13 BANKS TO JOIN RESERVE SYSTEM

Twelve State Institutions Applied in April for Admission.

RIGGS BANK DENIES IT REFUSED INFORMATION

Opposed Controller Williams Only When He "Exceeded His Lawful Powers," It Says.

[From The Tribune Bureau.]

Washington, May 1.—Attention was called by Controller Williams to-day to the fact that twelve state banks during April had applied for admission to the Federal Reserve system, and that during the month thirteen applications had been received from banks for admission to the system.

On April 30 the total number of national banks was 7,612, with an authorized capital of $1,075,186,175.

This was regarded by friends of the Controller as an answer to the charge by friends of the Riggs National Bank that the attitude of Controller Williams would prevent state banks from entering the reserve system because they feared his persecution.

An official statement from the Riggs Bank to-day denied that the bank had refused to give any information which "all banks have been required to and do furnish."

"The Riggs National Bank has had no controversy whatever with Controller Williams," the bank statement declared, "concerning any of the many calls he has made generally on banks, or the frequent changes and additions he has made on the statement blanks. It has freely and fully responded to every such general request, besides numerous special demands since he came into office. The Controller's effort to segregate the Riggs Bank as being in opposition to those calls for information is an attempt on his part to obscure the real issue between the Riggs Bank and the Controller.

"The Controller may do many things, even within the law, which are burdensome and vexatious, but the Riggs Bank does not and never has offered opposition to them. What the Riggs Bank has complained of is that, broad as his lawful powers undoubtedly are, Controller Williams has exceeded them so far as it is concerned, even to the excess of violating the law. He has literally been a law unto himself, without restraint or limitation. It was to keep Controller Williams within the law that the Riggs Bank was compelled to resort to the courts."

THE WEATHER REPORT

Forecasts and Records of the Last Twenty-four Hours.

Washington, May 1.—Low pressure still persists throughout the country, but with a general rising tendency, except in Nebraska and the North Pacific states. There are various centres of disturbance west of the Missouri River, and general rains have fallen over this area, except from Kansas southward, with some snow in Nebraska, Utah, Northern Arizona, Western Colorado and Northwestern Wyoming. There were also local showers in the central valleys, the East Gulf and South Atlantic states, and rains in New York and New England.

Temperatures are moderately high in the South and low in the Northeast. Over the central portion of the country they are nearly normal, but west of the Rocky Mountains and in Montana they are low for the season—decidedly so over the middle and southern districts.

Showers and rains will continue Sunday over the interior districts from the Rocky Mountains westward, and there will be rains in the coast states that will probably continue Monday. There will be showers Sunday over the Lower Lake region, the Ohio and West Gulf states, and Sunday night or Monday in the upper Mississippi and probably the lower Ohio valley. Elsewhere the weather will be generally fair Sunday and Monday.

It will be somewhat cooler Sunday or Sunday night in the plains states and the middle Mississippi Valley, and probably warmer by Monday west of the Rockies. Over the eastern portion of the country temperatures will not change decidedly.

Winds for Sunday and Monday—North Atlantic, Middle Atlantic, moderate to fresh north. South Atlantic, moderate, variable east to south, and west off the Carolina coast. East Gulf, moderate, mostly south; West Gulf, moderate to fresh southeast to south; upper lakes, moderate to fresh northeast winds Sunday, with partly cloudy weather; lower lakes, moderate west to north winds Sunday, with generally fair weather.

Forecast for Special Localities.—Eastern New York, partly cloudy to-day; to-morrow, fair.

New Jersey. District of Columbia, Maryland, Eastern Pennsylvania, Delaware, fair to-day and to-morrow.

New England, showers to-night; to-morrow, probably fair and cooler.

Local Official Record.—The following official record from the Weather Bureau shows the changes in the temperature for the last twenty-four hours, in comparison with the corresponding date of last year:
