THE CLARION.

Official Journal of the City of Jackson

LOCAL AND OTHER NOTES.

—City election passed off quietly.

—Snow, rain, hail and sleet all in two days. Nothing is a very precarious best time.

—C. B. Bishop, "Strictly Business," tonight and to-morrow night. He comes to us highly recommended.

—Mr. Spencer, of Vicksburg, brother of our enterprising citizen, Mr. H. Spengler, was in Jackson last week.

—The Legislature has had a cold reception—from the weather; but a very warm greeting—from the candidates.

—Ex-Gov. Stone was at the Capitol yesterday, looking in fine physical condition. His host of friends were glad to greet him.

—Col. R. M. McIntosh, of Okolona, is among the distinguished Mississippians visiting the State Capital at the present time.

—See announcement of Mr. Jas. A. Cummings, the copper and sheet-iron worker in this issue. He is prepared to do all work in his line. Give him a call.

—Dr. Craft walks in the middle of the street and advises those who take the side walks to do the same, as he does not wish to get broken limbs this cold weather.

—All seats in the members gas pertaining beyond at their hotels and boarding houses, we will publish a directory of same. We hope to be able to do so during this week.

—Prof. Wilbourby Reals lectures on electricity at the Methodist church on Friday night, and will give some of his best readings. Admission 50 cents; all Sunday scholars, 25 cents.

—Mr. J. F. Beale, city editor of the Vicksburg Herald, will remain in Jackson during the present session of the Legislature as staff correspondent for the Atlanta Constitution and other dailies.

—Dr. W. A. Gatteway, formerly of Madison station, has located in Jackson for the practice of his profession—medicine. Do not fail to give the public of his place of business. We wish him success.

—When the workmen employed on Government Building were leaving Washington, they were told that it was not necessary to bring their overcoats—that it was all sunshine and balmy to Dixie. They have learned better within the past few days.

—Admission cards will be issued by the Tam Veeds to the Fancy Dress and Masquerade Ball to take place January 22d, 1884, and all persons receiving admission cards must present them to the doorkeeper or they will not be admitted to the ball. Persons receiving admission cards should bear this in mind.

—Major I. M. Partridge, of the Meridian Gazette, entertained our sanctum with his genial countenance on Monday. We also had a pleasant call yesterday from Mr. J. G. McNairy, of the Oxford Falcon, and C. H. K. Marony, of the Pascagoula Democrat-Star. Come, we doubtless others of the Press gang, and we shall be the Bar in the city whom we have not seen.

—Judge Morgan told Col. T. W. White of Delaware; W. D. Miller and J. R. Beatie, Esq., of Pontotoc; Col. Gallaway and Judge Martin, of Yalobusha; Thos. Spight, District Attorney, of Tippah; Judge T. N. Martin, of Chickasaw; Gen. Walthall, of Grenada; James W. C. Watson, Esq., of Marshall; Maj. Pat. Henry, of Benton, not to attend us on the Supreme Court.

Amusements.

C. B. Bishop, the well-known comedian will present his great success, "Strictly Business" at the Opera House tonight. All who wish to spend a pleasant evening and enjoy themselves should not fail to attend. The play abounds in fun and mirthfulness, situations, and there can be no doubt of a first-class performance. As every one seems to be going we think it advisable to secure seats in advance and avoid the annoyance of a crowd at the box office. See advertisement in another column.

Fatal Shooting Affray.

Mr. John Hansberry and Mr. Cornelius Ryan had a word yesterday morning about the late election on Monday when several shots were exchanged, and the last named fatally wounded. He died at 4 o'clock this morning. From all that we can now hold to learn, Mr. Ryan was under the influence of liquor and was very abusive to Mr. Hansberry for the part he took in the election. He also fired the first shot. Mr. Hansberry was arrested, but released on bond for his appearance, until the affair can be judicially investigated.

INSURE YOUR LIFE.

A Policy of The Equitable Life Assurance Society is Better Than a Deposit in any Savings Bank.

Some time ago there appeared in a popular New York paper a question from a correspondent living in the South in which the writer asked the advice of the editor as to the expediency or propriety of getting his life insured. He stated that he lived on a salary, that he had a wife and child, and that he could easily support them if life should be spared; but that he was sometimes distressed with the thought that he might be taken away by death prematurely, and leave them destitute. He further stated in the letter that he could easily spare enough out of his salary to carry a life policy of $10,000; and he desired to know whether it would be better to purchase a life policy, or to invest a small sum annually in some other way for the benefit of his family.

