MISS ROOSEVELT ACCEPTS.

THE PRESIDENT'S DAUGHTER WILL NAME THE KAISER'S YACHT.

Washington, Jan. 3.—Miss Alice Roosevelt, the eldest daughter of President Roosevelt, will name the Emperor of Germany's new yacht, now building at Staten Island. This announcement was made at the White House to-day. The Kaiser's invitation to Miss Roosevelt came through Dr. von Holleben, the German Ambassador to the United States.

DESCRIPTION OF THE YACHT.

LIKELY TO BE LAUNCHED EARLY IN FEBRUARY—EMPEROR'S PLANS CARRIED OUT.

The yacht building for the German Emperor by the Townsend & Downey Shipbuilding Company from designs by Cary Smith & Barbey, is almost plated, and it is hoped that she will be launched the early part of February. She will be the largest schooner yacht afloat, the architects say, her dimensions being 161 feet over all, with a beam of 27 feet. With awnings set and curtains at the side, there will be ample room on deck to give a ball.

To carry out the Emperor's commands her finish throughout will be plain, yet substantial. All her deck work, such as the deckhouse, skylights and rail, will be of selected teakwood, and all capstans, winches, etc., of bronze. Aft is a deckhouse of steel cased with teak. This deckhouse serves as the main companion leading below, and in addition will be used in dirty weather and will allow a view of what is taking place on deck. The stairs from the deckhouse lead to a vestibule, where are found a chart case, shelves for chronometer and nautical instruments, and a locker for hanging oilskins. Aft, opening from the vestibule, is the ladies' cabin, fitted with two berths, sofas, a writing desk and a large marble washstand and mirror. There is a bathroom on the starboard side, opening directly from the ladies' cabin.

Opening from the passage leading from the vestibule to the saloon are three staterooms and a bathroom for gentlemen in waiting. Each room has a bureau, marble washstand and sofa. The owner's room is on the starboard side, just aft of the saloon. It is a large one, being about thirteen feet long. It contains a brass bedstead, several wardrobes, dressing table and writing desk. The room has a large skylight; in fact, it is a feature of the yacht that every room is ventilated not only by deadlights through the side in the usual manner, but also by means of skylights. For supplementary ventilation there are fitted mushroom ventilators along the side, made of a special pattern, according to sketches furnished by the Emperor. Just aft of the owner's stateroom is a bathroom, beyond which is a valet's room.

The staterooms are few in number, but of large size. The main saloon extends the whole width of the boat, and is eighteen feet long. There is a transom on each side, a piano at the after end, while there is an open fireplace at the forward end. The large extension table in the centre will seat twenty-four people.

Throughout the owner's quarters the woodwork will be mahogany enamel painted ivory color touched up with gold, with only a small amount of the trim showing the natural wood, thus carrying out the Emperor's idea of simplicity. Forward of the saloon are a large owner's galley, and an entirely separate galley for the officers and crew. There are four good rooms for the officers. Forward of the crew's galley, and separated from it by a steel bulkhead, is a very roomy forecastle, fitted with berths for twenty men. The forepeak has ample room for boatswain's stores, and two tanks containing oil, to be used in heavy weather.

The Emperor is taking an extreme interest in his yacht, and has given detailed orders as to how she is to be fitted below. All questions relating to the design, rig and outfit have, however, been left entirely to Messrs. Cary, Smith & Barbey.

WORLD'S SHIPBUILDING IN 1900.

STATISTICS COMPILED FROM GERMAN SOURCES.

[BY TELEGRAPH TO THE TRIBUNE.]

Washington, Jan. 3.—Consul Monaghan, at Chemnitz, sends to the State Department the following table from German sources of the world's shipbuilding for 1900, including only vessels exceeding 100 registered tons:

Country.	Ships.	Registered tons.
England (inclusive of Colonies)	698	1,471,475
America	197	297,931
Germany	60	211,850
France	65	101,318
Italy	37	54,382
Totals	1,285	2,265,938

DOMESTIC SHIPBUILDING FOR SIX MONTHS.

