The Ill Effects of Hoarding Money vs. The Advantages of a Bank Account

At the Ad Man's Club meeting Thursday night, Mr. Shearer of the Bank of Anderson read a report, compiled by the State Bank Examiner I. M. Mauldin, covering the three hundred and odd State, private, and bank accounts of the State, as of date of March 4th, 1915, as compared with the same date 1914. This report, in a manner, shows that there are some few people who, for one reason and another, are not depositing their money in the banks as they should.

It may be, and in some cases probably is, lack of confidence in the banks, and in others, the trouble is—that the person owing the bank small loans, sells his products for the cash, and anticipating that he will have some trouble getting sufficient credit to enable him to support himself and family until crop time, or until he can get on his feet again, keeps his money in his pocket; renews his small note in the bank; puts his creditors off, and uses this money for his every day needs.

Just to show some of the effects of this Business Depression through which this country is just beginning to emerge, we quote a few extracts from this bank report:

	1915	1914	Decrease
Loans and Discounts	$49,747,802.55	$58,001,714.45	$8,253,911.90
Individual Deposits	17,443,049.52	26,834,184.79	9,391,135.27
Savings Deposits	20,049,987.48	24,169,633.22	4,119,645.74
Cash on Hand	1,564,664.53	1,960,861.94	396,197.41

Secretary of the Treasury McAdoo states that there was just as much money in America before the Regional Bank Currency was placed in circulation; so, if his statement is true, then, with the addition of the Regional Bank Currency, we should have had more money than last year, but the report shows that we are short about four hundred thousand dollars in this State.

In conversation with one of our best known bankers yesterday, he pointed out the fact that the Loans and Discounts decrease was practically the same amount as the decrease in Individual Deposits, which to a banker meant that the greater part of the loans are paid by checks on the open accounts of the bank with whom the borrowers are doing their business. Get this point fixed clearly in your mind. The decrease in the amount of Loans and Discounts is practically the same as the decrease in the Deposits Subject to Check. This very clearly illustrates the importance and great convenience of the banks to the business world. Every dollar deposited in a bank enables you, or some other reputable business man to do from three to ten times the amount of business that you could do on the same capital, if you did not deposit it. Why? For the very simple reason that the greater portion of all business is done on a credit; that if you place your money in the bank, and check against it as you need it; and then when you need additional money, if you have taken care of your obligations, you will be enabled to stretch your credit to a point that you could not have possibly have reached had you never deposited your money in the bank.

Of course the banks make some money out of the use of your money, but it is a great convenience to you in a great many ways. In the first place, they provide a safe place for your money; you are freed from the terrible anxiety and worry of looking after the safety of your money. You don't have to lay awake at nights fearing a burglar or hold-up man. You know that your money is in a safe place. Then the bank enables you to pay your accounts with checks, thus affording you a perfect receipt; they are compelled to do a lot of book-keeping work and clerical work in order to take care of your checks. Then, when you have established your credit with a bank, you have a friend financially that will stand you in hand when financial troubles arise.

This short treatise on the advisability of keeping one's money in the bank is written, not in the interest of any bank, but more in the interest of all of us; because, the money that is deposited in our banks, the more real money there is in circulation, and the more money in the banks, the more credit we have, thus expanding the volume of business to be done, which means more prosperity for all of us. Therefore, the man who hoards his money (or its equivalent— not only hurts himself, but he is holding back the balance of the community, too.

Think this matter over, and if you have been keeping your money out of the bank, go to some good, safe bank now, and deposit it. It will help the community, and you, yourself most; and then you will not be as apt to spend it if it is in the bank.

SHRINERS WILL MEET IN SEATTLE

Outline of Program for Forty-First Session Imperial Shrine.

Atlanta, May 8.—A preliminary outline for the program of the Forty-first Annual Session of the Imperial Council Nobles of the Mystic Shrine, which will be held at Seattle, Washington, the week of July 11, has been received by Illustrious Potentate Forrest Adair of Yarrab Temple, Atlanta.

