Local Intelligence.

RUSHING BUSINESS.—Last evening about two o'clock E. E. Duffy, heard of previously in other than patriotic or pious connections, entered the Age coffeehouse, St. Charles street, took a drink or two of something strong, and then asked the barkeeper, James Fitzpatrick, how long he had been engaged there. Fitzpatrick answered truly, only about two hours. Duffy thereupon seized a bottle of bitters which stood on the counter and hurled it with great violence at the barkeeper, sending several tumblers to keep it company. The bottle struck Fitzpatrick's head, inflicting a frightful looking wound, and he quickly ran into the street for assistance. Officer Mulahy was near and responded on the instant, and as he entered he saw Duffy holding a small lot of currency in his hand, which he had taken from the money till. Duffy was rushed off to prison in a hurry, and was charged with assault and battery with intent to kill and with robbery. He was promptly arraigned by Judge Gernon, who told him to furnish bonds in $1000 in one case and $500 in the other, to appear for examination hereafter.

Failing to give bail, he was marched down to the Parish Prison, handcuffed to a colored criminal. This latter part of the business did not make Duffy laugh on a single occasion.

Fitzpatrick says he can not possibly guess why he should have been assaulted in such a manner.

TIME TAKEN.—The valuable clock recently recovered by Detectives Walshe and Devereux was yesterday claimed and taken away by its owner, Mr. Woodlief, who thinks there is some good in the Metropolitans, even after all that is said to the contrary.

NOTHING MORE.—The rumor that the city authorities were to take Davidson court for a calaboose and police courtroom seems to have died entirely. Revive it.

CLEARING THEM OUT.—The abandoned women on Conti and Burgundy streets, against whom serious complaints were made to Mayor Wiltz, have been ousted from their quarters and retired to more secluded parts. So far so good, but what is to prevent a new edition of the same sort from taking the vacated houses? The landlords need a little looking after, and perhaps the best thing to be done is to carry out our threat to publish their names. Some of them would look queer on paper in that connection.

COTTON COMING.—Almost every steamboat that arrives in port brings new cotton, and the arrivals of seed amount to sufficient to warrant one oil mill putting its machinery in motion.

THE FIRE YESTERDAY MORNING.—About one o'clock yesterday morning fire was discovered in the kitchen of a two-story frame dwelling house at the corner of Dryades and Third streets, occupied by T. A. Williams and owned by Peter Ingman. The flames soon caught the main building and totally destroyed it. Both parties are insured. It is thought that the fire was the work of an incendiary.

OUT AGAIN.—Mr. Weichart, local for the German Gazette, has been confined to his bed for nearly two weeks, sick with fever, but yesterday the mercury in his nature took a rise and set him on his feet for a few minutes. He will be all right again in a few days.

STILL SURVIVES.—Mr. A. Dumas, who shot himself Monday evening, was supposed to be somewhat easier last evening.

UNEQUAL.—When a light spring wagon tries a tilt with a heavy cotton float, something must break, and it is not the float. One of the light weights yesterday tried to swallow one of the solids at the corner of Poydras and Commerce streets, but the smallest body went to smash, injuring the boy driver. It is wonderful that more accidents of this kind do not occur in that neighborhood, as the drivers often try to see how close they can shave each other and miss. Dray, float and wagon drivers too often make bad efforts to cross the cars on Poydras street, simply because they can.

EARLY BIRDS.—James Mulvey and Frank Williams, whose chins are not covered with beard, had some words before they fell out yesterday on Galvez, between Gravier and Perdido streets. They tumbled together promiscuously, worse than Modocs, and when the cruel war was over Mulvey discovered that his bowels were nearly cut out. Williams left with a sore head, and, as Mulvey was the worsted party, he was arrested.

WHY IS IT?—Officers Boucheran and O'Keefe, second precinct, noticed Albert Lockarly on the levee conducting himself in an unbecoming manner. They proceeded to arrest the fellow, but he objected and demonstrated his objections in a violent manner, assaulting and battering the officers as if they were brutes having no rights that a prisoner was bound to respect. O'Keefe, who took considerable punishment, finally found the small end of his patience, which darted out to the butt of his club. The club was suddenly placed where it would do the most good, as Lockarly is aware. This in part convinced the prisoner that there is balm in Gilead. Some people who witnessed the proceedings hinted something about rallying to give the officers a tussle for striking the prisoner, but never a word about the officer's getting a punching and a kicking. However, the sympathizers drew off, muttering. Did they think that because a man is on the police force he must gladly accept all the thumps any rapscallion sends, and never give an eye for an eye or a tooth for a tooth? Perhaps they think it impossible for a police officer to be assaulted and battered. In this instance, Lockarly did not take any more punishment than he deserved, and had either of the grumblers been battered as was O'Keefe by him, they would probably have sailed in with more energy than did the officers.

ACCIDENTALLY DROWNED.—Monday night Albert Jensen, a lad, accidentally fell off the schooner Olof into the canal, and was drowned, near the lake. Coroner Folwell went out at midnight and held the inquest, fearing that a delay might prevent him from securing the witnesses.

GONE TO THE GRAND JURY.—All the papers and evidence in the Burgess case of brutality have been taken in hand by the grand jury, and the investigation will be pushed to a speedy hearing.

IN A BOX.—A policeman Monday night found an "empty dry goods box" on Old Levee street, tenanted by Anna Williams, who was sleeping as sweetly as if lying on the soft edge of a silvery cloud. She was transferred.