The answer to this anxious young husband and father, published by the editor of the paper, was against Life Insurance. It advised the correspondent to deposit annually in a Savings Bank the sums which would pay the premiums of a policy for $10,000, and let the interest accumulate.

The young man followed this advice. It so happened that after he had made one deposit of $300 he died, leaving a young widow and child. The three hundred dollars paid the doctor's bill and funeral expenses. But the widow and babe were left destitute of everything; whereas they would have received TEN THOUSAND DOLLARS if the husband had not followed that disastrous advice.

"No," said the deaf man, "I don't enjoy talking with A. I hear every word he says, but then, you know, he yells so that everybody finds out that I am hard of hearing. Now, B is a man in whose conversation I take great pleasure. I never hear a word he says, but it is quite flattering in him to talk so loud, and it shows a kindly regard for another's infirmities. He never lets it appear that he so much as guesses that I am deaf."

The State Library.

AGRICULTURAL AND MECHANICAL COLLEGE OF MISSISSIPPI, STARKVILLE, Jan. 6th, 1884.

EDITORS CLARION: Having had several occasions within the past few years to visit and make use of the State Library at Jackson, I have been so much impressed with the manner in which it is kept, that even at the risk of being considered officious, I am induced, without solicitation or suggestion from any source, to make this public communication to the members of the Legislature. I would warmly commend to their favorable consideration for the office of State Librarian one who is preeminently fitted for the position by native tact, talent, training, and by a successful experience of some years, as unanimously conceded by all who have occasion to visit the State Library for some years last past. I have no personal interest in Mrs. Mary Mooney, the present incumbent, to whom the above statements have reference, more than in many other excellent ladies.

And those who have had experience in visiting large libraries managed by persons lacking special tact, and special training, and have thus learned the annoyance resulting from such a state of affairs, and in contrast the promptness, kindness, and attention of Mrs. Mooney to all visitors, can well appreciate the advantages, the necessity indeed of filling the office in question one competent and accomplished as the very knowledge and experience actually shown by the faithful service of the present incumbent. All who have occasion to visit and consult the volumes of the State Library will be grateful for the retention of Mrs. Mary Mooney to that assistant, responsible, delicate, and difficult office.

Very respectfully,
Your obedient servant,
D. L. PLEASANT.

Attention, Horticulturists!

The second annual meeting of the Mississippi Horticultural Society will be held at Crystal Springs on Thursday and Friday, January 17th and 18th, 1884. Papers on Horticultural subjects of interest will be read by Col. J. J. Shannon, of Meridian; Professors Calvert and Gulley of the Agricultural College; W. H. Cassell, S. H. Stackhouse, G. D. Swaney, and others. The citizens of Crystal Springs have promised to and to take care of those from a distance.

Praying Against Time.

Harper's Magazine.]

Talking against time is common in Congress, but praying against time is the device of a clever Brooklyn child, who will know how to get her rights when she comes in sight of them.

The fire burned low in the Franklin stove, the cat was asleep on the rug, not a mouse stirred behind the wainscoting as the mother wrote by a shaded lamp with a noiseless pen. All the house pets in slippers of velvet when little Bevent to bed, for sleep and the unnamables and she fought him to the last eyelash. Her voice came from the bedroom now with no sound of sorrow in it. It was better to be at prayer than to be asleep, and of course no one cared to reprove her for praying. "Oh Lord, and then, make me good and let me go in the omnibus to see Aunt Margaret and all the aunts and nieces and mothers. Keep me safe, for I want to go and see Aunt Margaret and see what I can see. Don't let it hail or snow or rain, for I want to go in the omnibus to see Aunt Margaret very much indeed, and all the aunts and nieces and mothers. Make me well so that I can go in the omnibus dear do. Bless grandpa and grandma, Aunt Kate and Aunt Sophia and Charlie Swan. Bless papa and mamma and make us all good, so that we can go to heaven at last. For Jesus sake, amen."

There was a short pause, and then the wide awake, defiant voice went out:

"Keep grandma from doing before she gets here. Don't let anything happen to her. Don't let any bears or wild beasts eat me up. Bless grandpa, grandma and Charles Swan, and Kate and Aunt Sophia." Another pause, a little longer than the first, and the unconquered began again. "I long to apples, I long for milk. I long for pie I long to be good. I wish I had not had cold. I long for some water I long for some white bread. I long for some wine. I long for something I long to be a woman. I think then that I did not rain or snow. Give me a clear spirit. Let me be good when papa is here, for it grieves him to have a naughty, and he buys me things—slaythings. I have prayed that I shall go to sleep. That makes three prayers.