It is of unusual interest here because last year's annual Imperial Council convention was held in Atlanta, bring here the most tremendous crowd ever gathered in a Southern city for any purpose.

Judging from the program received Nile Temple at Seattle is preparing to entertain the Shriners of North America as elaborately as they were entertained in Georgia.

The first day, which is Sunday, will be given over to services at the First Presbyterian church which will be conducted by the Rev. M. A. Matthews, D. D., who is a Noble of Nile Temple, and services at St. Mark's Episcopal church by Rt. Rev. Temple. In the afternoon there will be an automobile ride, and band concert in the evening.

The second day will be known as "Canadian Day," and there will be auto trips, banquets, dinners and other elaborate functions.

The third day will be "Tacoma Day" when the big parade will be held. The fourth day will be "Portland Day" and the fifth day will be "Montana Day."

Yarrab Temple, Atlanta, and other Georgia Temples are planning to send a big delegation, most of the members of whom will take occasion to visit the Panama Pacific Exposition during the trip.

BELTON vs. ORR MILL

Locals Suffered Aerial Drubbing Yesterday at Belton.

Orr Mill suffered an overwhelming defeat Saturday afternoon in Belton at the hands of the Belton Mill team. Both of these teams are members of the Anderson Mill League. Some of the teams have not yet played their first game, and the standing of the clubs is not yet in shape to be printed.

The game on Saturday afternoon was a walk away for the Belton boys, they having defeated Orr Mill to the score of 1 to 5. The game was a regular swiftest. Batteries for Orr were Spencer and Kay, Belton, Ward and Sipes.

This is the second game played between these two teams, Orr Mill was the first victor. This places these two teams on an equal basis and a percentage of 500 each in the standing of the clubs. No report was obtained from the game scheduled to be played between Gluck and Equinox Mills.

What Russian Soldiers Think of "Germans."

In the May American Magazine Captain Granville Fortescue, writing a report of the great war on the eastern frontier of Germany, gives the following picture of the Russian common soldier and his feeling about the Germans:

"The Russian common soldier is one of the most patient of creatures. He has all the qualities of a willing horse. He follows his officers blindly. Judged by American standards, he lacks initiative; but in the war of the trenches initiative plays little part. You can put a company of Russian soldiers into a trench and they will stay there until they are all killed, captured, or frozen. When it so happens that all their officers are disabled they have one simple rule—to charge. They have received orders that under no circumstances must they go back so they merely go forward.

"I don't believe that they know much of what the war is all about, but they never did understand why they were fighting the Japanese, who were a people practically unknown to them. But the 'Germans,' they have been told, want to take a big slice of Holy Mother Russia. No sacrifice is too great to prevent this. Judging from the great masses of troops I have seen, and these include regiments from the emperor's guard division and the Siberian fliers, I believe Russia to have the finest raw material for her armies of any nation of the world."

Doctor Has Antidote for Bichloride of Mercury.

The medical world has become interested in the claim of Dr. J. H. Wilms of Cincinnati that he has discovered an antidote for bichloride of mercury poisoning. In explaining his discovery the doctor said:

"Chemists have long known that sulphur forms an insoluble compound with mercury, but it had never been used universally as an antidote to mercurial poisoning. I have used calcium sulphide in one-tenth to one one-hundredth grain doses, repeated every hour, in mercurial poisoning such as we frequently meet with. In giving mercury for diseased conditions requiring large doses internally, when salivation would follow in these cases relief followed almost immediately.

"In bichloride poisoning we have almost the same condition as from mercury distributed to the various tissues and organs. This condition requires some drug that will form an insoluble compound. This is what the calcium sulphide does. Bichloride of mercury is one of the most valuable drugs and antiseptics in use, and its universal use makes it all the more important that its antidote should be known."

