Forceful Arguments Favoring Prohibition

SPLENDID MEETING HELD IN COURT HOUSE LAST EVENING

FLYING SQUADRON

Members Were Here and Made Great Impression Upon Those Who Attended.

Those who did not attend the meeting held in the interest of prohibition last evening in the court house missed one of the rarest treats that has ever come within reach of the most favored of Anderson's people, both in music and the oratory and sound arguments of the speakers. Much to the regret of all, only about 150 men and about 15 women attended.

The speakers, Oliver Wayne Stewart of Chicago, former member of the house of representatives from the state of Illinois, and J. Frank Hanly, formerly governor of the state of Indiana, and the soloist, Miss Vera K. Mullin of Indiana, the famous singer of the Flying Squadron of America, were introduced by Senator J. L. Shepard, who stated the purpose of the meeting, and the necessity of the voters going to the polls on September 14, to cast their votes.

The first number on the program was the song, "America," led by Miss Mullin. This was followed by prayer offered by Dr. J. M. Garrison, pastor of the Associate Reformed Presbyterian church of this city.

Miss Mullin then sang a solo, "The Nation is Going Dry," which met with such hearty approval that as an encore she rendered, "That Home That Used to Be." Miss Mullin is a wonderful singer and has a clear, brilliant soprano voice. The decided accent of the words of the songs and the pleasing and effective expression of her countenance added much to the impression of the singing as did also the fact that she had a sympathetic accompaniment in the person of Miss Iris E. Robinson of Indiana, the pianist who has been traveling with Miss Mullin in her tour with members of the Flying Squadron. The singing of this young lady cannot be praised too highly, and those who did not hear her, lost an opportunity of having heard one of the greatest artists that has ever come to this city.

Mr. Stewart's Address.

After the songs Mr. Oliver Wayne Stewart was introduced and for nearly an hour he held his audience with sound, forceful arguments against the liquor traffic and its dealy influence from a business standpoint. His address was by far one of the most convincing proofs that whiskey is evil from the view of a business man and his way of thinking that was ever heard in this section of the state.

In the beginning Mr. Stewart said that he was going to discuss the business side of the liquor traffic and he asked the question, "Is it really a benefit to a city, state or nation?" In answer to this Mr. Stewart stated that business grows out of the struggle in life to get the necessities of existence, food and clothing, and that these necessities brought about the production, distribution and transportation of these necessary products, which is the foundation of the business world.

Mr. Stewart then discussed markets which were brought about by the necessities of life, stating that the necessities brought about one-tenth of the demand for food, clothing, furniture, etc., the other nine-tenths being brought about by the desires of man. In explaining this the speaker stated that, whiskey by producing the drunkard destroyed all of the finer qualities which cause him to want those things that are not actual necessities but which are greatly desired, thereby destroying that which created nine-tenths of the demand for markets and therefore business.

Another point brought out by Mr. Stewart was that no manufacturing concern was ashamed of its finished product if it meant to continue in business, but the whiskey dealers are ashamed of their and never adverbable to be dependent primarily on the stated that the drunkard was their finished product and that he had the first time to see one of these placed on exhibition in a wire cage at a county or state fair or at a national exposition.

Mr. Stewart then discussed the question which is put up by those in favor of laws allowing the liquor traffic, namely, that it is a source of revenue. He stated that it is not a source of revenue because it is not a source of wealth and that revenue must come from wealth. All wealth can be expressed in labor and property, and whiskey destroys both of these.

Mr. Stewart closed his speech by stating that in April the city of Chicago would vote on the question of prohibition and the reason he was here was because of the fact that if South Carolina voted down liquor it would greatly assist the people of Chicago in waging their fight.

This address was followed by another solo by Miss Mullin, which was temperance words sung to the tune of "Annie Laurie."

Ex-Governor Hanly.

Mr. J. Frank Hanly's speech was an attack on the liquor traffic from a moral standpoint and it was one of the most profound and deepest arguments that has ever been brought before the people of Anderson. Mr. Hanly has a deep base voice and speaks his words with a clear-cut force, which added greatly to his argument.

He stated that South Carolina was now living in a dynamic hour when John Barleycorn was on the defensive and was begging for mercy. He said that from a moral standpoint he was being driven back and from an economical standpoint also. Yet, John Barleycorn was asking mercy at the hands of the people—mercy for him who for the past 1,000 years has had none of the human race, and for one who has wrecked and destroyed millions of lives and billions of dollars worth of property. He asked the people if they were now going to grant mercy to John Barleycorn or were they going to kill him outright.

He stated that some put up the argument that the United States was a free country and when the people voted down liquor they took a man's own personal rights away. Mr. Hanly very explicitly explained that a man's own personal rights were not his when he did a thing that injures or places his fellowman in a dangerous position. This point was clearly illustrated and the effect of the argument could be seen by the expression on the faces of those in the audience.

