Chicago, Jan. 6.—For the first two hours of the session business in wheat was slack, the whole fluctuations up to noon having been only about ½c. After that hour, however, the market gained in activity and strength and closed ⅝c higher. Corn was a shade easier during the first hour of the session, but then developed a good deal of strength and closed ⅝c higher. The firmness was due largely to the very bullish feeling in the provisions market and the sharp advance in live hogs at the yards. The oats market was firm, in sympathy with corn, closing prices were ⅛c higher. The provision market was the center of attraction and the focus of interest in the day proceedings on the board. Prices made an immediate jump when the opening bell sounded, and was affected with a sort of St. Vitus dance actively during the end of the session.
