NOTES ON EDUCATION.

The Rev. Dr. Isaac M. Wise, the president, has just submitted to the Board of Governors the annual report of the Hebrew Union College. "There is, perhaps," he says, "no school in this country which does so much in so short a time as your Hebrew Union College. The main causes thereof are system, method, punctuality, conscientiousness and fraternal co-operation of each and all, teachers and students, the Board of Governors and the Faculty, all of whom are directed and governed by the same religious spirit of benevolence and the eminent will to do that well which they have undertaken to do. Another cause thereof is the scientific training which the students receive simultaneously in the high school and University, and the co-operative plan of the college, so that the apparently opposing institutes actually support and supplement one another, especially in philosophy, philology and history."

A bill has been introduced in the Louisiana Legislature which has for its object the consolidation of the institutions now known as the "University of Louisiana" and the "Tulane University" into one institution, to be known as the "Tulane University of Louisiana." This bill, if passed, will make Mr. Tulane's great gifts for educational purposes in Louisiana practically useful. "We assume," says The New-Orleans Times-Democrat, "that there will be little or no discussion in this matter. The State is asked simply to accept a donation of about $1,000,000, and the conditions by which the donor proposes to surround his gift are so manifestly reasonable and proper that it is difficult to see how any controversy could arise. Our people are secured absolutely in the use and enjoyment of Mr. Tulane's munificent donation, and his representatives, in framing the bill in question, simply employ such precautions as will remove the University wholly beyond the reach of political emergency or factional interference. The merging of the present University with its property, the absorption of its identity in the proposed Tulane University, is as it should be. The State does not part with its possessions. We merely have them put into a more durable and useful shape and restored to us enlarged, beautified, strengthened and perpetuated. We profit twice instead of once through Mr. Tulane's philanthropy."

The Boston Transcript gives currency to a report that there is a great deal of drunkenness and vice at Brown University.

The vacant presidency of Union College is exciting some attention. "The proper man for the position," says The Albany Argus, "is some one who does not wish it. He should be one unidentified with any of the troubles that have been composed. He should, if possible, be a man strong in himself and strong in the associations represented by him. Such a man will not be found, if looked for. He will be revealed, if waited for. Time is the aid of wisdom in such a situation as now exists."

The Commencement exercises of Williams College will occupy six days beginning on June 16.

One of the professors of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology is not in favor of co-education. After the entrance examinations the other day he met a lady who is a "worker" for the "advancement of women." Said the lady to the professor: "I am so deeply interested in the Institute for its noble attitude toward women. It is so advanced to give the girls that chance which their brothers have long enjoyed. I do hope there were a large percentage of girls among those examined to-day; we women are thirsting for these privileges of drinking in knowledge at its well-springs." "I cannot pretend," her companion returned drily, "to say how general and pressing the thirst may be, but I think heaven that to-day we examined one hundred and ninety-two boys and only one girl. May it not be that the thirst is not so keen, now the paling is taken away from about the well-spring?" She answered him never a word, but her looks indicated a great and implacable indignation.

The New-Orleans Times-Democrat is in favor of making Spanish an important study in the public schools. "Here at New-Orleans," it says, "we have the best opportunities of establishing these schools. There are thousands of our own people Castilian by descent, thousands of others who understand the language, and plenty of material for good teachers. Spanish is fully as important a tongue as French, and should be made a necessary study in every school which includes the higher branches. Especially should the University of Louisiana seek to introduce the knowledge of this tongue, which has been so truthfully described as "the language of angels"; which is sonorous, sweet and beautiful, full, strong and graphic; which is spoken by over fifty million people, and which, commercially, is one of the most valuable languages that any one can know just now."
