FOR GOOD CITY GOVERNMENT

MEETING OF THE NATIONAL MUNICIPAL LEAGUE.

REPRESENTATIVES PRESENT IN MINNEAPOLIS FROM MANY GREAT CITIES—ADDRESSES BY WILLIAM G. LOW AND HERBERT WELSH.

Minneapolis, Dec. 8.—The Convention for the Promotion of Good City Government met at the Unitarian Church this morning. Representatives of local organizations were present from Philadelphia, New-York, Cleveland, Chicago, Kansas City, Duluth, Milwaukee and other cities. The meeting was called to order by Vice-President Richardson, of the National League, with a few remarks upon the movement. President Crocker, of the Board of Trade, spoke briefly of the relation of Minneapolis to this movement, and introduced Mayor Eustis, who made the address of welcome. The response on the part of the visitors was by Professor E. J. James, of the University of Pennsylvania. George Burnham, of Philadelphia, was made permanent chairman of the convention, and the programme of the day began with an address by City Attorney D. F. Simpson on "The Scheme of Government in Operation in This City."

Among those who arrived this morning are the following: George Burnham, jr., president of the Philadelphia Municipal League; Charles Richardson, vice-president of the Philadelphia League and of the National Municipal League; Dr. E. J. James, professor in the Wharton School of the University of Pennsylvania; Clinton Rogers Woodruff, secretary of the Philadelphia and National Municipal League; William Potts, of New-York, secretary of the Civil Service Reform League of America; William G. Low, member of the New-York Committee of Seventy and brother of Seth Low, president of Columbia College; Professor Jeremiah W. Jenks, of Cornell University; William A. Giles, president of the Real Estate Board of Chicago; Godfrey Haas, State secretary of the Young Men's Christian Association, of Galesburg, Ill.; Charles J. Bonaparte, of Baltimore, and Professor E. W. Bemis, of the University of Chicago.

An address was made on "Results Obtained by Voluntary and Temporary Movements" by William G. Low, a member of the Committee of Seventy of New-York City. Speaking of such movements, Mr. Low said, in part:

They have been numerous and widely occurring, and, in some shape or other, have come under the observation of or been participated in by most of us. Doubtless some may have resulted unsuccessfully and caused disappointment, but I doubt if any has acquired substantial impetus without some beneficial and lasting effect upon the political life of the community in which it took shape. If the object aimed at has not always been attained, at least light has been admitted into dark places, the attention of the community has been aroused, and some men have been strengthened for good by the experience and skill gained in the putting forth of the effort. When the next occasion for activity comes around they are better prepared to take hold and they start from an advanced position to assault the lines of wrongdoing or corruption. The very fact of movement is indicative of growth and life, and its very nature is opposed to corruption, decay and death.

But there have been great voluntary and temporary movements in the histories of cities that mark epochs therein; that attend crises and result in enduring upliftings of their public life. The recent movement in New-York is still fresh in your minds; indeed, it is still under strong headway. I embody here a memorandum, substantially his, furnished me by Charles Stewart Smith, the chairman of the Committee of Seventy, whose duties connected therewith have prevented his being with us. I think that you will agree that a man actively engaged in such good work on the field of battle for reform should be excused if he is not able to be present in the forum to tell of his triumphs. What has been accomplished within twelve months in New-York City in the matter of municipal reform? In May, 1892, Dr. Parkhurst from his pulpit opened fire upon Tammany Hall. At that time many sensible men regarded his action as futile as Don Quixote's fight with the windmill. But Dr. Parkhurst's character is not inaptly described by the Bowery boy's reply to a recent tirade in a Tammany election meeting against Dr. Parkhurst on the part of Police Justice Grady: "Tom (Grady), he is a stayer; look out when he gets after you." He moved on with majestic force and as tireless as a steam engine, calumny notwithstanding. In a year the community began to admire his pluck, although still doubting his discretion. A few began to believe that a leader was in the field, and that it was not fair that he should make the fight alone. The press, a little later, almost universally came to his support, and had faith in the man; his winged words were read every morning by millions of readers all over the country. No city journal could satisfy its readers without an interview with Parkhurst.

Then the Police Department and Tammany's management were placed under the microscope for examination. In the fall of 1893 the Chamber of Commerce, the oldest and most influential commercial institution in the United States, with a membership of 1,600, comprising most of the great merchants, bankers and manufacturers of the city, demanded an inquiry into the truth of the charges made by Dr. Parkhurst against the Police Department, and they sent a delegation to the Legislature, which resulted in the appointment of the Lexow Committee. The revelations of the Lexow Committee under the magnificent leadership of Goff aroused public opinion. The people saw that the decline and fall of government by the people was inevitable unless this tide of corruption and the foul brood engendered by Tammany Hall, who ruled New-York City, was destroyed, root and branch. The culminating crime of Tammany was clearly exposed, and that organization was shown to be the oppressor of the poor widow and orphan, the fatherless and the fallen, as well as the rich and powerful. All classes were intimidated by this conscienceless power, which seemed impregnable.

The Committee of Seventy, created by an uprising of the people in the fall of this year, less than sixty days before election, voiced public sentiment, and led the way to the revolution which culminated in the election of November 6. We have now a Mayor-elect who can be depended upon to redeem the city by every act in his power. Sub-committees of the Committee of Seventy are studying all the questions which involve the health, morality and good government of the city. The tenement-house system, baths and lavatories, small parks for the people in the overcrowded parts of the city, the docks and the drink question, are some of these. Reports by experts will soon be made public upon the questions referred to, which will be the result of a careful examination and inquiry, called by the experience of other cities at home and in Europe. The temper of the people will not permit any interference with carrying out the contemplated plans for reform. Any public officer or private citizen who attempts for party or private reasons to obstruct the result will become a criminal before the bar of public opinion.