AND YET THEY SAY THE HEATHEN WON'T FIGHT.—A Chinese, whose name is of no earthly consequence to the general reader, wooed and won Sally Wiggins, a woman who does not teach Sunday school or belong to a temperance society, but the green eyed lobster, another gentleman from China, stepped in and found favor with the female of Toulouse street. A triangular fight ensued, and there was some broken china. Officer Paysant did not ask them if they would visit the third precinct station, but told them to forward, march.

IN EARNEST.—The committee from the Third District "improvements meeting" will soon wait on our city fathers to convince them that a good roadway must be made from Canal street to the Slaughterhouse. There will be no trouble about convincing them, but—.

COURT RECORD.

TUESDAY, SEPTEMBER 23, 1873.

Superior District Court.

Judge Hawkins sat to-day for the purpose of trying a few rules of no public importance.

First District Court.

ARRAIGNMENTS.

Larceny—Andrew Miller alias Israel and Joseph Robinson came to the bar and entered a plea of not guilty.

NOLLE PROSEQUI ENTERED.

Green alias William Thomas and George Donahue alias Rodgers, burglary and larceny.

John Jones, larceny. Guilty.

Mr. Eugene, larceny. Verdict, guilty with a recommendation of mercy.

SENTENCED.

Charles Dart, entering a dwelling house in the daytime, etc., three years and six months in the State Penitentiary.

Second District Court.

This court is now occupied with the case of the interdiction of Francois Lacroix.

Attorney General A. P. Field.

This gentleman has returned to the city looking materially improved by his trip North and West.

Colonel Field, before reaching his present high position in the government of this State, had won a distinguished position at the bar as a criminal lawyer. His extensive knowledge of criminal law, talent, industry, fearlessness and tact in the management of his cases, gave him a certainty of success that established a reputation enjoyed by but few other men in our State. For at least twenty-five years Colonel Field has been a conspicuous and successful criminal lawyer at the New Orleans bar, made so by his undaunted energy and skill in the practice of his profession; and now he enters upon a broader field to reap new laurels in the prosecution of crime. The qualities that gave him success as the defender of criminals are now to be used for the prosecution of crime, and as our State is reeking with it, and the safety of society demands that something be immediately done to punish those who are guilty of murder, it is to be hoped the Attorney General will enter vigorously upon the duties of his office—into those new labors for the protection of society—that are so much needed just at this time to strike terror into the lawless and put a stop to the disposition to commit murder.

Colonel Field, as Attorney General of the State, can do much to aid the successful prosecution and punishment of men whose hands are stained with the blood of their fellow-men; and our people will feel gratified to know that he has returned after a few weeks' absence in search of health, looking well fortified in mind and body for a vigorous and faithful discharge of the duties of his office. He visited the executive department yesterday, no doubt for the purpose of consulting Acting Governor Antoine in regard to the condition of the parishes. The reports from Franklin, Richland and other parishes are not of the most encouraging nature, and as the good name and prosperity of our State are in a great degree dependent upon the punishment and suppression of crime we have faith that something will be done in that direction. If the law-abiding people of the parishes where the lawless have held sway will assist in bringing them to justice, we believe there will be no difficulty in eventually overcoming the desperadoes that have ruled with such a cruel hand in many portions of our State. In the past the lawless have been fearless. This must be changed. When the law-abiding have learned to be fearless, the lawless will learn to fear, for then it will be possible for the officers of the law to reach and punish them.

Gymnasium of the Clerks' Benevolent Association.

It is surprising that a place for exercise—a place fit for lawyers, doctors, clerks, students, and persons leading a sedentary life; for those that need healthy, life-giving exercise—has not been put within their reach long ago.

The Clerks' Benevolent Association achieved the summit of their good deeds when they, last night, inaugurated their gymnasium and school of arms. They do not confine the benefits of this admirable place for physical exercise and bodily recuperation to themselves, but admit any one, on approval of their committee, to a full participation of all the privileges of the institution, on the payment of one dollar per month, or five dollars for six months. They have engaged the services of Professor George Scott, who will give sparring and fencing lessons at reasonable rates.

While we freely accord to all the officers and members of the Clerks' Benevolent Association all the praise due so worthy an enterprise, we can not refrain from particularly congratulating Mr. O. S. Babcock, one of the leading spirits of the association, to whom is especially due the credit of having given to the New Orleans public this useful and elegant gymnasium.

Unfinished Business of Last Meeting.

Mr. Calhoun called up the ordinance introduced by him at the last meeting, "providing for the execution of tax judgments," and it was considered section by section. The following amendments, proposed by Mr. Calhoun, were adopted unanimously:

Add, at the end of the second section, the following words: "And that any order by the City Attorney to stay proceedings shall quote the ordinance authorizing such stay."

In the third line of the fourth section, between the words "attend" and "all," insert the words "in person or by deputy."

In the sixth line of the seventh section, substitute the words "seven and one-half" for the word "ten."

As the eighth section insert an additional section, viz:

SEC. 8. Be it further ordained, That on the fifteenth day of October next the sheriff shall make a report, under oath, to the Administrator of Finance, of all taxes collected by said sheriff to that date, inclusive, which have not been previously reported paid in; and he shall, on the same day, pay into the city treasury the whole amount collected.

As a substitute for sections eight and nine insert.

SEC. 9. Be it further ordained, That this ordinance shall go into effect on the fifteenth day of October next, and that it may be repealed whenever the Council shall deem it expedient.

Thus amended, the ordinance passed unanimously.

The Council then adjourned.
