WOMAN AND HER FEET

They Are the Two Most Faithful Friends She Has.

NOW TO TAKE CARE OF THEM

A Shoe Dealer Who Declares That Oxford Ties Are an Abomination, But High Heels All Right.

Women, dear, do you know the two most faithful friends that you ever had in this world?

No; they are not your father and mother, but your own two feet.

Do you appreciate the fact that many a time and oft, when sore and weary, they have trotted patiently home with you, exacting no fare, when you have spent your last cent for ice-cream soda or a bunch of posies on Fourteenth street?

And now the serious question arises, do you take proper care of these long-suffering carriers? Do you bathe them carefully every night of your life, rub them lovingly and gratefully, the poor, tired things—after all your foolish gadding around—with a little alcohol or just a wee bit of Florida water, and then sift a dust of violet powder between the poor little pink toes, that they may feel cool and rested?

If you neglect these things, oh, woman, you deserve all the corns and bunions that outraged nature will inflict. She will get even with you in one way or another, and, knowing of your black ingratitude to the friends that bear your whole burden through every step of your life, this is the way she has of showing you her methods of preventing and punishing cruelty to feet.

Speaking of feet, high heels, it seems, are not an unmitigated evil after all. So saith a prominent shoemaker on Broadway. This oracle goes on to declare that many women's feet have been ruined in the name of "common sense."

"Fiddlesticks," he exclaims, when you talk to him about low, square heels for a foot with a highly arched instep. "Why, you leave the foot unsupported at the very point where it is most needed. It means torture to the woman who is foolish enough to wear them, because a lot of spay footed females tell her to do so."

And now let me tell you another bit of wise information that this wise disciple of St. Crispin imparted with a knowing smile:

"It ain't the French heels or even the Louis Quinze variety, that spoil pretty feet half as much as these silly Oxford ties the women are wearing. They may be cool and fetching, and all that, but do you notice how dreadfully lace ankled the girls are getting? There is no support for the ankle in that sort of foot wear, and heavens, think of Venus herself with such a deformity as a lace ankle."

Victoria's Chair.

Next door to the harness room at Windsor is a huge coach house containing the queen's carriages, among them being a landau, seasible, driving landau, wagonette and a driving phaeton with curtains, which was much used by the late Prince Consort, says The Idler. In one corner is a covered perambulator belonging to her majesty's grandchildren, and close to it stands the vehicle which is generally known as "the queen's chair," although it is in reality a little four wheeled carriage with rubber tires and a low step, the interior lining and cushions being a plain dark blue in color. This vehicle is much used by her majesty when driving about the grounds and is drawn by an exceedingly strong, handsome donkey called Jacquot, in color a very dark brown, with white nose and curiously knotted tail. Jacquot, who is a very intelligent animal, with a rather strong objection to work and a great love of good living, accompanies her majesty whenever she goes abroad.

Warning to Girls.

Young women, if you never intend to be anything but a sister to a man, don't swing in a hammock with him, or act in such a way as to make him believe for an instant that he is the ocean to the river of your thoughts. The strongest of men are often as weak as a woman's tear in these matters of the heart.

Remember, that while it is only fun for you, it may be death to the best part of life to the great, manly fellow, whose heart-strings you are twisting so idly in your slender fingers. Besides, he might go crazy and kill you, as a man did up state the other day. Carefully, girls! many a tragedy begins with a farce.

Women Who Laugh.

For a good, every day household angel give us the woman who laughs. Her biscuit may not always be just right, and she may occasionally burn her bread, and forget to replace dislocated buttons, but for solid comfort all day and every day she is a very paragon. Home is not a battlefield, nor life one long, unending row. The trick of always seeing the bright side, or, if the matter has no bright side, of polishing up the dark one, is a very important faculty, one of the things no woman should be without. We are not all born with the sunshine in our hearts, as the Irish prettily phrase it, but we can cultivate a cheerful sense of humor if we only try.

New Kink in Veils.

"I will give you a wrinkle for a driving veil, or one to wear in windy weather," said a fashionable young woman, "one which is the most comfortable thing going, as it is impossible to blow off or get out of position. Buy a large square of any colored grenadine you like, and fasten at each corner a small heavy button. Throw the whole veil over your hat, leaving two corners hanging behind and two in front. Then take the two front ends and tie them around the neck under the hair at the back, over the two back ends. The buttons being heavy keep the whole thing in place, and tying the two front ends back prevents all the unbecoming folds over the face, which are so ugly when the fullness is all gathered up at the sides. I got this idea from my mother, who tells me that when she was a young girl they all wore their veils over their big hats in this way."—New York Tribune.

