Man Have Been.
An Englishman, while passing along the main street in a small town in Maine, stepped in a hole in the sidewalk and falling, broke his leg. He brought suit against the city for $1,000 damages and engaged Hamilton Hamlin for his counsel. After settling up the claim, Hamlin sent for his client and handed him one dollar.

"What's this?" asked the Englishman.

"That's your damage, after taking out my fee the cost of appeal and my own share of expenses," said Hamlin. The Englishman looked at the dollar and said, "What's the matter with this? It's a dollar!"

HOUSE AND HOME BY S. M. T.

Now is the time for all good housewives to beautify themselves, and get their houses and homes in order. For the long cold winter months are at hand, and so much ought to be done. Take your yard first, see that fences and gates are in good condition. That a "stitch in time saves nine" is true enough, a nail in place fastens true. If a railing is loose, fasten securely. If a hinge is off the gate, put one on, don't let it swing drunkenly in every passing breeze, from day to day, week to week, month to month. A house expresses its owner, the character of its person is plainly visible in the appearance of his home. Shiftlessness and thriftlessness are written all over some places. The banging shutter, the broken paling, leaning post, unkempt yards, gardens overgrown with weeds are so many loudly exclaiming signs as to the personal qualities of the people who live there. This is the time to take your garden in hand, if you want flowers, and good vegetables next summer, the lawn ought to be mowed closely, and covered with a generous blanket of stable manure, the roses and shrubs carefully spaded and fertilized, hedges the same. The vegetables, or kitchen garden as our grandmothers would call it, ought to be cleaned of all dying vegetation, weeds, and old plants should be collected and burnt, to destroy all insects that thrive on plant life.

When everything outside is in perfect order, the tidiness and capable housekeeper turns to the house, bright warm, and cozy it must be, to offset the rain and cold of winter days, napping and the cool grass rugs are to be taken up and laid away, after floors are scoured, and stained thick carpets or rugs take their place, the airy thin curtains also come down, the hangings must be heavier in texture, and richer in color, there are some exquisite chintzes that come for that very purpose.

The sunny window must have its flower box and a friendly palm added beauty to any room. In your preparations for the winter look well to the fire place, that most important of things, the "heart of the home." A room without a fire is like an empty bird cage, the life has fled, a chilly vacancy is all that remains. When I say a fire, I do not mean a hideous iron stove, or an atrocity in the shape of glass logs, but either a mass of glowing coals, or a wood fire, that most beautiful and delightful of companions, with its delicate lambent flames, and its exquisite colors. In that most charming of books "Backlog studies" by Charles Dudley Warner, he speaks of the joys of an open fire, and the winter evenings made cozy by the pulling of sitting stoves near the light of the leaping flames, the roasting of apples and nuts on the wide hearth. From that, he has apple toddy is but a step, which old fashioned beverage was often brewed in the olden days, with a clear conscience and a clean home, some of our hospitable housekeepers may try these during the wintry months.

Hot Apple Toddy.
Thoroughly roast a dozen large, juicy apples; wash and dip in a bowl of soda water, six lemons thinly sliced, one cup granulated sugar, pour sugar over lemons, and let the juice drain; add cider and soda water just before serving, put in a big piece of ice. A truly wonderful fruit punch is made by slicing oranges, lemons, pineapples, bananas and grapes, cover with sugar, and soak, add distilled or mineral water, and just before serving add cracked ice and a dash of champagne or Rhine wine.

The stately ladies of old did not disdain looking after the needs of the household and superintending the brewing of delectable drinks, and the making of wondrous pasties. A housewife's manual, published in 1860 contains recipes for the famous ratafia of ancient days. Ratafia is generally supposed to be a liquor, or cordial in which the flavor of almonds strongly predominates. Our modern housekeepers have two delightful pasties, which they call cherry bounce or cherry brady. They are made on the exact same principle.

From punches to appetizers in another respect, people use them in place of appetizers. Cut in slices in their own shells, cut in slices with a little orange and pineapple added, sprinkled with sugar and a dash of lemon juice, is good. Capers are well liked by men particularly. Strips of toast with a slice of ripe tomatoes on each, topped by a crushed egg mayonnaise is delicious, a salad, or mixed herring covered with mayonnaise and placed on toast is another good appetizer. Their name is legion, so are extras. Rice a la Crown is especially recommended.