A yawn, a long drawn breath, and then silence presently announced that the last prayer was answered and she resigned.

Saved by a Sneeze

The sneeze was one of the old-fashioned whoop-de-doo whoop, three-times-three order. I was surprised to see my friend, the Captain, step forward with extraordinary spryness, and hear him shout, with the joyfulness of a man who had made a discovery: "Why, how do you do, Major? The two men clutched each other, shook each other by the hands and shoulders, and finally made me understand that they had seen one another for nineteen years. The Major had changed greatly, and he asked, in bewilderment, how the Captain knew him. "By your sneeze," was the answer. "There is another sneeze like that in this country, you know. And when I heard it ring out I remembered that time at Gaynsville, you know, and I knew Major Mitchell was before me." Then, turning to me, the Captain said: "That was our last scouting expedition early in the war. We landed in the evening to look up some guerillas who had made a dash that day to the steamboat landing. The regiment divided, and the men went scampering over the country in gleeful recklessness. Soon it became very dark, and both the battalions lost their way. Moving forward in line, one battalion came suddenly on a body of troops formed to receive them, with skirmishers out. Neither officers nor men were clear as to what the regulations called for in such a case, and there was a hurried and excited conference. The troops might be our own men, but they ignored every challenge, and we knew that they, like ourselves, were ready to fire. There was a minute of terrible suspense, everybody in doubt. Then suddenly there came out from the ghostly line in the shape of the Major's double shotted sneeze. It was like the ringing of a joyful knell and in our relief both battalions fairly danced as roar after roar of laughter succeeded the sneeze. It was a narrow escape from a mistake too common then, of one Union regiment pouring a murderous fire into another. The Major's sneeze saved us."—Chicago Inter-Ocean

A Dog Walks 1,000 Miles.

George Griffin an old citizen and property owner of Aurora, Ind, says that a log belonging to him found his way home from New Orleans, where he has been taken on a flat-boat down the Ohio and Mississippi rivers. The distance from New Orleans to Cincinnati is something over 1,000 miles, and this place is only twenty-five miles below Cincinnati. Mr. Griffin says the dog was a worthless animal, and was taken on the boat with the intention of dropping it off somewhere down the river to get rid of it. The dog, however, was kept aboard the boat and taken to New Orleans. Here he was turned adrift in the city. The boats crew returned home together, and, as they had seen nothing of the dog for several days before leaving New Orleans they concluded they had lost him. "About three months after my arrival home" said Mr. Griffin, "the lost dog crawled under the back fence and sneaked up to the kitchen door. He was the most woebegone looking creature I ever saw—poor, lank and hungry, with barely enough strength to drag himself along. He was the prodigal son of dogs, and looked as though he wanted the fatted calf, and wanted it right away. When I left him in New Orleans he was sleek and fat; when he turned up at home three months later he was a mere skeleton. His feet were sore and bleeding. He had a bushy tail and it was full of burs, showing that he had come through the woods. I am sure he walked every step of the way. At first I was afraid to tell my wife of his return knowing she would think there was something supernatural about and worry over it. I prepared her for the news by telling her it was a common thing for dogs to walk back from New Orleans, and that I was expecting Jack home any day. I fixed up a nice comfortable nest for him in the woodshed, and it was three weeks before he would leave it. He just laid there and rested.

The complexion is often destroyed by warms. It can be restored by taking Shriner's Indian Vermifuge. Only 25 cents a bottle.

Death of the Crazy Dove.

A female dove, whose peculiar actions for some time past gave it the name of the "crazy dove," was killed on Saturday under the following circumstances:

The bird was one of a pair that belonged to a young lady living near the Erie Railroad track, a mile or two from Ruthbo ville. A few months ago, to flying across the railroad track the male bird came in contact with the smoke-stack of the Pacific express locomotive. It was killed instantly, and was thrown suddenly out of the sight of its companion. The female circled about in the air for a few minutes, in evident amazement at the sudden disappearance of her mate. She then flew to a mile post near by and for a long time gave utterance to two mournful notes peculiar to the species. Suddenly she seemed to realize what had carried her companion from her, and she rose and flew swiftly into the direction the train had taken.

She did not return for a long time. When she did return she alighted at her cote, where she remained for the rest of the day uttering her plaintive notes. The next morning just before daybreak she flew to her position on the mile post, near the spot where her mate had disappeared the day before. When the express train came along she flew at the locomotive hovering about the smoke stack and circle if looking for her mate. She accompanied the train for about half a mile, and then returned.

