Alleged Murderer Of Mr. Dodd Arrested

CAUGHT IN HOUSE AT CALHOUN FALLS ON WEDNESDAY

MURDER OCCURRED LAST FEBRUARY

News Reached Sheriff's Office of Whereabouts of Freely and Acted On.

"Doc" Freely, a negro was arrested Wednesday evening near Calhoun Falls and was brought to jail in Anderson charged with the murder of Mr. E. M. Dodd, the aged grocer who was most foully murdered February 20, 1915. The negro has been in hiding and it was only through a long hard hunt that he was ever found. It will be remembered that when the murder was committed that Freely was suspected as being implicated in the attack on Mr. E. H. Parks, an aged jeweler of Anderson, the attack occurring on the same day as the murder. He left Anderson and has not been seen since until Wednesday. He was found in a house, five miles below Calhoun Falls, and was arrested.

News reached the sheriff's office shortly after 3 o'clock Wednesday afternoon that the negro was at a certain house and Mr. J. Olin Sanders, Jim Williams and A. G. Epling left Anderson post haste for the house. They were joined in Abbeville by Mr. Joe Jones, deputy sheriff of Abbeville county. They went to the home of Mr. T. B. Palmer, near Calhoun Falls and found Freely at the home of Rebecca Wharton, a negro living on Mr. Palmer's plantation. He was in bed when found and after gaining an entrance, Mr. Sanders handcuffed the man in bed.

Story of the Crime.
On February 20 of this year, Saturday, Mr. E. M. Dodd, an aged grocer of Anderson was found lying on the floor in his little store on Hampton street. He was wounded four times in the head, evidently injured by some blunt object, afterwards found to be a brick, wrapped in a newspaper. His assailant had robbed him of what money there was in his pockets and had left the old man lying in his own blood on the floor of the store. The authorities spent much time in running down Jones, the chief suspect resulting in nothing. The final fact that Doc Freely had suddenly left Anderson and some other suspicious doings on his part, aroused the interest of the sheriff to such an extent that he thought it wise to hunt this man down. Mr. J. S. Fowler was employed the negro at the time of the murder, and he reported that after some suspicious and contradictory tales, he had left for parts unknown. The search was started and several men employed by Mr. Fowler set out to search for Freely. They failed to find him, and the sheriff started his own hunt in his own way. The result of this hunt is well known now.

The Only Clue.
The only clue to the murderer was a package of bloody clothes found in the home occupied by Doc Freely. This house was searched and the clothes found by the officer. At this time another negro stated that Doc had given him some money to come back to his house to try and get his clothes. This was impossible for the fact that the house was locked, but the negro made his way to the house later and made the change. He left his overalls, a pair of trousers, and a dark shirt in the room where he changed and these proved his undoing. The clothes were recognized as the ones the negro wore on the day of the murder and the blood spots looked very suspicious.

The Search for Freely.
The hunt for the missing man was continued until recently when it was reported that the trail had been lost in the section in which the man was found. He got into trouble recently and shot at a white man. At the time of this difficulty, it is stated he consisted of killing a white man in Anderson, and the matter, when coming before white people, caused them to make inquiries of Sheriff Ashley as to how and where the killing took place. The negro had never changed his name, and so when the word came that a negro by the name of Freely was in the neighborhood, the officers wasted no time in getting on the negro's trail. He was caught and brought back to jail. When news of the murder and gave out the following:

What Freely Says.
Freely declares that he knows nothing whatever about the murder of Mr. Dodd. He says that he was in the city one afternoon toward the end of last February, but says he cannot recall the date. He says that he came in from the Fowler farm west of the city, that Mr. J. S. Fowler gave him $1 with which to buy a pint of liquor for a negro named King Hardy, who works on the Fowler place. Freely says that Jim Frazier, another negro who works for Mr. Fowler, also gave him 75 cents with which to buy a pint of whiskey for another negro. Freely says that he bought a quart of liquor, for $1 for some from a white man in the Anderson mill village; that he drank about a pint of it and that he gave away several drinks to some friends. Because he did not have the liquor to take back for Hardy and for Jim Frazier's friend Freely declares that he decided to leave for parts unknown. He says that it was not strange for him to leave for such a small reason, for once before he left without any reason whatever and remained away for three years. Freely says that he went from the city leaving here about 4 o'clock as well as he could remember to the Fowler farm; that he took off his overalls and put on some clothes, leaving the overalls in a house on the Fowler farm. He claims that he walked as far as Dean station that night and that he reached Calhoun Falls next day, walking all of the way from Anderson. He says that he remained at Calhoun Falls only a short time, three or four days, and that he went to Mr. Chas. Dodson, who lives between Donalds and Honea Path. He stayed with Mr. Dodson until August 4th. He says that he went by the name of Doc Freely at all times. On leaving Mr. Dodson's, Freely says he went to his brother's home, Alf Freely, who lives between Calhoun Falls and Abbeville; that he worked with his brother while and then began working for Mr. Tom Palmer, a white man who has rented the farm adjoining that of Alf Freely.

