

Came to Her Rescue

From her home in Mountain Park, Oklahoma, Mrs. O. A. Strange writes to the Pinos laboratories:

"I am taking Fruittola and Traxo for gall-stones with good results. If it had not been that it came to my rescue, I would have been dead I am sure. I cannot say too much for Fruittola and Traxo.

Fruittola possesses properties that act directly upon the intestinal parts. It is a great system cleanser, softening the congested waste and disintegrating the hardened particles that cause so much suffering, and quickly expels the accumulation to the intense relief of the patient. Traxo is a tonic alternative that acts on the liver and kidneys, stimulates the flow of gastric juices to aid digestion and removes bile from the general circulation. It serves to build up and strengthen the weakened, run-down system.

For the convenience of the public, arrangements have been made to supply Fruittola and Traxo through leading druggists. In Anderson they can be obtained at Evans' Pharmacy, three stores.

"Spiritual Dimensions Set For Life Insurance"

President E. W. Randall, of the American Life Convention, in a speech before that body, said in part:

Life insurance educates children; life insurance protects the family; life insurance cultivates the habit of thrift; life insurance makes provision for the inevitably rainy day; life insurance pays debts and lifts the mortgage from the home.

Life insurance gives repose to the rich and courage to the poor; life insurance builds credit and re-establishes encumbered estates; life insurance provides scholarships endows charities and erects churches; life insurance is full of human interest. It appeals to the hearts of men always.

Life insurance preserves business by protecting the factors which make business a success; life insurance builds estates and furnishes the safest medium for the distribution of estates; life insurance encourages the marriage of the prudent man and woman and lays the home foundation; life insurance replaces hardships and adversity with ease and serenity—and peace of mind adds length of days.

Life insurance is every day, common sense, intelligent business with a practical spirit of understanding and co-operation; life insurance certifies to a man's love of family and deepens the love and respect which wife and children hold for him.

Life Insurance Universal.

Life insurance is universal in its beneficence. Its service is adapted to all classes and conditions of men. The poor need it. The rich demand it.

Life insurance insures the unexpected. It lives up to its promises and pays all just claims promptly and unostentatiously. It is positive and permanent.

Life insurance stands between the home and the enemies of its happiness and security. For cooperative service in home protection, it is the greatest institution in the world.

Life insurance, by good conduct and large results, is constantly securing wider and better recognition. Legislation less hostile and supervision is more helpful and sympathetic.

Life insurance has outgrown the original purpose for which it was instituted and has become a dominant factor in every department of life. It is admitted to be essential to the maintenance of the social business and financial structure.

Life insurance renders large public service. General taxation is lessened because of it. Fewer almshouses are needed. Old age for the beneficiaries of life insurance does not mean becoming a community charge. Children are educated—are given a fair chance in life—and good citizenship is assured.

Life insurance has its "finished product." Last year, more than five hundred millions of dollars were paid to the beneficiaries of life insurance. The full meaning in human comfort of the many individual payments in all parts of the country under all imaginable conditions, making up so great a total, is impossible of expression.

TO PUT BAN ON COTTON GOODS

London, Oct. 12.—Sir Edward Grey stated in the house of commons that it is intended to forthwith declare contraband cotton piece goods and other products and to prohibit exports to neutral countries contiguous to Germany and Austria. Such goods are capable of being used in the manufacture of explosives.

FACTS ABOUT COTTON

Cotton exported during the week ended October 2 amounted to 217,914 bales, making the total since August 1, 1915, approximately 635,000 bales. Some of the most enthusiastic bulls are predicting 15 cent cotton. The recent advance has been phenomenally rapid, there being a further net gain in prices of about $4 a bale during the first two days this week.

It is really too early for the ginning figures to give any clear idea of the size of the crop. Most people were convinced by the official condition estimate that less than 11,000,000 bales will be raised.

Spot sales at Liverpool increased to 15,000 bales on Tuesday and the market there was 35 English points higher on the basis of 7-1-4 d. for middling.

Certain interests are talking of a scarcity of cotton this year without stopping to consider that very large supplies were carried over from the great crop of last season. Even though the present yield should be less than 11,000,000 bales, it appears that there would still be enough of the staple for all requirements.

Light frost was reported in several sections of the cotton belt this week, including parts of Oklahoma and the Panhandle region of Texas.—Dunn's Review.

"I'm glad to see you home again Johnny," said his father to his small son, who had been away to school, but who was now home for a holiday.

"How are you getting on at school?" "Fine!" said Johnny. "I have learned to say 'thank you' and 'if you please' in French."

"Good!" said the father. "That's more than you ever learned to say in English."

TO INAUGURATE NEW SYSTEM OF SAVINGS

MR. P. E. CLINKSCALES HAS APPLIED FOR COPY-RIGHT RIGHT

MEANS LESS WORK

And at Same Time Much Better Way for Anyone to Have Small Savings Account.

Mr. P. E. Clinkscapes, cashier of the Bank of Anderson, has applied for a copyright for a new system of handling savings accounts in banks which he has just finished making up. The new system will be known as the "Simplified Savings System," and its purpose is to eliminate a great deal of the book keeping incurred in handling savings accounts in banks. This new system, it is calculated will enable the banks of the country to handle small accounts with more ease, less work and with profit instead of a loss.

Henceforth the system of handling small savings accounts in banks has been such that the bankers were not anxious to encourage those accounts where the deposits amounted to less than $1.00. The new system will be worked somewhat on the order of a duplicate pass book arrangement and the deposits amounting to anything from a dime up, may be made every day, every week, or at any time the depositor wants to. The passbook will be a great deal different to the ordinary ones used and when a customer makes a deposit it will be entered according to dollars, halves, quarters and dimes. The ruling in the book will be different and will show at a glance in just what amounts to the pieces the customer has deposited.

Mr. Clinkscapes who is the secretary of the Perpetual Building & Loan association, which was organized by him in 1906, and with which he has had phenomenal success gathered his ideas for this new system of savings largely from his work in connection with the Building and Loan work. "This System," says Mr. Clinkscapes, "will not only appeal to banks and bankers for its simplicity and ease with which it may be handled, but it will appeal to the wage earner and the salaried person in every walk of life. Even the children can appreciate the advantage of it and will be interested in it. The depositors, for instance, will be divided into clubs, say $25, $50, etc., and these amounts to materialize at the option of the members. In other words, if you enter in the $50 club you may deposit $1.00 or more every day or every week, or every pay day if you wish or every time you pass the bank. And if you enter a $25 class—want to save $25 by a certain time, you can deposit a dollar or a dime, any amount, and whenever you like.

"I have been several years working out the details of this system," continued Mr. Clinkscapes, "and I feel sure that it will be a success. And since studying the big $500,000,000 Anglo-French loan, which was broken up into blocks of $100 each, I am more certain than ever that it will take with the public, and that we need to be encouraged along this line."

Asked when they will inaugurate the new system at the Bank of Anderson Mr. Clinkscapes said that they hadn't decided just yet when it would be put on, but that it would go on sometime in the near future. In the event of its being copyrighted, the system will be offered to other banks, at a nominal cost, and if the idea is subject to copyright Mr. Clinkscapes says that he feels sure that it will soon come into universal use.

In 1907 it will be remembered, Mr. Clinkscapes put out a pamphlet, an "Aid to the Solution of the Cotton Problem," which was used by the bankers of the south to the extent of more than a hundred and fifty thousand copies, and as a business pronouncement an "Aid to the solution of the cotton problem" couldn't put a patch on this new savings system, to say nothing of the interest with which it will be received by the public generally.