Washington, Jan. 3.—In the six months ended December 31, 1901, there were built in the United States and officially numbered by the Bureau of Navigation 717 rigged vessels of 154,073 gross tons, compared with 568 rigged vessels of 179,229 gross tons for the corresponding six months of 1900. Canalboats and unrigged barges are not included. The principal decline, 19,752 tons, is on the Atlantic seaboard, and is attributable to work on several large ocean steamers, which will be completed in the coming six months.

ARMY AND NAVY ORDERS.

VAST IMPORTATIONS OF COFFEE.

THIS COUNTRY THE LARGEST CONSUMER IN THE WORLD.

Washington, Jan. 3 (Special).—The coffee importations of the United States will in the calendar year 1901 be the largest in the history of the import trade. Eleven months' figures of the Treasury Bureau of Statistics show that the importations of coffee amounted to 967,969,585 pounds in the eleven months ended with November, against 707,496,152 in the corresponding months in 1900, 817,223,877 in the corresponding months of 1899, 744,910,179 in the corresponding months of 1898, 726,119,996 in the same months of 1897, and 567,929,817 in the eleven months of 1896.

These figures indicate not only that the coffee importations of 1901 will be larger than those of any preceding year, but that they will for the first time exceed one billion pounds. The value of the coffee imports of the year will be about $70,000,000. While the quantity imported will exceed by more than 200,000,000 pounds that of any preceding year, the cost will be less than the average in the years from 1890 to 1897, when the cost a pound was materially higher than at present.

Brazil, of course, furnishes by far the largest proportion of the coffee importations of the United States. In the eleven months ended with November the coffee imports from Brazil amounted, according to the Treasury Bureau of Statistics, to 762,148,514 pounds, while the next largest quantity came from other South American countries, 91,297,714 pounds; Central America, 64,554,400; Mexico, 21,594,432. Thus of this largest single importation in the entire list of imports, sugar excepted, nearly all comes from American countries south of the United States, and this is equally true of sugar, excepting that share which is drawn from the Hawaiian Islands.

The United States is by far the largest coffee consuming country of the world, as will be seen by the following table, which shows the importations of coffee into the principal countries of Europe and into the United States in 1899:

NET IMPORTS OF COFFEE.

Countries into which imported.	Total consumption, pounds.	Per capita consumption, pounds.
Russia	18,396,000	—
United Kingdom	29,120,000	.72
Italy	31,222,000	.98
Austria-Hungary	92,180,000	2.04
France	179,120,000	4.62
German Empire	343,501,000	6.12
United States	801,757,000	10.79

The following table shows the total imports of coffee into the United States by fiscal years from 1886 to 1901; also estimate for the calendar year 1901:

Fiscal year.	Pounds imported.	Price, cents.	Consumption, per capita, pounds.
1893	563,469,068	14.0	8.31
1894	550,934,837	16.4	8.20
1895	652,208,975	14.7	9.33
1896	580,597,915	14.8	8.11
1897	737,645,670	11.0	10.12
1898	870,514,435	7.4	11.68
1899	831,827,063	6.5	10.79
1900	787,991,911	6.3	9.81
1901	854,871,310	—	—
*1901	1,060,000,000

*Calendar year, estimated.

RECRUITING FOR THE ARMY.

STANDARD SAID TO BE THE HIGHEST IN THE WORLD.

[BY TELEGRAPH TO THE TRIBUNE.]

Washington, Jan. 3.—Some figures on Adjutant General Corbin's desk, giving the results of recruiting for the army in November last, effectually dispose of the oft-repeated fiction, ever recurring in appeals for discharges, that men get drunk and enlist, and inferentially regret their action when they become sober. In November the seventy recruiting officers of the Adjutant General's office, distributed among fifty-five stations in various sections of the United States and the island possessions, examined 8,730 applicants for enlistment, rejecting 6,073 and admitting 2,657.

