(care Anderson Intelligencer)

ANDERSON, S. C.

Phone 37.

Mrs. John K. Hood and Misses Margaret and Martha Hood have returned from a short visit to Due West.

Miss Laurie Dowling has returned from a visit to Bamberg.

Mrs. J. E. Sadler and Miss Mary Sadler have returned from a visit to relatives in Washington, Georgia.

Miss Elizabeth Moore of Barnwell, is visiting Miss Edith Hubbard.

Palmetto Chapter.

The Palmetto chapter U. D. C., will meet this afternoon at five o'clock with Mrs. J. M. Sullivan, Jr., Mrs. Jake Sullivan, and Mrs. Charles Spearman at the home of the former on Frank's street.

Mr. and Mrs. James Pressley are at home from their wedding trip.

Miss Ola McGregor is in Belton for a short stay.

Miss Ida May Brownlee of Abbeville is visiting Miss Edith Major.

Miss Charlotte Stevenson, and Mr. David Stevenson of Fockwell, Iowa are the guests of their aunt, Mrs. L. L. Parks in North Anderson.

Miss Melle Culp of Muskogee, Oklahoma, is visiting her cousin, Mrs. S. G. Hardin, in North Anderson.

Miss Azalee Bailes has gone to Greenville to visit relatives.

Afternoon Bridge.

On Friday afternoon of last week, Mrs. Joseph R. Dyson complimented Mrs. K. A. Willhelt's house guests, Mrs. Fitzhugh Knox of Atlanta, and Mrs. Jack Sadler of Anderson, S. C., with a pretty afternoon bridge at the Country Club. Thirty-two guests were present, and after the games a lovely salad course was served.—Washington (Ga.) Reporter.

For Mrs. Knox and Mrs. Sadler, complimentary to Mrs. Knox and Mrs. Sadler, Mrs. C. E. Sutton was hostess at a delightful bridge party on Saturday afternoon, at the home of Mrs. M. M. Green on Main St. Twelve guests were present, Mrs. T. E. Howard, of Anderson, S. C., and Mrs. Knox of Atlanta, and Mrs. Sadler of Anderson, S. C., being out of town guests.—Washington (Ga.) Reporter.

Beautiful Afternoon Party.

One of the largest and most beautiful entertainments this season, was given Thursday afternoon by Mrs. P. T. Callaway at the Country Club, the honor guests being Mrs. T. E. Howard and Mrs. Jack Sadler of Anderson, S. C. Eight handsome silver serving cups, prizes awarded the hostess' famous Rhode Island Checkers, filled with sweet peas, nasturtiums, lilies and athenas, and tastefully arranged decorated the club house. Dainty little Misses Anna Julia Howard, Hermione Barksdale, Dorothy Dyson and Mary Anthony Sadler served punch during the afternoon. Following rock and bridge, lovely refreshments were served. Sixty-five guests were invited. Among the out-of-town guests, were Mrs. Jack Sadler of Anderson, S. C., Mrs. Samuel Green of Atlanta, S. C., Franklin of Covington, Mrs. Sam Garlington of Augusta, Miss Mary West of Thompson, Mrs. Claud Fleming of Augusta, Mrs. W. G. Love of Columbus, and Mrs. Cecil Gaggett of Sanford, Fla.—Washington, (Ga.) Reporter.

Toxaway Won Game.

On Saturday afternoon the Toxaway mill baseball team defeated the Anderson mill team by the score of 8 to 5. Both of these teams are especially strong and the contest was marked by good playing. Manager Tinsley of the Toxaway team says that his team is a good one and is going to give someone a good race.

Batteries for the game: Toxaway, Hughes and Tinsley; Anderson, Moore and Kilpatrick.

Ice Cream and Cake Sale.

The Ladies Altar Society of St. Joseph's Catholic church will have charge of Atkinson's beautiful new ice cream parlor on Thursday afternoon and evening. They will sell ice cream for 10c, and cake at 5c per slice. Every one visiting the store will be given a ticket, and the lucky number will be given a box of candy. It is a great pleasure to Anderson people to have Atkinson ice cream parlor again. For years it was a favorite place with the ladies and children and it will soon regain its former popularity, as it is more beautifully equipped than ever before.