Mr. Hanly closed his speech by stating that he had traveled all over the United States as a member of the Flying Squadron and that he was in the fight to the finish. He stated that his state had already voted statewide prohibition and that on the 14th of this month he wished to see South Carolina take her stand in the column as the 15th.

The meeting was then closed by a solo by Miss Mullin, "I Love the U. S. A.," which was written for her by William Hardy, a composer in Boston. This song was so well liked that a number of copies were sold at the close of the meeting.

CERTIFICATES WERE EXECUTED YESTERDAY

MONEY WILL BE AVAILABLE WITHIN NEXT FEW DAYS

AMOUNTED $56,160

All Banks of the City Were Represented at Conclusion of the Final Arrangements.

The street paving certificates amounting to $56,160 were executed by Mayor Godfray and City Clerk Scott in the mayor's office in the city hall yesterday afternoon shortly after 12 o'clock. Among those present were Mr. J. R. Shelor, cashier of the Dime Savings bank; Mr. Lee G. Holleman, president of the People's bank; Mr. J. J. Brownlee, cashier of the Farmers and Merchants bank; Mr. B. F. Mauldin, president of the Bank of Anderson, Mr. J. H. Anderson, president, and Mr. J. H. Moseley, assistant cashier of the Citizens National bank, Mr. E. F. Cochran, acting city attorney, and Mr. W. A. Sanders, city engineer.

The total number of certificates is 117, of which 108 are for $500 each and the remaining nine for $240 each. Payments are to be made in nine annual installments and on the installments and on the first of August for the next nine years 12 of the $500 certificates and one of the $240 certificates will be due. The amount will aggregate $6,250 to be paid each year and this will be taken up by the city clerk and treasurer with the money that will be due from the abutting property owners.

The cost of the street paving to the abutting property owners for which the certificates were issued, was divided into 10 equal installments, the first of which was paid on August 2nd last.

As stated several days ago, the paving certificates were purchased by Sidney Soltzer and company of Toledo, O., and their bid of par, plus $100, plus accrued interest, was accepted by city council. The certificates bear interest at the rate of six per cent per annum, payable semi annually and they bear date of August 1. By the time the certificates are paid for by the purchasers the interest will amount to a little less than $400.

The proceeds of the sale of the certificates, plus the accrued interest, will be turned over to Mr. D. A. Ledbetter, treasurer of the street paving commission, as soon as the local banks are in receipt of the money from the Toledo bank. The money will then be distributed among the local banks of the city as agreed upon sometime ago.

The street paving certificates of Anderson brought the highest price on record paid to cities in South Carolina for that kind of security.

INTERESTING MARRIAGE

Capt. Joe Herndon and Mrs. Essie Bowie Scunday Are Wedded.

A marriage of much local interest was that of Capt. Joe Herndon, conductor on the Charleston and Western Carolina railway out of Anderson, and Mrs. Essie Bowie Scunday of Starr, which occurred in Augusta, Ga., on Wednesday.

Mrs. Scunday was formerly Miss Essie Bowie of Starr and is widely known over the county. Capt. Herndon has been conductor on the Anderson branch of the Charleston & Western Carolina railway for a number of years and is known by all patrons of this road.

BODY OF DEAD NEGRO IDENTIFIED FRIDAY

WAS KILLED BY INTERURBAN CAR LAST SATURDAY NIGHT

CARRIED TO HOME

John T. Wallace, a Negro From Greenville Came Over Yesterday to Make Identification.

The body of the negro who was killed by the Piedmont & Northern car near Williamston on last Saturday night was identified Friday morning as that of Henry Lincoln Thompson, the identification being made by John T. Wallace, a negro of Greenville. The body of the negro was taken to Greenville yesterday and will be interred there.

After arriving in the city yesterday morning Wallace was taken to the potter's field at the county home where the remains were buried. The coffin was uncovered and after viewing the body he stated that he was positive that it was that of Henry Lincoln Thompson. Several months ago Thompson had received a cut on his left arm and eight stitches had to be taken. Wallace asked to see the arm stating that he would know positively by the scar. He was right.

Wallace stated yesterday that Thompson left his home in Greenville about two months ago and that although many efforts had been made to locate him, all had failed. It seems that the dead negro was always longing to work on the railroad, join a circus or go with a gypsy train. It is supposed that he left Greenville with some traveling show or went off on a freight train and that he was on his way back home when he was killed.

Wallace stated that Thompson was about 18 years old and was a hard working negro. At times he had some kind of "spells," and would go to sleep. It is supposed that one of these was responsible for him being asleep on the car track when he was killed.

Wallace, hearing of the accident, went to the Interurban officials in Greenville and gave a description of the man he was trying to locate. The officials told him that they thought the man was the one who had been killed and he came on to Anderson to investigate.
