a benefactor, and shall endeavor to disseminate the knowledge of him and his wares among my acquaintances. Pentonville, yours, C. H. Bordman, St. Paul, Minn.

"Wring your Neck." You are making a fire-crack name for yourself and house in this city outside of the general book men. They would, if they could, wring your neck if they dare.—[J. H. Hunter, Chicago, Ill.

Chambers' English Literature. So popular and descriptive in character, so interest the most unscholarly reader, it is so compact, inexpensive and reliable as to command the respect of the most accomplished student of our literature. Has the merit of compactness, portability, and inexpensiveness. Of course to meet these ends the type cannot be of the largest nor the paper of the thickest; but what deficiencies exist in these respects—and they are not material—are more than made up by the striking cheapness of the work. The American Book Exchange deserves credit for the part it is taking in popularizing standard literature.—[Christian Union, N. Y.
