Recipes for Various Dainties

Written for The Intelligencer by Miss J. C. Garlington, In Charge of Home Demonstration Work in Anderson County.

Preparation of Figs. Soda solution: six quarts of figs, sprinkle with one cup of soda, cover with two quarts of boiling water and let stand 15 minutes. Then rinse twice through clear cold water. To three pounds of sugar add two quarts of water and allow it to come to a boil. Then drop in figs, few at a time so as not to stop the boiling. Boil two hours. Add two lemons sliced while figs are boiling. By using the soda solution the figs do not have to be peeled.

Bread Making. "The older and the higher the civilization, the more advanced the art of bread making."

"Someone has said: 'But for life the universe were nothing and all that has life requires nourishment.' Since bread is the most widely used article of food except milk, we have chosen bread making as a further introduction in home economics. In September I will place cooking in five communities in Anderson county for the benefit of those who wish to take lessons along this line.

The following are some lessons which will be given in bread making at these cooking schools:

Home-made Baking Powder. One half pound cream of tartar, one fourth pound of soda, one-fourth pound of corn starch. Mix thoroughly and pack in small tight boxes. Parker House Rolls. Two cups of scalded milk, three tablespoonsful of butter, two of sugar, one-fourth cup of luke warm water, one-teaspoon of salt and one of yeast cake. Add butter sugar and salt to the milk. When luke warm add the yeast cake, and three cups of flour. Beat thoroughly and let rise until light. Cut down and add enough flour to knead. (2 1/2 cups) Let rise again knead and roll out to one-third inch thickness. Shape with biscuit cutter. Dip the handle of a case knife in flour and with it make a crease through the middle of each piece with melted butter, fold and press the edges together. Place in greasy pans one inch apart, cover and let rise, bake in hot oven 12 to 15 minutes.

French Kusk. Two cups of scalded milk, one-fourth cup of butter, yolks of two eggs, one-fourth cup of sugar, one teaspoon of salt, whites of two eggs, two cups of flour, whites of two eggs, egg and one-fourth cup of luke warm water. Add butter, sugar, salt and scalded milk; when luke warm add yeast cake and three cups of flour. Cover and let rise. Add egg and egg yolks well beaten and enough flour to knead. Let rise again and shape as Parker House rolls. Before baking make three parallel creases on top of each row. When nearly done brush over with one tablespoon of cold water and vanilla, sprinkle with sugar.

Fashion and Household Hints

old pieces are getting very rare. The north has been combed by collectors and the south, strange to say, that ought to have some wonderful things in that line, seems absolutely empty of them. You can count on the fingers of one hand, the houses in any town that has any real old mahogany or walnut. There are some beautiful new pieces, but they are few and far between, but the rare old highboys, brasses, sideboards and tables, are conspicuous by their absence.

Let me beg those who own any of them to treasure them as fine gold, do not varnish, that is not only ugly, but ruinous, keep well polished, and see that the exquisite color and grain of the wood, comes clear. One house I know of in this section would be a delirious joy to most collectors. The old hand carved sofas, ornancing tables with claw legs, and wonderful strips of brass inlay, shining against the rich red of the wood, dining tables of solid mahogany with claw feet holding brass balls, sideboards wide and deep, with columns on either end. Treasures indeed, and there has been many houses just as full of wonderful old furniture that has been sacrificed to the bad taste of those who inherited them.

One or two pieces of genuine old mahogany or walnut dignifies and enriches a room in a manner, that all the new furniture in the world cannot do. I do not decry new furniture that is good in taste, and elegant in style, but there is a cheap gaudy high colored kind, that is an abomination, and I have known cases where a superb piece of old walnut or mahogany has been sold for a trifle and a miserable article of dyed, and varnished wood, bedizened with brass and glass was put in its place. A collector would have shed tears at the sight.