This passing of barely one-fourth of those presenting themselves for entrance into the service is about the average for the last three years, the rejections for the year 1901 aggregating 93,000 men. The enlistments for December are expected to number 2,900 when the returns are all in from distant stations, and in 1902 the recruiting service must secure about 3,000 men a month to maintain an army of about 100,000 men, as enlistments are for a term of three years only. In the November recruiting 2,252 men were taken from the cities and towns and 405 from the garrison posts. Of the cities New-York supplied 800; Boston, 240; Minneapolis, 221; Chicago, 175, and Philadelphia, 125, no other locality reaching 100. All were whites, except seventeen colored, three Indians, six Porto Ricans and five Filipinos.

The large proportion of rejections was due to the rigid investigation of the moral and physical characteristics of the applicants, it being asserted that the standard of recruiting in the United States is much higher than in any other army in the world. This assertion was pretty well established in the campaign of the international forces in China.

THE NEW MAINE NEARING COMPLETION.

MAY GO INTO COMMISSION ON THE FIFTH ANNIVERSARY OF THE HAVANA DISASTER.

Washington, Jan. 3.—The new battleship Maine is 78 per cent completed, according to a report received to-day at the Navy Department. This is such a rapid advance on the new ship that naval officials are satisfied that she can be placed in commission by February 15, 1903, which will be the fifth anniversary of the destruction of the former battleship Maine in Havana Harbor.

TO TEST AN EXTRADITION TREATY.

THE CASE OF GERHARD TERLINDEN BEFORE THE SUPREME COURT.

Washington, Jan. 3.—An interesting case is to be argued in the United States Supreme Court on Monday, in which the court will be called upon to decide as to the validity of an extradition treaty negotiated with Prussia in 1852, the prisoner's contention being that Prussia ceased to exist as a nation in 1871, when the German Empire was formed, while Marshal Ames holds the alliance had no effect on Prussia's international treaty obligations. The case is that of Gerhard Terlinden agt. John C. Ames, Marshal of the Northern District of Illinois. Terlinden was arrested on a warrant issued on complaint of the German Consul at Chicago, who charged Terlinden with committing a forgery in Germany. Terlinden sued out a writ of habeas corpus, but the lower court held that the question of extradition was political and not judicial. On the ground that the courts must determine whether an extradition treaty was valid the case was brought before the Supreme Court, and briefs have been filed.

NEW SYSTEM OF COALING WARSHIPS.

Washington, Jan. 3.—The Navy Department has approved the recommendation of the Construction Board for the adoption of an entirely new system of coaling warships, to be applied to the new battleships, armored cruisers and the St. Louis class of protected cruisers. At present there are a number of scuttles, and the openings through the decks are a source of disorder and danger. The new system will employ booms, and will deliver the coal through the large hatches directly to the coal bunkers. By the new system three coal barges can be employed simultaneously alongside a warship without interference with one another. The change is in the interest of simplicity of operation, and will effect a material saving in time of coaling ships.

FATHER AND SON RESIGN.

THE STATE DEPARTMENT LOSES THE SERVICES OF TWO WELL KNOWN OFFICIALS.

[BY TELEGRAPH TO THE TRIBUNE.]

Washington, Jan. 3.—The State Department has lost the services almost simultaneously of two of its most capable and well known officials, Robert S. Chilton, jr., chief of the Consular Bureau of the department, and Robert S. Chilton, the United States commercial agent at Goderich, Ont. Both resignations are wholly voluntary, and have been accepted with regret.

