The Globe-Democrat and Senator Lamar.

Natchez Democrat.

Some of the newspapers of the State have attached undue importance to a dispatch sent the St. Louis Globe-Democrat from Washington, commenting on the appointment by Senator Lamar, of Mr. Edgar S Wilson to act as his clerk or private secretary.

To those who have kept pace with the telegraphic correspondence of this radical St. Louis Daily, very small importance will be accorded to the impertinence of this telegraphic sensationalist. The Globe-Democrat has no hesitation in giving place to anything that will injure or distract the Democratic party, and the appearance of the dispatch referred to in its columns gives it no additional evidence of truth.

We have no hesitation in asserting that the whole of this correspondent's deductions from the fact of Mr. Lamar giving Mr. Wilson temporary employment, is a tissue of falsehoods from beginning to end. In the first place he misrepresents Mr. Wilson who has, with the exception of some local differences, been in full accord with the conservative Democratic party of Mississippi. Further than this his attempt to place Senator Lamar in antagonism with the democracy of the State in which he is so much honored and loved, is too palpable a perversion of the truth to deserve the slightest attention from he press or people of the State. The whole of the course, all the teachings of this distinguished Senator have inculcated the union of the democracy of Mississippi as a protection of its property, of its civilization, and even its self-preservation. This he has always looked upon as a necessity.

It is too absurd for credence that he should do anything that had the slightest tendency to cause division in the party, and we confess to a good deal of astonishment that the absurd dispatch of this Washington calumniator should have received any attention whatever from the press of Mississippi. Our own attention was attracted to the dispatch, but we were too well satisfied of its absurdity to give it, even as an ingenious lie, a place in our columns. This method of calumniating the prominent and most acceptable men in the Democratic party has been too commonly used by the Globe-Democrat for it to deceive any one who has observed its course for years past. A division of the party in the South is what the unscrupulous radicals want, and they will hesitate at nothing to accomplish it.

Senator Lamar, in the temporary absence of Maj S. A. Jonas, who has long acted as his secretary, employed Mr. Wilson to do his writing, thereby giving him as a Mississippi editor, the privileges of the senate chamber, the library, &c. This he has done for other Mississippians in Washington. The appointment has no political significance whatever, and in no way commits Mr. Lamar to the support of Mr. Wilson for any presidential appointment whatever. Mr. Lamar never makes any promises of his support to any applicant for office, but after giving due consideration to every application and consultation with other members of Congress, he acts in pursuance of what he considers the best interests of the people.

Further consideration in any manner of this sharp dodge of the Globe-Democrat or its unscrupulous correspondent would in our opinion be unbecoming to the press of Mississippi, and an indignity to one of the purest and ablest men who has ever represented Mississppi in the Senate of the United States.

At a recent wedding in Newark, N. J., the bride made her promise to love and obey the man beside her, and he in turn vowed in the formal language of the prayer book to cherish and protect her, and then the Rev. Mr. Dupuy, an Episcopal clergyman of that city, directed the groom to place the ring upon the bride's finger. It slipped on easily at first, but the bride by bending her finger, made it impossible for the groom to press it past the second joint. He endeavored to push the ring on all the way, and as she resisted there was a painful pause in the ceremony. Mr. Dupuy supposed the ring was too small, and proceeded with the service. At the reception which followed the bride was asked by a friend what caused the delay when the ring was produced. She frankly explained that the wife of a jeweler had told her that if she allowed the groom to slip the ring over the second joint of her finger he would rule her through life, whereas, if it passed over only the first joint she would always have him under her control. She added that she resolved to resort to this device to effect her supremacy, because she was only eighteen years old, while the groom was forty, had been married once and, owing to his experience in matrimonial life, would probably have things too much his own way unless she enlisted the fates on her side at the outset. The Rev. Mr. Dupuy, who baptized the young lady in her childhood and had known her intimately since that time, reproved her for desiring to rule her husband, and reminded her that though the ring had not passed over the second joint of her finger she had nevertheless promised to obey her spouse. She listened meekly, but afterward told a confidential friend that the promise to obey was made with a mental reservation.—[N. O. Times-Democrat.

TWO TALES AS ARE TALES.

Gridley (Col.) Herald.

—Sunday afternoon a flock of sheep several miles west of town, were attacked by a large band of ravens. Spectators say there were not less than 300 birds in the band. They would fly down at the sheep and alight on their backs, and apparently trying to carry off the mutton, eagle style. Many of the birds got their talons fastened in the wool so that they could not fly away, and 18 were thus captured alive.

—A rancher living near the Princeton bridge has a canine that's fond of fish. The rancher had a coal oil can nearly full of tar at his blacksmith shop. At various times the rancher observed the dog drop the end of his tail in the tar, wag it several times then go to the creek. The dog backed down into the water, keeping his front feet in shallow water close to land. His tail, weighted with the tar was under the water. After standing perfectly still for a few moments the dog suddenly jumped out of the water and then adroitly turned and eat the funny fool. This sounds like a tough yarn, but the party informing us of the occurrence, asserting that he witnessed it, is a Christian gentleman.