A lady had a very old table belonging to her grandmother, they thought it ugly with its many legs, and wide hinged leaves, that could be let down by the sides. Being unusually heavy it was seldom moved, and was thrust into some out of the way corner, where it would not be seen. One house cleaning day, it was taken out, and well scrubbed, some one, in an excess of zeal, rubbed it with oil, and was astonished to see a thing of beauty emerge. The wonderful shades of color that glow deep in mahogany shown on the despised old table, the graceful flowing lines of the grain were perfect to see. I believe many an old piece of rare wood, is hidden in very many houses. Never sell anything of the kind until you scrub the dust of ages off, and rub with oil, then if you see a rich deep gleam in the wood, or a velvet leaf brown, you have come across a treasure of either mahogany (walnut, keep it, and rejoice.

The Kitchen. Everyone screams a kitchen, of course, but I spoke before how badly lighted they generally were. Long sliding double windows, high enough up to keep the draught from the stove, particularly if you use the blue flame stoves, which is very susceptible to draught, is I think the best plan. Have the windows directly over your work table, and in front of your stove. Side lights are deceptive, and when you think your biscuits or cake is barely brown, they are preparing to brown.

One of the most disagreeable tasks in connection with cooking, is the washing of dishes, pots and pans. A wire dryer is a great convenience. Use a mop, very hot water, and soap, wash the china carefully and put in the dryer, by the time you are washing the last plate, the others are dry, beautifully polished, and ready to be put away. Fill the pots with hot water, add a spoonful of soda, and set aside, while you are attending to the china. The soda cuts the grease, and half the work is over by the time you are ready for them.

The market is filled with peaches now, and the clever housekeeper can put many delicious dishes on her table, with the peach as chief ingredient. Try baking them like apples, they are particularly good.

Baked Peaches. Peel very thin, put in baking dish, with sugar, and a very little water. Turn frequently while cooking. They ought to be just tinged with brown, and the pan half filled with pale pink syrup.

Peaches en Casserole. This is not so simple, but is delicious.

Use large ripe peaches, peel, and cut in half, lay halves in casserole, put in each a little sugar and a table spoonful of sherry. Some sugar and a little water, must be put in the casserole, cover it and bake slowly, do not brown, serve with whipped cream.

The following recipes are sent in: Lemon Ice Cream.

To seven pints of sweet milk use the juice of six lemons, put the milk and two cups of sugar in the churn and chill thoroughly before adding the lemon juice, add one cup of sugar to the lemons will find this to be particularly good.

Young hopeful came running into the house. His suit was dusty, and there was a bump on his small brow. But a gleam was in his eye, and he held out a baby tooth.

"How did you pull it?" demanded his mother. "Oh," he said bravely, "it was easy enough. I just fell down and the whole world came up and pushed it out."

INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

By O. E. SELLERS, Acting Director of the Sunday School Course of the Moody Bible Institute.

LESSON FOR AUGUST 22

ASA'S GOOD REIGN.

LESSON TEXT—II Chron. 15:1-15. GOLDEN TEXT—Draw nigh to God and he will draw nigh to you. James 4:3.

Skeptics who formerly laughed at the record of II Chron. 14:9 or at the reputed size of Xerxes' army are painfully silent in the face of the present European struggle where armies are reckoned by the millions. Abijah, Rehoboam's successor, easily defeated Jeroboam (ch. 13:13-29) because he "relled upon the Lord," and "Asa his son reigned in his stead."

I. Righteousness Exhorted, vv. 1-7. Returning from his wonderful victory over Zerah the Ethiopian, Asa is met by the spirit-anointed prophet, Azariah (v. 1). This man was taken possession of by the spirit of God (II Pet. 1:21; Num. 24:2; Judges 3:10; II Tim. 3:16). Thus it was that he commands even the king, "Hear ye me" (v. 2). His first words were encouraging ones, "Jehovah is with you," and the proof of his word was the victory Asa had just won, (ch. 12:8; Rom. 8:31; Deut. 20:1). That victory was a demonstration, it involved an obligation and had a lesson for the king as well, viz., that if he and his people would seek Jehovah they would find him, but if they forsook him "he will forsake you." The words recorded in verse three were a fearful indictment ("without the true God," Eph. 2:12) and they are a suggestive picture of this age that is so sadly in need of a "teaching priest" and is so constantly acting as though "without law" or else is a law unto itself. But God was merciful (Ps. 103:8; 117:2), and in that time of testing was working his good will. Thus it came that "in their great trouble" (v. 4) they sought Jehovah and "he was found of them." Neglecting him there was "no peace," and "great vexations" also (Isa. 48:22). Our Lord has prophesied even greater calamities in the last days of Israel's apostasy (Matt. 24:6, 7) and the present upheaval in Europe can be largely traced to apostasy and to the treatment of God's people Israel.