Mrs. James Moss, of Walthalla is visiting her sister, Mrs. John Anderson, on North Main street.

Bagwell-Wood.

Miss Mae Bagwell and Mr. Arthur Wood were married Sunday afternoon by Rev. Henry Martin, a few miles below the city.

She Is Preaching Peace

The International conference, for Woman Workers to be held at the Panama Pacific Exposition July 4-7, will try to make the present war the last, according to Leonie H. Fordham, who has begun a campaign to arouse interest in the gathering.

Dr. Fordham looks to William Jennings Bryan as the greatest power for peace this country has. She said she was glad he had resigned from the cabinet because he was now footloose. "He can go out and speak for peace."

He is free to work for it now, and you in the east do not understand what influence he has in the great West. But indeed the West doesn't want war. In my state, California, men and women are solidly against war.

"The coming conference will be the greatest peace conference ever held, and we hope it will accomplish all the women's conference at The Hague did not accomplish. It is a mistake for Jane Addams and her conferees to go to Europe. America is the country out of which peace must grow, and they should have stayed at home."

GRANDMA USED SAGE TEA TO DARKEN HAIR

She Mixed Sulphur With It to Restore Color, Gloss, Thickness.

Common garden sage brewed into a heavy tea with sulphur and alcohol added, will turn gray, streaked and faded hair beautifully dark and luxuriant, remove every bit of dandruff, stop scalp itching and falling hair. Just a few applications will prove a revelation if your hair is fading, gray or dry, scraggy and thin. Mixing the Sage Tea and Sulphur recipe at home, though, is troublesome. An easier way is to get the ready-to-use tonic, costing about 50 cents a large bottle at drug stores, known as "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," thus avoiding a lot of fuss.

While wispy, gray, faded hair is not sinful, we all desire to retain our youthful appearance and attractiveness. By darkening your hair with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur, no one can tell, because it does it so naturally, so evenly. You just dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning all gray hairs have disappeared, and, after another application or two, your hair becomes beautifully dark, glossy, soft and luxuriant.

German and English Sense of Humor

By C. C. REYNOLDS, Lincoln, Neb.

Among the most amusing by-products of this war are the accusations hurled by both German and English writers, accusing one another of lacking a sense of humor. Of course both are right, and, equally of course, both are wrong. We Americans, however, need not plume ourselves upon the unfairness of our German and British friends, for we are also in the habit of proclaiming that we have a kind of monopoly of appreciation and creation of humor.

In point of fact, in every modern nation there are people who understand and appreciate humor and others who do not. Americans are prone to say that the British are lacking in this respect. That is nonsense on its face, inasmuch as Shakespeare, Thackeray, Swift, Steele, Pope, Hood, Dickens, Goldsmith and a host of other writers rank with the greatest wits and humorists of all ages. The fact that they are appreciated by the British public is ample proof of its possession of a sense of humor.

We sometimes like to say, also, that the German is slow-witted and lacking in humor. This is equally nonsensical. Perhaps the best of the modern humorous publications are German, while German literature also boasts numerous writers who were both humorous and witty.

Naturally we may find Britons and Germans who lack a sense of humor. Also we may find vast numbers of Americans, Frenchmen and Irishmen similarly lacking, and these are popularly supposed to be the peoples most appreciative of humor.

The plain fact appears to be that all humankind is dowered with a sense of the humorous in greater or less degree and that, with the spread of education, civilization and culture, this sense is accentuated.

Fixing American Standard of Life

By H. O. GEHRING, Detroit, Mich.

As a nation we are so accustomed to set our standards according to the ultra-prosperous and extravagant that we have come to nurse false conceptions which breed unnecessary pain and a wholly unfounded sense of injustice. As a matter of fact, the American standard is not fixed by wealth at all, but by that mingled thrift and industry which makes for plenty, and whose characteristic is summed up in the old adage: "Nothing too much."

