School Consolidation.

The school election held at Wahkon to decide whether or not there should be a consolidation, under the Holmberg act, of district 33 resulted in a vote of 42 for the proposition and 5 against. County Superintendent Ewing has issued an order for an election of officers to take place at Wahkon on February 9, and also an order for the election of officers for the consolidated districts of 17 and 19 at Cove on February 2.

daughter, Ellen, visited with Mr. and Mrs. O. T. Kirkevold and family at Milaca last Saturday.

Not to hurt any one's feeling, and to be sure we mention all, we will say that everybody from this neighborhood was in Princeton last Wednesday—some to deliver cattle or hogs others to attend the sales.

Different farmers here are taking advantage of the nice weather and are hauling their potatoes to market. The price paid for Triumphs is rather a disappointment to many, as these are just the potatoes everybody thought would be highest at this time.

Revival meetings started Sunday evening with Rev. Larson of Princeton as leader. Quite an interest is taken, as shown by the crowded school house each evening. Mr. Larson is visiting at the different homes while he is in this community and would like to see every family interested. Everybody is invited to these meetings, which are held every evening in the school house at 7:30. There will be no meeting on Saturday evening.

WYANETT.

Miss Rose Berg spent Sunday with Miss Hazel Warrings.

Arvid Hanson helped Art Lyndell thresh beans on Monday.

Mrs. Ole Krist left for Anoka on Monday to visit friends and relatives.

Arvid Hanson and Arthur Lyndell called at L. N. Berg's last Monday night.

Wm. Westilng returned from Minneapolis last week after spending a week there.

Miss Mayme Bratlund spent Sunday and Monday with Rose Berg and returned home Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. O. Engstrom and family and Mr. and Mrs. Joe Brueckner and family were entertained at O. C. Strong's for dinner on Sunday.

BLUE HILL

James Stevenson lost a hog last week.

Otto Borneke delivered cattle in Princeton last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Ezra Yager visited at Robt. McQuaid's on Sunday.

Otis Johnson is employed by Otto Borneke hauling logs to Princeton.

We are all glad to see a let-up in the cold weather. Some comfort in living now.

Mr. and Mrs. Lavelle were in Princeton on Tuesday on a shopping trip.

Carl Dehn of Princeton township is hauling hay from Chas. Reichart's farm.

Mr. and Mrs. Ben Haralson spent Sunday visiting Mr. and Mrs. Robt. McQuaid.

Ben Haralson was hauling hay and wood to Princeton for J. E. Thompson last week.

Mrs. Tellefson's mother died at her home in Blue Hill on Sunday evening after a long illness. She was 89 years old.

Willie Newman has his woodsaw fixed up in fine shape and is prepared to saw your wood piles now. Give him a call.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Newman and son, Frank, and Miss Clara Newman spent Sunday at Frank Lindberg's in Greenbush.

Fred Clark of Princeton came out to Blue Hill after his cow and calf, which he will care for at home the rest of the winter.

Mrs. John Fullwiler is very sick again, but is expected to recover. She has certainly had much sickness to contend with the past year.

Miss Nellie Bailey left on Saturday for Elk River, where she will visit friends for a few weeks and then will go to Monticello, where she expects to spend the rest of the winter.

We learn that Claude Bragg has purchased an 80-acre farm from W. H. Houlton of Elk River, situated northwest of the mound. We are glad to see the vacant land being bought up.

Quite a number of young people spent Sunday evening at Fred Newman's. Among those present were Mr. and Mrs. Otto Borneke and daughter, Ethel, Otis and Marvin Johnson, Mabel and Arthur Borneke and Albert Boehm.

BALDWIN.

Fred Smart and family spent Sunday at the G. A. Johnson home.

Mildred Johnson is training her dog, Penny, while she is not in school.

James Wheeler has purchased eighty acres of land from Mrs. J. H. Angstman.

Mrs. O. A. Dorff and son, Clarence, called at the Trunk home on Thursday evening.

Ben Johnson took a load of cattle to town for Mrs. Andrew Anderson on Wednesday.

Pearl McCracken has lost her eyesight again. We all sympathize with Pearl in her trouble.

School in district 10 was suspended for two days last week on account of the illness of the teacher.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Pierson are the proud parents of a baby girl. Now, Bill, fork up your treats.

Irene Townsend spent Saturday night with Gertrude Pierson. These two girls are great chums.

The roads are in a poor condition at the present time. There are several tipovers every day.

Miss Sarah Schurrer of Blue Hill spent Saturday and Sunday with her chum, Miss Iva McCracken.

Albert Satterstrom and Herman Abraham called at the J. Pierson home on Sunday afternoon.

Morris Stacy bought all of James Wheeler's cattle and cream separator. He took them home on Monday.

District 10 has purchased a teacher's desk for the school. We suppose the teacher will take solid comfort now.

Frank, Chester, Janey and Mildred Way, Clarence Dorff, Boyd Hamilton and Fred Murphy passed Sunday evening with the Stacy family.