Berlin Newspapers Jubilant. London, May 8.—An Exchange Telegraph dispatch from Copenhagen says:

"Berlin newspapers print news of the sinking of the Lusitania in colossal type: 'Hail it as new triumph Germany's naval policy. General impression that England what she deserves.'"

Nothing But Piracy, Says Roosevelt. Syracuse, N. Y., May 8.—Theodore Roosevelt, former president of the United States, after learning details of the sinking of the Lusitania late today, made this statement:

"This represents not merely piracy but piracy on a vaster scale of murder than any old time pirate ever practiced. This is the warfare which destroyed Louvain and Dinant and hundreds of men, women and children in Belgium. It is warfare against innocent men, women and children, traveling on the ocean, and to our fellow country women, who are among the sufferers.

"It seems inconceivable that we can refrain from taking action in this matter, for we owe it not only to humanity, but to our own nation's self-respect."

FIRST FORMAL COMMENT ISSUED FROM WHITE HOUSE

Washington, May 8.—The first formal comment from the White House on the sinking of the Lusitania was issued tonight. After a conference with President Wilson, Secretary Tamm said: "Of course the president feels the distress and gravity of the situation to the utmost and is considering earnestly but calmly the right course of action to pursue. He knows that the people of the country wish and expect him to act with deliberation as well as with firmness."

A state department cable tonight from United States Consul Frost at Queenstown said the total number of Lusitania survivors was 600. Probably twelve hundred bodies have not been recovered. He reports that the persons not listed to the department are almost certainly dead.

The names of 73 of the survivors of the 188 Americans who were aboard the Lusitania were reported to the state department at midnight. The task of comparing the names was suspended until tomorrow. Consul Frost at Queenstown said there is virtually no hope that any more will be found alive.

MR. A. P. WALKER

Revolutions on His Death By Odd Fellows.

Whereas it has pleased the Supreme Ruler of the Universe to take from us Brother A. P. Walker, one of our beloved members, be it resolved by this lodge of Independent Order of Odd Fellows:

First. That we bow in humble submission to the will of our Father who doeth all things well.

Second. That this go on record in expressing our appreciation of the noble Christian character and clean moral life of our brother, whose constant care was to live and practice real Christianity, the principles of truth and love, and whose life should serve as an inspiration to all our brothers.

While we rejoice that he was worthy of the name of an Odd Fellow, we mourn with those who have been sorely bereaved and with them hope to meet again in that immortal world, where, "There shall be no more death, neither sorrow nor pain. Death and the dead are always among us, teaching us the uncertainty of human life and fortune.

By this solemn event, we are reminded of these words and that our affectionate remembrance of him who was united with us in the rites of our beloved order is yet green in our minds, and his good deeds should not be forgotten:

To him who has departed to that mystic shore, let us say:

"Rest brother, rest; thy work is done, Life's conflict o'er—the victory won; Now rest in peace, and thy banners fur!"

Where the streets are gold, and the gates are pearl."

Third. That we hereby express our profound grief to the widow of our beloved brother and join with her therein.

Fourth. That a copy of these resolutions be sent to the deceased brother's wife and that a copy be recorded in our minutes.

Fifth. That another copy of these resolutions be sent to the Anderson Intelligencer and the Anderson Daily Mail.

British Soldiers Praise Y. M. C. A. London, May 8.—Letters signed by 400 British soldiers have been sent to Queen Mary, telling of the benefits they received from a Young Men's Christian association recreation hut named in her honor and situated in the rear of the fighting line in France.

The Y. M. C. A. has a number of these amusement shelters for soldiers in France. Two of them were built under peculiar circumstances. For one, the money was collected from more than 600,000 boys and girls of England, who gave their pennies. Contributions from 5,000 owners of dogs and cats paid for the other.

Arrangements have been made to send over 24 billiard tables to the huts in France. The soldiers are planting flowers and shrubs about the premises.
