OSBORNE & PEARSON

The Old Grindstone.
The hardest work I ever did,
If you just want the facts,
Was when a boy I had to grind
The nicks out of an axe.
At early morn, I'd hear Dad's voice—
"Come Billie! Jump up quick,
The day will soon be started,
And we's got to grind the nick."

I've wandered since if boys today
Were ever in such fix;
And if there's and grindstones—
If axes still have nicks.
And yet I know that life itself,
With Fate to play us tricks,
Is just a great big grindstone—
And we're all grinding nicks.
—Bennett Chapple, in National Magazine for August.

OPEN W. MARKET ST. TRAFFIC ABOUT AUG. 14

RAILROAD TRACKS BEING CONCRETED THIS MORNING

WAS RECORD DAY

City Engineer Stated More Work Done Yesterday Than Any Other Since Work Began.

City Engineer Sanders stated last night that yesterday was a record day in both the concrete work of the street paving and also in laying the asphalt surface. Everything was running smoothly and the weather was ideal which caused the work to progress so well.

The work of concreting the Charleston and Western Carolina railway tracks at the intersection on West Market street will begin this morning. The machinery was moved there yesterday afternoon. All of the top surface from the beginning of the paving on West Market is expected to be finished by Saturday night and on Monday morning the work will begin on this side.

The concrete mixture put down at this crossing will of course have to stand for several days but Mr. Sanders hopes to have the top surface put down there sometime during the next week.

Asked when he expected to have all of West Market street opened to traffic, Mr. Sanders stated that he expected to have this done by Saturday night, August 14.

A Marketing Association Also Needed.

We also need farmers' marketing associations in every county and in many smaller communities.

And in this work, we repeat that farmers have a right to ask the cooperation of merchants. The farmers have a right to say, "If we buy from your shelves, you buy from our farms." At the same time farmers must see that their products are properly graded and packed. And here they need the expert knowledge of some one painstakingly intelligent man—some man who will do two things: (1) make a study of grading and packing and (2) keep informed as to market quotations.

Take the case of cotton and cottonseed. In the studies of Oklahoma cotton marketing made by the United States department of agriculture, it was found that farmers had prices cut on all grades below middling, but received practically no advance for grades above middling. Prof. Barrow reported last year in The Progressive Farmer that the cooperative cotton marketing association at Scott, Ark., made profits on cotton ranging from $2.50 to $5 a bale and cleared $4 a ton on cottonseed. Similarly Mr. J. Z. Green tells our readers that cotton growers by pooling their cottonseed have recently received 2,100 pounds of meal for each ton of seed.—The Progressive Farmer.

A World Success.

In October, 1911, only four years ago, President William H. Taft broke the ground for the exposition. Since that time the work has been pushed night and day with enthusiasm and energy unrivaled, and the invitation to the world was made to come, and they have come. More foreign countries are represented, and more State buildings constructed than at the Chicago World's Fair. The world has indeed responded and in spite of financial depression, in spite of unsettled conditions, resulting from the most terrible war known in history, the Panama-Pacific Exposition was pushed on with the unswerving spirit of the early pioneers. Even the beligerent nations at war paused long enough amid the grim scenes of the trenches and the gloom of bloody battles to pay their respective tributes.

"A Trip Overland—The Exposition," by Joe Mitchell Chapple, in National Magazine for June.

Don't Become a Farmer if You Want to Get Rich.

A contributor to the current issue of Farm and Fireside gives the following advice:

"It is true, we get very tired sometimes of the drudgery of farm work; but let me assure the man who wants to get rich on the land that the call is not a 'fad' or a 'whim.' It is handed down to you from your ancestors, and if you are willing to 'fiddle the earth' with a hoe and eat the fruits of your labor, a little patch of land is not a bad investment. If, however, you want to make a fortune, better look somewhere else."

These Chickens Found Guilty.

The following paragraph is taken from the poultry raising department of the current issue of Farm and Fireside:

"F. M. Sackett of Stevens Point, Wisconsin, had a garden. His neighbor, H. K. West, had chickens. The gardener charged the chickens with ravaging his beds. The poultryman refused to believe in his fowls' guilt. One day the chickens came home dangling from their beaks cards on which were such confessions as this: 'I have scratched in Mr. Sackett's garden.' To the cards were attached fine silk threads to the other end of which were fastened kernels of corn from Mr. Sackett's garden!"

Postponing Old Age.

Overworked, weak or diseased kidneys will often make a man or woman feel old before middle age. Rheumatism, aches and pains in back, puffiness under eyes, stiff joints and sore muscles, biliousness, headache and various other symptoms give warning that the kidneys need help. Foley Kidney Pills bring a sound, healthy condition and help the kidneys eliminate uric acid and other poisons from the system, which, when permitted to remain, cause dangerous disease. The Clerk Guaranteed It.
"A customer came into my store the other day and said to one of my clerks: 'Have you anything that will cure diarrhoea?' and my clerk went and got him a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy, and said to him, 'If this does not cure you, I will not charge you a cent for it.' So he took it home and came back in a day or two and said he was cured," writes J. H. Berry & Co., Salt Creek, Va. Obtainable everywhere.

The Conscience of a Nation.
The independence of Belgium was guaranteed by Germany, France and England. I think you will agree that when the representative of a nation signs his name to a treaty, he commits his country and his country's honor to its observance. Germany desired to break that treaty and invade France through Belgium. She made propositions to Belgium which may or may not have been favorable. Belgium had a perfect right to refuse them, and she chose to refuse. Germany, thereupon made it clearly understood that she intended, notwithstanding her written word, to persevere in her original intentions. Her pretext that France had already violated the neutrality of Belgium by invasion was false. No single French soldier had set foot upon Belgian soil. Belgium appealed to England. "You signed the treaty guaranteeing our neutrality," she pointed out. "Germany threatens it. I call upon you to fulfill your share of the compact." Great Britain acknowledged her responsibility and reminded Germany of their joint agreement.—"The Conscience of a Nation," by E. Phillips Oppenheim, in National Magazine for