S. A. Lane and family, John South and wife and George Judkins and family spent Friday at the Judkins home. The evening was spent in playing cards.

A large crowd of young people gathered at the McCracken home on Friday evening. The time was passed in playing games and dancing. At midnight a bountiful repast was served. The party was held in honor of Iva McCracken's birthday anniversary.

WEST SPENCER BROOK.

C. A. Babb and family spent Monday evening at Williams'.

Roy Stickney and Ed Colburn were up from Bradford last Sunday on business.

Jim McKenzie and family spent Sunday afternoon at King's, across the river.

Lots of potatoes are being hauled to Princeton but the roads are in fearful condition.

Mrs. C. A. Babb and daughter spent last Saturday with Mrs. Wm. Stark across the river.

Ernest Patten returned from Minneapolis last Saturday, where he got $2.50 per bushel for his beans.

DALBO.

Arvid Lindgren was in Princeton with a load of potatoes on Tuesday.

Don't forget the basket social at the Unitarian church on Sunday evening at 7:30.

Axel and Fred Anderson of Carmody were callers on Dalbo friends on Sunday.

Mrs. Louis Palm of Waynett visited with her sister, Mrs. B. O. Erickson, one day last week.

Oscar and Andrew Newman and Ewdin Hedeen were callers at M. Erickson's on Sunday.

THREE CORNERS.

Miss Hazel Warring visited her parents over Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Bragg are finishing their house this winter.

John Cameron and wife went to Minneapolis last Thursday.

Sam Sausser bought two fine cows from E. W. Severance last week.

E. W. Severance and daughter, Mrs. Orin Hamilton, visited at Minor Jones' on Sunday.

School commences in district 24 on Monday, after four weeks' vacation, with Miss Dugan as teacher.

Mrs. Gustafson and Mr. and Mrs. Skoog attended the Lutheran church in Princeton on Sunday morning.

August Chilstrom, who bought Mr. Schultz' place and the Fred Brown place, near the river, will move onto the property about the first of March.

Those on the sick list this week are Mr. and Mrs. Abe Steeves' two children, Mr. Vermont's two children, and Minor Jones, but all are getting better.

SPOONER MAY BE THE NEXT

Expected to Enter Race for the Governorship.

EBERHART TO MAKE NO FIGHT

Declares He Will Stand on His Record and Make the Run if the People Decide They Want Him.

(Special Correspondence.)

St. Paul, Jan. 23.—The complaint of a week ago that the campaign of 1912 promised to be the slowest in the history of the state was not a day in the telling when two candidates for Republican gubernatorial honors broke the silence with an appeal to the voters of the state and hard on the heels of their statement came the tentative announcement of another. Still another is expected to shy his caster into the ring and those who have been watching the game would not be surprised if a fifth added his troubles to those who will carry their grievances before the next Republican state campaign. I refer to the announcement of Lieutenant Governor S. Y. Gordon of Browns Valley, whom one St. Paul paper, the Dispatch-Pioneer, has ordered its political writers to never use his name without the appellation "King for a Day" in the hope of ridiculing him into oblivion, and W. E. Lee, the Long Prairie banker. The two reached the Cities with their appeal within an hour of each other and the ink was hardly dry on their statements when Nathaniel J. Holmberg of Renville county sent a long distance message to the effect that he was considering a demand to get into the game. While all this was going on Governor A. O. Eberhart was in Nebraska visiting his mother and State Chairman C. E. Smith sat in his office in Minneapolis and refused to be disturbed.

With two candidates in the field fully equipped with an appeal to the voters, also a platform and a keynote speech, a third wrestling with the problem of whether or not the game is worth the candle and a fourth—I refer to L. S. Spooner, who has been flirting with the goddess these several weeks—one naturally asks what about Adolph Olson Eberhart, who former Attorney General George T. Simpson dubbed "The Man of Destiny." He is not worrying, at least his movements would not indicate such. His excellency returned home Wednesday and the occasion was one of immediate assault by the scribes. His answer was brief and to the point: No announcement, no headquarters, no platform and no comment as to his rivals. The emphasis given each staggered the reporters, for be it known his excellency is not an easy man to interview, for with that caution characteristic of his nationality each word uttered for publication is hedged with more words and the wits of the pencil pusher are necessary to make his answer meet the demands of their publications. And these demands are not always exacting, for the most of the Twin City dailies are friendly to Governor Eberhart. He seldom gets the worst of any indiscretion of speech or action.

That Governor Eberhart will not announce his candidacy for renomination, that he will not open headquarters like the others nor issue a statement of principles is not the result of any sudden determination on the part of his excellency, but is reported to have followed a conference of his advisers immediately following the announcement of the candidacy of Messrs. Gordon and Lee. That night a telegram went speeding over the wires to Overt, Neb., where the governor was visiting, and it cautioned silence. The conference was to the effect that silence was golden and that opening a barrel at this time would only complicate matters. Talk, it was agreed, would not help and opening headquarters would simply mean accepting the other fellow as a rival. The administration had the organization and what more was necessary. As for an announcement of candidacy such was generally accepted.