Music and Divorce.

That music still hath charms has just been abundantly shown in a London divorce court. In one case an Oxford stationer told how his wife, on discovering that she had a fine voice, went for training to Italy and France and eventually became a professional singer at musical parties. One day, however, she left him for another mate. Another lady, a doctor's wife, was induced by an Argentina cattle rancher to give music lessons to a lady friend of his. Ultimately she went off to Argentina with her cattle rancher.

Are You Going to the Fair?

A well fitting tailor jacket is always in taste. Cloth capes, however, are much newer. Imported cotton gowns for spring and summer wear have triple capes, emphasizing the extent to which this style of wrap will be worn.

The most chic and becoming are the triple capes made of broadcloth. Tan and black are the most adaptable colors.

They are unlined and the raw edges are ungarnished. The high Henri Deux collar is fastened with a silver or onyx clasp or a knot of ribbon.—Philadelphia Times.

Fads and Fancies.

One of the new colors of this season is oriental red, which appears in most of the new fabrics. It is a handsome dye, between a deep crimson rose and a rich dahlia color. It is alike becoming to dark and fair women and also to the neutral-toned type. It is a hue so subdued that it is not in the least conspicuous.

Among the modish new capes for spring is one in Polish fashion made of Persian red pilot cloth, with yoke and quaint, standing arched collar of black velvet. Superb jet bands and ornaments are used for trimming.

There seems to be almost a rage for violets as hat trimmings, and they are frequently used so profusely as to compose nearly the whole hat. Violets and mimosa are a favorite combination.

Tailors are making spring jackets of three-quarter length, double-breasted and straight in front, with the back flaring below the waist to fall over the skirts.

Stimulate the Blood.

Brandeth's Pills are the great blood purifier. They are a purgative blood tonic, they act equally on the bowels, the kidneys and the skin, thus cleansing the system by the natural outlet of the body—they may be called the purgative sudorific and diuretic medicine. They stimulate the blood so as to enable nature to throw off all morbid humors, and cure disease no matter by what name it may be called. One or two of them taken every night will prove an infallible remedy.

Re-Opening of Navigation to Milwaukee.

Commencing Monday, May 1, the popular Grand Haven route will be open for the season of 1893, and the steamers "City of Milwaukee" and "Wisconsin" will resume their regular trips in connection with fast steamboat express trains of the D., G. H. & M. Ry. Train will leave Grand Rapids at 10:30 p. m., connect with steamer at Grand Haven, arriving Milwaukee 6:30 a. m. daily, except Sundays.

A Positive Fact.

Ladies, do not delay your valuable time by waiting and suffering, but secure a bottle of Dullam's Great German Female Uterine Tonic and be cured of your monthly trouble either in old and young. It is the very best preparation I ever prescribed in my extensive practice. It has given the best results in the greatest number of cases of female troubles of any medicine I ever used. I do not make a practice of using or recommending patent medicines, but this remedy is prepared by a very competent physician and chemist of my acquaintance, and I can carefully and conscienciously recommend it as the best.

While Mr. T. J. Richey, of Altona, Mo., was traveling in Kansas he was taken violently ill with cholera morbus. He called at a drug store to get some medicine and the druggist recommended Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhœa Remedy so highly he concluded to try it. The result was immediate relief, and a few doses cured him completely. It is made for bowel complaint and nothing else. It never fails. For sale by F. J. Wurzburg, druggist, No. 58 Monroe street.

The promptness and certainty of its cures have made Chamberlain's Cough Remedy famous. Taken from the grave.

"The doctors said I had the worst case of womb trouble they ever saw.

"I had heart trouble, lost my speech and the use of my limbs. I frequently had fits, fainting spells, and I could not sleep. Three of the best New York doctors gave me up. Friends came to see me—among them my cousin.

MRS. WM. HULSE.

"She said she believed Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound would help me, and persuaded the doctor to try it. Oh! how thankful I am they gave it to me, for it took me from the grave. I began to improve immediately. I soon got out, and am now well and strong. No words can express my gratitude to you for my life. Since then I have given it to others, and it never fails."
