No Superhuman Strength, but Natural Vigor.

To attain the muscularity of the individual who sums steel shackles like twigs by simply bending his arm is vouchsafed to few. But to acquire a reasonable amount of physical power and constitutional energy, to eat, sleep and digest well, to possess an equable, quiet nervous system, is possible to the nervous, enfeebled and dyspeptic invalid who begins and pursues a course of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters. The position of his hopes is not remote either. Speedily felt are the tonic effects of the inimitable invigorant, and they are no less permanent than prompt of attainment. The bowels, the liver, the stomach, the kidneys—all co-operate under the benignant influence of this comprehensive medicine, to insure those stable guarantees of health, harmony, regularity, vigor of action. Never was there discovered a medicinal motor better calculated to actuate and keep moving the main springs of healthful vitality. Use it for malaria, rheumatism, indigestion, biliousness, kidney complaint, la grippe.

Artistic Decorations.

Charles Godfrey's fine resort at Reed's lake has just undergone complete renovation and redecoration. An artist of recognized ability has been at work upon the walls and ceilings of the hallsand parlors of the caravansary for several days past, and the result is a thoroughly beautiful interior. The scenes are painted in oil, are tropical in character, with here and there delightful vistas of green and purple mountains meeting into the haze of distant horizon, or broad sweeps of placid sea moving the luxuriant verdure of its environment. The work is done with unusual integrity of purpose and loyalty to the permissable conventionalism of high art.