The announcement of Lieutenant Governor Gordon's candidacy comes as a voice from the dead, though the Browns Valley man and his manager, James Arneson of Chisholm, have right along refused to be classed among those relegated to the Eberhart private burying ground. It costs something to run for governor, though this handicap, I understand, has been partially overcome by an advance on the part of certain Minneapolis parties, five of them, it is reported, pledging themselves to $1,000 each as a start. There will be more coming on a showing of pay dirt. But what puzzles the king makers is the entrance of W. E. Lee of Long Prairie and the promulgation of his platform. Both followed so hard on the coming of the Browns Valley man that it looked as if the two had joined in timing their act. And one man could have written the pledges of the two, they were so similar. Brewery annihilation was the keynote of each and they only differed on other propositions in the matter of their application.

In the scramble for place this week the activities of L. C. Spooner of Morris have been lost sight of, but I have it from close friends that he will soon be heard from. In a former letter I spoke of the interest of Speaker Dunn of the house in Mr. Spooner's behalf and his work, it is said, has since been supplemented by a number of letters that would make interesting reading if ever reduced to print. If Mr. Spooner gets into the game it will be on a broad platform of extravagance in state expenditures. That has been his hobby and all other isms will be sidetracked in its interest. Down here Mr. Spooner is looked upon as No. 2 in the list of eligibles and there are those who say that if the fates should combine against "The Man of Destiny" it would be Mr. Spooner who would have the best wishes of those now pledged to Governor Eberhart's return to office.

R. C. Dunn's apparent friendliness for Governor Eberhart and his activity in the state political game has been productive of a number of stories and much gossip hardly fair to the old campaigner and which he himself, in his forcible way, has attempted to deny on several occasions. The gossip, in brief, is that the Princeton man has 1914 in mind and in return for support given now is to have administration aid when Governor Eberhart has completed another term, and for the purpose of keeping him before the public he is to have the office of lieutenant governor in the meantime. It sounds nice and it looks good in print, but it hardly sizes up to the politics that Bob has played in a lifetime at the game. Commenting upon the talk one man close to the administration gives it as his opinion that if such is the Princeton's man scheme then he had lost his cunning. "I am not so sure that Bob will permit the use of his name for lieutenant governor and as for the governorship in 1914 I think that is the least of his troubles," says this particular party. "Like myself he knows that a statewide primary is practically certain when the next legislature meets and that if nothing else would curb his ambitions, if he has any. When that bill passes the dreams of quite a few will be at an end, for it means nationality and the predominating one at that. It will be the finish of the Bob Dunns, the Spooners, the Gordons and a few others that I know. Mind you I do not speak of this as a calamity; far from it. It's human nature. Blood, you know, etc., etc."

Speaking of a statewide primary, a bill for the adoption of which has been before a half dozen sessions of the Minnesota legislature, the opinion is general that it will prevail ere another three years. The king makers look upon its coming as something that cannot be prevented and I firmly believe that they will give their aid in helping make it a part of the statutes. I do not say it in a knocking spirit and I think I have outlined it plainly enough in the paragraph referring to Bob Dunn, and that is a statewide primary means a ticket strictly on nationality lines, and that the predominating one. Perhaps it will mean the wiping out of many abuses and the elevation to office of better men, but what I have outlined cannot be avoided. Governor Johnson wanted a statewide primary; John Lind would be United States senator today if such existed, and R. T. O'Connor, the boss of St. Paul, would be fighting for existence if the local primary had never happened. The primary is the best friend "Boss" O'Connor ever had.

Last week saw a decided flurry in state fair circles, the disturbing element being a threatened overthrow of those in charge of the annual meeting of the State Agricultural society, but the trouble failed to materialize. President Glotfelter was re-elected and the fair management finished intact. The whole thing worried the administration considerably, but their lieutenants were on hand and the trouble makers were quieted—what is better they were subdued. W. R. Mackenzie of Bemidji, an accepted candidate for secretary of state, was to the front in this respect and the trimming given him was taken to mean his forced retirement from the race for the office which he was seeking. Mr. Mackenzie, however, says he is very much in the fight and refuses to be retired.

The state legal department has interested itself in an action of much importance to Minnesota and which directly involves nearly $3,000,000 of state school money invested in ditch obligations. In Roseau county the issuance of bonds for a ditch was attacked on the ground that they were an obligation against those directly benefited rather than against the county as a whole. The action tended to depreciate the state's investment. Happily the lower court held against the contestant and the suit is now up to the supreme court for final determination. The belief is that the lower court will be sustained.

Lieutenant Governor S. Y. Gordon has opened gubernatorial headquarters at the Merchants hotel in St. Paul. W. E. Lee of Long Prairie is expected to follow suit next week.

The one lone state office for which a contestant has so far failed to make his appearance is state treasurer. The present incumbent is in hopes of getting through without a rival. THE COUNTY CHAIRMAN.
