annually enacted fresh hindrance and having first denounced the barbarous promise of a day of resumption, demanded as the fitting means for resumption. I then demanded the repeal, also demanded the establishment of a judicious system of taxation, which would be the grain of resumption in exchange for gold. Nor is the denunciation of the improvidence which, while spending more than $1,000,000,000, and yet could not suffice the people a sound and stable currency for twelve years, or even two of these seven years, or even have provided all the additional means for resumption, for relief to business, to resumption for relief to business, to resumption for relief to business, to resumption