II. Righteousness Executed, vv. 8-15. (1) The King's Part, vv. 8, 9. Asa had shown himself worthy of this special revelation from God: (a) his conduct (14:2, 3, 5); (b) his words of command and exhortation (14:4); (c) his care for and service in behalf of others (14:6); (d) his reliance upon and zeal of God (14:11). Verse eight is suggestive of the way he received this revelation; (a) he "took courage"—a word of commendation will revive any weary heart. (b) He "put away the abominations," most thoroughly, which his great-grandfather Solomon had brought into Israel, and in accordance with the word of God (Deut. 7:5). There are many strange altars in our land today, forms of religion that stand not the test of God's word and which not alone deceive the very elect but are sweeping into their vortex the sons and daughters of the saints of God. Anything, no matter how esthetic or morally elevating or professedly religious, that measures not according to this word, should be torn down. (c) But Asa was constructive as well as destructive for he built again "the altar of Jehovah."

2. The People's Part, vv. 10-15. (a) They obeyed and gathered together at Jerusalem, at the proper time and the place. (b) They "offered sacrifice unto the Lord." Heretofore their offerings had been to their selfishness or to strange gods. Their gift was a costly one and the Lord's treasury is always a standard whereby to measure the work of grace in the hearts of his people. (c) They made another covenant "to seek the Lord." (Ps. 105:3, 4; Amos 5:4, 6). Those who seek him find him (Ps. 14:2). To seek him is pleasing to him, but it must be as theirs, "with all their soul." We find God in Christ (John 14:6; I John 5:20). Whosoever sought him not were punished, even so will those who now turn from him (John 16:8, 9; Matt. 25). (d) They gave public testimony of their determination (v. 14). Loud protestations are not always permanent.

Conclusion. Though Asa had a parental handicap (I Kings 15:13) and lived in a corrupt court still he yielded to the teaching of God's word and therefore wrought a great reformation.

Recognizing the source of power in his own life Asa taught the people the word of God, to seek God and to keep his commandments.

Asa's reformation was in reality a religious revival and such is the only kind that has any permanency.

In the time of testing Asa (1) went to God for help; (2) pleaded the cause of God and the honor of his name; (3) went out to fight, trusting in God.

Revival heights and experiences bless us evermore, a new light shines in our daily life, the level of life is higher and the ideals of men and of communities are more noble and exalted.

No one can work his best without enthusiasm, and revivals provide both inspiration and enthusiasm.

Asa was freed from invasions for twenty years after this experience.

Don't Overlook The Seybt Property

This tract of about 125 acres is for sale. It lies about a mile from town, and can be bought in tracts from 10 acres up, and there's money in it. The price now is $125.00 to $175.00, according to the land—and ten years from today you couldn't buy it at TWICE this price.

Prof. C. W. Riser bought fifteen acres last week, and is going to build out there on the new road that has recently been made through this property.

Let us show it to you.

Will be pleased to cash one thousand notes running from $25 to $100 each that will be paid during the month of October and the first half of November.

We want them paid at maturity. We are particular about that.

We want them well endorsed. We are particular about that too. We want to see what kind of company you keep. A man naturally asks his associates to endorse his notes—Birds of a feather flock together.

If you can make up your mind to pay your note during the month of October or the first half of November, regardless, come to see us.