Herbert Welsh's address on "Municipal League and Good Government Clubs" was listened to with much interest. Mr. Welsh said, among other things:

"The apathy and ignorance of a great community, which has long suffered the rule of a corrupt political ring, and has had the poison of the corruption running through its civic veins is, to those obliged to deal with it, appalling. Education of the most persuasive and systematic kind is needed to overcome it. But it can be overcome, and the way to work it is to go direct to the great centres of moral influence, seek out intelligent women of all classes, women who believe in right and hate wrong. Explain to them just how the political machine fosters and protects moral evil, and at once you have obtained a most powerful auxiliary force, always enthusiastic and untiring. Then go to the ministers of all denominations, choosing, as far as possible, those of deep moral convictions, of sound sense and of a courage that will not fear the protest of the moneyed pews. The good, earnest people who will help the League's work are found in every class—least, perhaps, in that which represents great wealth. It is just here that one great incidental benefit of this work comes in; by bringing together good people, widely separated, and who would not ordinarily meet, class distinctions are erased, suspicions are removed, and a feeling of common brotherhood, a co-operation in unselfish endeavor is engendered. It is quite indispensable to effective League work that a highly equipped, able executive officer, who can give his whole time to the work, should be obtained. Such a man should be paid an adequate salary. He is the pivot on which success hinges.

"The brief history of the Municipal League's work in Philadelphia is not without encouragement to municipal reformers, though the work of reform in that city is more difficult than in New-York, on account of that protectorate which large numbers of our 'best citizens' have given the machine. We cannot boast of a municipal wickedness so lurid and so flaunting as that to which, let us trust, Dr. Parkhurst has recently given the coup de grace, but we face a civic corruption, an indifference to public honor, a confusion of right and wrong, which is even harder to deal with, because it is interlaced more inextricably with the business, the press, the education, and even the religion of the community. Our League numbers 2,500 members, with a very encouraging increase daily."

BROCKWAY COMMISSION REPORT FILED.

Albany, Dec. 8.—Governor Flower received to-day the reports of the commission appointed by him in April last to inquire into the charges preferred against the Board of Managers of the New-York State Reformatory at Elmira. One report was signed by Dr. Austin Flint, of New-York City, and Israel T. Deyo, of Binghamton, and the other by William L. Learned, of Albany. The Governor has had a copy of the testimony in his possession for some weeks. He said to-night that he would give the reports immediate and careful consideration and announce his decision within a few days. He would say nothing as to the contents or import of either document.

KILLED FOR INSURANCE MONEY.

IT IS NOW CERTAIN THAT CATHARINE GING WAS MURDERED FOR THE VALUE OF HER POLICY—THE ASSASSINS IN CUSTODY.

Minneapolis, Dec. 8.—The mystery surrounding the Catherine Ging murder is beginning to unfold. Adry Hayward has confessed, and his story links together his brother and two miserable hirelings in a chain of unexampled and unspeakable villany. Assistant County Attorney Hall, County Attorney Nye and Mayor Eustis told the story at an early hour this morning. The mere outline can be given. Mr. Hall says:

On Tuesday, December 5, I got a letter from "Elder" Stewart advising me that three days before the murder was committed Adry Hayward had come to him and told him that he feared that his brother was going to commit a crime; told him about the insurance policy on Miss Ging's life and the pretended loan, and the arrangements to make it public, and that an arrangement had been made to kill Miss Ging to get the life insurance. From information coming largely through Sheriff Ege, corroborating facts already learned, a warrant was sworn out by me at about noon yesterday for the arrest of Charles Blixt, the engineer at the Ozark flats. Last night, while Mayor Eustis and members of his force were pumping Blixt and his wife and Erickson, Adry was confronted by the evidence and broke down and told what he knew. His story reveals a record of deliberate planning, in which the brother Adry was not a party, but in which Harry sought to draw him into the plot. The brother has long exerted a great influence over Adry—almost hypnotic. He exerted the same influence over the murdered girl. The facts learned from Adry are amply corroborated by outside facts gathered together in the last two days. Blixt and the man who has assisted him in the matter of clothes, and in getting away with the clothes, named Erickson, were arrested and placed in custody at an early hour this morning. The Grand Jury will have the next chapter.

The long and short of this horrible story is that the poor girl was murdered for the insurance Harry Hayward had on her life. She was decoyed on the lonely road by Blixt, shot by Blixt, and Erickson got the bloody clothes, which he took to Iowa. The revolver was found in the Ozark flats this morning. It was .38-calibre and two chambers were empty.

RENDEZVOUS OF OUTLAWS FOUND.

Guthrie, Okla., Dec. 8.—Several members of the Cheyenne Indian police have discovered the rendezvous of the Texas express robbers in "D" County, in the extreme western part of the Territory. They have a dozen or more large dugouts on the sides of a canyon on the Glass Mountains, making their stronghold inaccessible. They have their horses and supplies all in the dugouts, and are prepared to fight or stand a siege to the best advantage. A large posse of deputies and Texas Rangers are organizing to make an attempt to capture or drive the robbers out, and a bloody battle is expected.