Everyday she repeated her strange actions, taking her place at the hour out on the mile post at exactly the same time, and waiting for the train, no matter how late it might be, and then going through the same manoeuvres, and returning to her cote as soon as before. She ate but little. On Saturday she collided with the smoke stack of the locomotive, just as her mate had done, and met the same fate at nearly the same spot.

Consumption Cured.

An old physician, retired from practice, having had placed in his hands by an East India missionary the formula of a simple vegetable remedy for the speedy and permanent cure of Consumption, Bronchitis, Catarrh, Asthma and all throat and Lung Affections, also a positive and radical cure for Nervous Debility and Nervous Complaints, after having tested its wonderful curative powers in thousands of cases, has felt it his duty to make it known to his suffering fellows. Actuated by this motive and a desire to relieve human suffering, I will send free of charge to all who desire it, this recipe, in German, French or English, with full directions for preparing and using. Sent by mail by addressing with stamp, naming this paper, W. A. Noyes, 149 Power's Block, Rochester, New York.

Jennie Smith was sixteen years a helpless invalid. She paddled books, not entertaining going about in a couch on wheels. She usually stayed in that vehicle night and day, and, to avoid the fleet and pain of removal to a seat in a passenger car, habitually travelled among her baggage. She was suddenly cured. She believes it was by a miracle. That made her into a evangelist. Remembering the almost uniform kindness with which railroad employees had treated her, she resolved to devote herself entirely to their salvation. During two years she has had charge of the Railway department of the Women's Christian Union. "But I'm not treated as cavalierly as when I was a cripple," she says "a baggage smasher lately remarked to me, 'We were glad to help you when you couldn't walk, and you're as welcome now—if you couldn't talk.'"—Exchange.

You can always be a hearty robust health if you resort to time and use by using Parker's Ginger Tonic.

By going a few minutes sooner or later, by stopping to speak with a friend on the corner, by meeting this man or that, or by turning down this street instead of the other, we may let slip some impending evil, be which the whole current of our lives would have been changed. There is no possible solution of the dark enigma but the one word "Providence!"—Louisville.

When a woman is asked by a fond lover for her heart and hand and says "No," she don't always mean it; when a man is asked by a jovial friend if he will take something and says "No," he don't always mean it, either.

The blessing of a house is goodness. The honor of a house is hospitality. The ornament of a house is cleanliness. The happiness of a house is contentment.

Laziness grows on people; it begins in cobwebs and ends in iron chains. The more business a man has to do the more he is able to accomplish, for he learns to economize his time.—Addison.

STEDMAN & CO.

A NEW YEAR!

And it means to us that our business of 1883 is ended. Stock is taken and calculated and we know how we stand exactly. We know what paid and what didn't pay. We know what lines of goods we have too many of, and what lines too few. We see some mistakes our buyers have made in sending us goods not suited to this market. Goods that don't sell readily anyway. Goods that now we find we are overstocked on. What to do under the circumstances is the question now, and we are not at a loss for the answer. Sell them! Mark them at prices that will make them bargains; don't regard cost, and they will go; and this is what we have done.

MILLINERY DEPARTMENT!

HATS!

100 Assort. Ladies, Misses and Children at 25 cents, former prices 50c., 75c and $1.00.

A small lot at 15c., good value at 25c and 50c.

A line of Felt Hats at 75c., reduced from $1.00 and $1.50.

A line of Felt Hats at $1.00, reduced from $1.50 and $2.00.

Infants Zephyr Caps, reduced from $1.25 to 80c.

"Rob Roys," former price $3.00, now $2.00.

Quaker Bonnets, Mother Hubbards, etc., that are trimmed and in stock, former prices $2.50, $2.75 and $3.00, now reduced from 25 per cent to 50 per cent.

A line of Felt Jockeys at 75c., former price $1.25.

Bird's Feathers, Plumes, etc., all marked over—some at 25c., off price, others with a $1.00 off, and some just halved.

And this is the way we have gone over our entire stock. We won't keep goods from one year to another. We want our stock new and bright with each season, and this is the way we go about it; regarding neither cost or profit.

STEDMAN & CO.

A RICH PROPOSITION.

We will send the JOURNAL OF AGRICULTURE AND AMERICAN STOCK BREEDER, a 16-page, 80-column weekly paper, 13 years established, one year, $1.25, and THE WEEKLY CLARION, Jackson, Miss., one year, both papers for $1.50.

