DANCING ACADEMIES.

A. DODWORTH'S
DANCING ACADEMIES,
No. 806 Broadway, New York,
No. 131 Montague place, Brooklyn,
Will commence in New York on Saturday, September 25; in Brooklyn, Friday, September 24.

Mr. DODWORTH would take occasion to say that he has long felt the necessity of introducing a system of instruction for the use of the younger pupils, by which the exercise of dancing would be of more benefit physically and more useful in the development of graceful movement than it has been of late years. The facility with which the polka and similar dances of the present time are acquired, has induced many to neglect those exercises that were formerly indispensable. To that neglect, as one of the causes, may be attributed the appearance of so many round shouldered young misses of the present generation. They are sent to school and allowed to stoop over their desks without intermediate exercise, until the growing frame assumes the position in which it has so long been restrained; they are then sent to a teacher of dancing, with the expectation that by learning the polka, schottisch, and a few other dances, all this will be remedied, and that they will at once become graceful women. Surely these things should be better understood. Were children sent to dancing early in life, at intervals during their necessary studies, and the teacher allowed to exercise them in such a manner and in such dances (in addition to the fashionable ones) as would add grace to the figure, walk and every movement, something might then be gained consistent with the true object of this valuable accomplishment. Anxious to restore the art to its former usefulness, Mr. Dodworth instructed his classes in that acknowledged graceful study, the Minuet de la Cour, and other dances of similar usefulness. The evident success of this course in its effect upon the pupils encouraged him to give more attention to dancing as connected with calisthenics, and during his 18 tours through Germany, France and Great Britain he made it his business to call upon the most prominent teachers and consult with them in regard to the best methods of accomplishing these desirable results. He hopes, therefore, to have gained such information as will, in addition to his own experience, enable him to present to his pupils a system that will not only make them dance the polka, but will improve their beach, figure and walk, and consequently have a salutary effect upon every movement in life.

During his European tour of this season, Mr. Dodworth has had favorable opportunities of studying the peculiar dances of Poland and Hungary, so popular at the present time in Vienna. Some of these, with other novelties, will be introduced at the earliest moment of the present season.