We're going to learn some day something about the fundamental principle herein involved. We're going to fix our standard not according to those who are living disastrously below it, but according to the standard of necessity with comfort.

In that day all who bear their share of the daily burden will have enough.

The standard of life in America is not an automobile in every woodshed, nor a white-capped maid in every nursery; the standard of American life is enough of what is necessary, a little of what is luxury, a lot of what is comfort, an education for the young ones, a roof for old age, and a life-work well done.

All above that or below it is aside from the standard.

Talking Shop Put to Good Account

By R. SMITH, Indianapolis, Ind.

One who is interested in his occupation, whether it is writing novels, painting pictures, shoeing horses or raising corn or potatoes, knows something about his special pursuit that no one else knows, or at least is able to view it from an angle others have not taken, and when his interest and enthusiasm lead him to try to give others that point of view, he may be truly entertaining.

Something, of course, depends on the listener's breadth of mind and receptiveness, but if he is of that catholicity which puts him in the class to which nothing human is alien, he welcomes knowledge on any subject and rejoices in the pleasure of absorption of the talker in his theme.

When the actor talks about acting he should have something to say worth hearing; so with the artist, the teacher, the lawyer, the artisan in any line.

Even the follower of that triad of all occupations, commercial book-keeping, may have something to tell that would interest his fellow-beings, for it is said, upon good authority, that accountants may be found who enjoy their work and regard it as a science.

Shop talk at its best, indeed, is the very best sort of talk.

Misfortunes Contain Germ of Good

By J. I. MEYER, Cincinnati, Ohio

Even the worst misfortunes seem to contain the germ of good. Thus the era of unemployment, which now, happily, appears to be passing, has demonstrated anew the common humanity of men. Every move for the relief of the unemployed has met ready and hearty support, from rich and struggling alike. It will probably never be known how much self-denial has been practiced during the dark days in order that the necessities of life may be more generally distributed.

The trouble is that men forget these things in brighter days. When we face a general calamity everybody is liberal, everyone is willing to strain his means to help. When the time of stress is past we are, unfortunately, likely to assume that nobody remains who needs help.

In the periods of the highest demand for labor there are many unemployed who are so because they do not fit into the jobs at hand and do not know where to seek for those they can fill.

It would be well if we took stock of our humanity and retained some of its manifestations for the coming era when times will not be so "hard."

Too Much Reading as Bad as None

By Charles P. Donaghy, Denver, Colo.

I do not decry the reading of fiction. An old instructor of mine used to say that during the winter months everyone should read solid books for the most part and do light reading in the warm weather. His theory was that too much solid reading during the entire year tended to make one mentally stolid.

The point I wish to make, however, is that mental intoxication, consequent upon too great indulgence in the printed page, is as bad as physical intoxication. If we read too much fiction our taste is apt to become vitiated.

The summer is the time for fiction, but it is also the time for the country, for athletic exercise, for botanizing, for getting acquainted with that wonderful nature which is all about us.

"Here's the dryest Baking Powder in the World"

Says Miss Princine

DO you know what this means? It means better baking and more economy in baking. Moisture in baking powder destroys its leavening power. That is the reason why ordinary baking powder goes stale on the grocer's shelf. The moisture is extracted from

Princine PURE PHOSPHATE Baking Powder

In addition to the infallible leavening power thus insured, there is the economy of paying only for the powder and not for the added weight of moisture.

Princine Pure Phosphate Baking Powder meets all the standards of every pure food law and, what is more to the point, of such men as Lewis B. Allyn of Westfield, Mass., and Alfred W. McCann, pure food expert of New York, who endorse it with the words "Excellent!" and "Pure!" It betters your baking results—whatever you bake.

Princine comes in handy cups—34 lb., 15c; 1 lb., 30c. Unsifted. Free Shipping Coupons in every cup. If you can't get Princine at your grocer's, send his name and receive a 2oz. sample, enclosed 15c for 1/2 lb. cup. Also Princine's Biscuit Recipe free upon request.