A man told his friend that he had joined the army. "What regiment?" his friend asked him. "Oh, I don't mean that; I mean the army of the Lord." "Ah, what church?" "The Baptist." "Why," was the reply, "that's not the army; it's the navy."

"Pa," said a little boy at the theatre the other night, "I wish I could hurry up and get bald-headed" "Why, my son?" Because, then I could always set on the front row of chairs."

"Now, children," she continued, "what is the meal you eat in the morning called?" "Oatmeal," promptly replied a member of the class.

Where Have You Been?

THIS QUESTION IS SO OFTEN ASKED, I will answer for the whole State. The name of FARRIS & HERRING seems so familiar all over the country as Washington and Lee, or Goldsmith and Vanderbilt, although over 20 years there the little nationally known, and since which we have not been able to cover the entire south as before the war. We now are, so have been moving south and now in Mississippi; and have come to stay. It is call American people here to be Humbugged. It is false. They do not, but they are always willing to take hold of something cheap and cheap, but when they are in a sure thing they want the best. Hence, now, they want to see us, and say, "Where are you?" We want the CHAMPION SAFE. We have bought cheap sales and we know our Champion has been so far ahead of any other. We find you have of our Champion Safes in Virginia, North Carolina, South Carolina, Georgia, and even over in Alabama we notice we placed the first Safe in all our south. And now we are glad you have come and sell a Safe Doubtful Safe, and many others in Mississippi, and still another in Jackson, and in the state.

We believe that only Safe Made Safe in the Country to contract you the best, as it is the Champion and that it will cost you less than other Safes, but perhaps still lower, and if you could know of the wonderful advances in the quality of safe making, work as Our Checked Filling, which by we make the very fire to self proofing to our customers, and in Burglar-proof work, Fireproofing, Chamber of Safes, Vaults, Doors, Fireproofing Metal, which we use in connection in use as drill proof metal, which we use in connection with Steel—all of which are patented and work in the Hamilton Champion Safe, and if you see not called upon us time soon a line to

A PLANTATION FOR $10.

81 Will Buy One-Tenth of a Ticket; 62 Two-Tenths, etc.

THE "Pearl Hook and Ladder Company," of Jackson, Miss., offer the Plantation known as

on the Canton road, 7 miles North of Jackson, 1 mile from Tougaloo, and containing 656 acres, worth $5,000, to be shot for at 12 o'clock m., January 16, 1884, in the manner described below: There shall be 500 tickets sold at $10 each. These tickets shall be divided into ten Classes, A, B, C, D, E, F, G, H, I, K, each class containing 50 tickets numbered from 1 to 50 inclusive. A newspaper selected by the judges shall shoot with a rifle at the target which is marked, and the section receiving the ball at the first shot shall indicate the section of number in class A. The section receiving the ball at the second shot shall indicate the fortunate number in class B; and so each successive shot shall indicate the fortunate number in the other classes. Then the marksman shall shoot in the same manner at a wheel divided into ten sections marked with the class letter A, B, C, etc. The fortunate number in the class indicated by the section receiving this last ball shall determine the party to whom the plantation shall be awarded. Messrs. H. Lemly, G. Gillon, and Wirt Adams, sr., will act as judges.

Parties wishing tickets will please remit to R. K. PAYNE, Real Estate and Collection Agent, Jackson, Miss. A statement of the results certified to by the judges will be mailed to each ticket holder.

Respectfully, H. G. HILZHEIM, Foreman.
J. R. LEE, Secretary.
A. VERDEN, Jr., Treasurer.

DESCRIPTION.

This is a very desirable place, situated on the first hills west of Pearl river. It has the benefit of a fine spring range for cattle and hogs. There is a very fair dwelling of 7 rooms, and several tenant's settlements. There was in cultivation last year about 150 acres which rented for $625. The same land has been rented for $800 for $500. The dwelling and the rest of the land has not been rented. Much more land has been in cultivation and can be easily put under fence and ploughed to advantage. There is an abundance of good timber on the place. Would make an excellent truck or fruit farm, with easy access to New Orleans or Jackson. Possession given at once, subject to the leases mentioned above.

KENTUCKY

IS THE "HEAD-CENTER" OF WHAT MAY be called the "growing tobacco interest," making stemmed tobacco which brings the highest prices, appeals to the most cultivated tastes and develop the only true flavor and bouquet that therefore distinguishes the best chew and "fill of a cigar." J. W. Harper's Selma County Whiskey is a standard Kentucky product, and is sold by H. MULLER & SONS, Jackson, Miss. Insert, '83-1y.