Cook rice with chicken stock with bits of red and green pepper, and sliced chicken liver.

A chitonade dressing. Two tablespoons of finely chopped parsley, the same of chopped red or green peppers, teaspoon of minced onion, black pepper, half spoon of paprika, a suggestion of cayenne, four tablespoons of olive oil, and two of vinegar. Pour over crisp lettuce, and serve with toasted cheese sandwiches.

Few housekeepers know the value of eggs in cooking, but what delightful dishes can be made. A New York hotel has a special card giving forty-nine ways to cook eggs. I wish I had space for more than one or two.

Gimblets.
Beat together four eggs until well thick, add a seasoning of salt and pepper, four tablespoons of cream, and a half cup full of grated cheese. Four this into eight buttered molds, stand in a pan of warm water, and place in moderate oven until mixture is firmly set, put aside until cold, turn out, and cut in slices, dip in crumbs and season eggs and brown in hot lard like croquettes. Serve with them white sauce, to which has been added, grated cheese.

A good juicy tender omelet seems a rarity, yet it is easy to make. To four eggs add two tablespoons of warm water, beat slightly. Have the pan hissing hot, melt in a half teaspoon of butter, season, and pour in the eggs, shake the pan hard for a minute, then with a fork lift the cooked layer that the uncooked portion may flow underneath, continue to do this, tilting the pan to facilitate the operation, until the omelet is set, but not hard. Begin at the side of the pan nearest the handle to roll the omelet, first placing in the center a spoonful or two of the filling if there is one.

BIG SUIT VALUES

We are able to offer our patrons better values this year than for several previous seasons. Our buying organization is able to command the lowest market prices, yet we never buy in large quantities which involves duplicate styles frequently not authentic. Our suits are remarkably well chosen for style, quality, trimming and workmanship, yet because they are bought on a close margin they are marked at prices often below suits of the cheaper grade. Beginning at $12.50 and ascending by easy stages up to $65, each suit in our stock is an overflowing value of its kind. Our line of suits at $25 is exceptional.

Special Values This Week at $29.98 and $20

OUR COATS ARE WONDERFUL VALUES

Coat weather is due almost any day and it is well to be ready for it. Beginning at jaunty little SPORT COATS at $8.50 we have some very stylish models. In the three quarter lengths you will find poplins, gabardines, zibelines, wool velours and various pile fabrics such as Salts Sea Plush. Handsome coats in the latter fabric may be had as low as $25. Fur-trimmed plush coats sell at $30 up to $50. All colors and a variety of styles that will please almost any taste.

New White Hats

We have a good showing of the new WHITE HATS that are all the rage just now. They are mostly small shapes and are trimmed with fur, bead ornaments and handsome buckles. Not high priced either. The gold lace hats are very handsome as well as black velvet hats with gold lace crowns. Good models at $5 and up.

Dress Helps

Your new suit will demand a pretty waist. We have a good selection in taffeta, crepe de Chine, Georgette crepe, net or lace waists at $2.98 and $6.50. All have the newest collar and cuff effects and many show vests in contrasting color. Remember, our line of Children's Wear is the best in Greenville. Dresses, hats, coats, etc. at low prices.

Smart Waists

Our GENTRICH FEATHER BOAS at $5 and $6.98 in either solid or mixed colors are selling rapidly. There are also pretty net chiffon or malle ruffs at as low as 60c. Gloves, hosiery, neckwear, etc. in all the newest styles may be had at bottom prices. New styles in leather handbags at all prices.

We are recommending our 10-1-0 and 10-2-0 and 10-2-1/2-0 for wheat and oats this fall when you sow it.

This will give it stalk and grains in the head, and that it what you want in grain. If you will sow five acres in wheat and five in oats this fall, after preparing the land well and fertilizing it well with either of these goods, you will find it advantageous. The 10-2-1/2-0 is an especially fine goods for grain. Let us hear from you.