Mr. Chilton, sr., whose resignation took effect New Year's Day, had been in the State Department's service just fifty years, having been appointed a clerk on January 1, 1852, after four years' clerical duty in the Patent Office. He was United States Commissioner of Immigration for two years following 1866, and after another term in the State Department was appointed consul at Clifton, Canada, on February 2, 1871; was transferred to the consulate at Fort Erie on April 11, 1882, and since October 20 of that year has been in charge of American commercial interests at Goderich. His son, who left the service to-day to engage in private business, has been connected with the State Department for twenty-five years, with one short intermission, when he acted as private secretary to Vice-President Morton. Subsequently he was chief clerk of the department for a short time, and has been chief of the Consular Bureau since December 30, 1895. He has made several tours of inspection to consulates, including one through Europe and Asia, which resulted in vastly improving the establishment and notable reforms in the administration of important offices. Because of his wide experience and marked abilities his departure from the service is against the wish of his principals. The place vacated by Mr. Chilton, jr., is included within the scope of the Civil Service laws, and it is consequently to be filled by the promotion of some employe now in the service of the Consular Bureau.

FISH AND FISHERIES.

A YEAR'S WORK OF THE NATIONAL COMMISSION—LOBSTERS BECOMING SCARCE.

Washington, Jan. 3.—An increase of over nine million in the fish eggs distributed by the government throughout the country and a marked decline in lobster fishing are shown in the annual report of the United States Commissioner of Fisheries, Mr. Bowers, for the last fiscal year. The total of fish and eggs distributed was 1,173,833,400, the principal species being shad, salmon, lake trout, whitefish, pike, perch, lake herring, cod, flatfish and lobsters. In addition to the regular work on the Great Lakes, plans were matured to begin the propagation of lake herring there. The collection of lake trout eggs in Lake Superior and Michigan, which nearly doubled that of last year, aggregated 224,000,000, from which 19,000,000 fry were hatched. The report says the canvass of the Great Lakes was taken up only in 1899, when the yield and value were nearly equal to those of 1890, the largest on record. The total yield was 113,728,000 pounds, worth $2,611,400. There were 9,678 persons employed in the fisheries and $6,617,000 was invested. The value of the fish in the different lakes ranges from $1,150,000 in Lake Erie to $100,000 in Ontario.

In stocking inland lakes and rivers 160,000,000 eggs were placed in the Missisquoi River in Vermont, 42,000,000 eggs were taken from Lake Erie to Michigan and Missouri, and 229,000,000 eggs were held in Put-In-Bay. Out of these hauls 240,887 fish were hatched. Fewer shad were hatched than in the previous year, owing to weather conditions, which caused the runs on the Potomac and Susquehanna to be much smaller than usual. The total number of shad fry distributed was 193,287,000.

It becomes each year more difficult to secure lobster eggs along the coast of New-England. The continued steady decline of this important industry renders it the more necessary that efforts should be made to re-establish it by artificial propagation. The decrease is most noticeable south of Cape Cod. In the year there were hatched and planted in New-England waters 202,870,000 cod, 44,000,000 flatfish and 60,000,000 lobsters.

At Boston and Gloucester there were landed in the last calendar year 162,218,800 pounds of fishery products, valued at $4,385,000, a decrease of 14,555,000 pounds from the previous year, but an increase of $191,450 in value. The mackerel fishery for 1900, amounting to 87,967 barrels, was larger than for any year, except 1888, since the marked decline which began in 1885.

In recent years the fisheries of the Mississippi and its tributaries have developed to such a degree that in 1899 they exceeded in quantity and nearly equalled in value the entire yield of the remaining interior waters of the United States, except the Great Lakes. Mussel shells, extensively used in the manufacture of pearl buttons, were a valuable item, some 45,500,000 pounds being gathered, for which the fishermen obtained $247,000.

AGENT FOR CATHOLIC INDIAN SCHOOLS.

Washington, Jan. 3.—In pursuance of action taken at the recent meeting of the Catholic Archbishops of the United States, the Rev. Dr. Henry G. Ganss has been appointed financial agent of the Bureau of Catholic Indian Missions. He will make his headquarters in this city, and expects to enter immediately upon his work of collecting funds for the support of the Catholic Indian mission schools. He has been for a number of years the rector of St. Patrick's Church, at Carlisle, Penn., and has looked after the spiritual wants of the Catholic pupils of the Carlisle Indian School. He is a man of much musical and literary ability.