Doc Freely declares that his first knowledge of the murder of Mr. Dodd came when he was in Greenville on July 4th, that he met a negro called Cap Fields, who works for Mr. Fowler, and that Cap told him of the murder. He says Cap told him the officers were searching for him; that they had reasons to believe that he (Freely) had committed the crime. Freely says that he told Cap that he would come back to Anderson and see Mr. Fowler and clear the matter up as far as he was concerned, because he knew nothing about the killing of Mr. Dodd. He says that Cap told him along with the officers; that Mr. Fowler was mad at him, and that it would not be wise for him to come back to Anderson. Freely says that he then returned to Mr. Palmer's home in Abbeville county, making the trip from Greenville by way of Belton, Honea Path and Donalds, etc. He said that he had been working on the Palmer place until he was arrested by the officers last night.

Freely stated this morning that his overalls, which he left in a house on the Fowler farm on the evening of his departure, were not bloody when he left them, and that he did not ask a negro woman to wash them for him. He declares that he has never been in Mr. Dodd's store, although he passed there frequently going to and from Mr. Fowler's store in that section of the town. He says he had seen Mr. Dodd on several occasions when passing the little store.

INDEFINITE STORY OF DISAPPEARANCE

Negro Near Starr Said to Have Been Spirited Away Across River.

Reports were current on the streets of the city Thursday afternoon of the mysterious disappearance of a negro named J. Van Oliver who lived near Starr. The negro is said to have been taken in the direction of Georgia from South Carolina last week, and has not been heard from since.

According to the reports, the negro had rented a large tract of land from a Mr. Dinkinscales at Starr and had sub-rented a part of it to a white man. When the time for the payment of the rent came, due the white man refused to pay and the negro had a quarrel with him. The white man left and later came back in an automobile with other white men. The negro was in Anderson endeavoring to get warrants for several men flying around Starr. So far as known, these warrants were not issued. There was a great deal of talk, but no one seems to know any thing definite about the matter.

HOMICIDE LAST NIGHT
Waymon Cain, aged 20 was shot and instantly killed by Ernest Gentry last night about 11 o'clock. The man was killed in a shooting scrape following a dance at the home of Mr. W. R. Nixon.
Cain is the son of Mr. J. A. Cain of the Jackson mill section, and was killed just at the mill. The coroner's jury fixed the blame on Ernest Gentry with Reed Shaw an accessory to the murder.

BOYS' ANNUAL BANQUET AT ST. JOHN'S TONIGHT

Occasion is Looked Forward to With Very Much Pleasure.

The annual banquet of the boys of the St. John's church will be held tonight at the church, corner of McDuffie and River streets. The banquet is one of the occasions to which the young men of the church look forward and is usually a great success. The plan of the banquet and its object is to stimulate interest in the church among the young men of the congregation and have a day set aside when they may meet together and have a feeling of companionship and brotherhood.

Mr. Speaks, pastor of the church, stated that the banquet this year is to be one of the best in the history of the church. Last year the attendance was large and with a few invited guests; chances are for even a larger one this time. Mr. Speaks jokingly calls the banquet the "Meeting of the Johnnies," the name being derived from the name of the church. All young men of the church are cordially invited to be present and to enjoy the good things. The committee on arrangements have done their best to make the banquet a success, and if the delicious delicacies they have prepared are to determine the success, it will certainly be a grand success. The hour has been set for 7 o'clock and all the young men are urged to be present at that time.
