The stock market was dull this morning only 17,000 shares changing hands during the two hours of business. Trading was absolutely featureless. Chicago Grain.

CHICAGO, Sept. 23.—Wheat opened dull today and for a time was a shade lower, but there was a slow and gradual hardening of the market and an improvement in business which left prices 1@2c higher at the close. The trade was influenced at the beginning by pronounced weakness which ruled at the close at night and some of the heavy longs sought to get out of the market, but the selling was soon over. There was some evidence of fresh inquiry for cash wheat in this market, an order having been received from plague-stricken Hamburg. Closing cables are reported higher prices from all the leading foreign markets. Corn, like wheat, had a weak opening and improved as the session progressed. A report that a cold wave was probable, woke up the shorts and started them into covering, which resulted in an advance for the day of ¼@½c. Traders in the oats crowd were largely occupied in effecting changes from near by to more remote deliveries. Aside from this the market was a dull affair. Closing prices were ¼c higher. The deal in October dominated. The opposition to the advance was purely of a passive character. The January listing in the and other articles of the hog products did not for some time sympathize with the big advance in October rifts, but when the strength in wheat and corn had developed, pork, lard and ribs for January delivery likewise became strong. Pork gained 12½c for January delivery and 5c for September and October; lard 7½c for January and 2½@5c for near by delivery, and ribs 5c for January delivery. Closing prices:

Wheat—September, 79¾@c; October, 74c; December, 80c; May, 87½c.

Corn—September, 45½c; October, 45½c; December, 46c; May, 49½c.

CHICAGO UNION STOCK YARDS, Sept. 24.—Cattle was inactive and very weak. Fresh receipts made an unusually heavy supply for the last day of the week and buyers had things their own way.
