THE AMERICAN PUMP. Patented April 5, 1859. Without suction, without packing. This is a double acting force pump, with but one bore and one piston, worked by a tee piece, having as much leverage and less friction in its working than any other pump heretofore invented. The object of the whole invention was strength, simplicity, economy, durability, and to lessen the power to raise water from great depths, all of which have been attained to a perfection heretofore unknown in force pumps. The working parts all stand under the water, as does the air chamber, beyond the reach of carless or malicious interference or frost; there is no loss of water, and no loss of labor in any depth—a constant flow of water is kept up. The different sizes, five in all, work in diameters of from 14 to 24 inches, and cost $15, $20, $25, $40 and $60 each, and are worked by hand, horse, water, wind or steam, adapted to cisterns, wells, tanks, machinery, engines, mines, railroads, docks, forcing water under or above ground to great heights and distances; discharges at various points—throw by hose and pipe 30 to 40 feet, is extremely useful and convenient in watering gardens, flowers, vineyards, washing windows, and, in sudden emergencies, for checking fires in their early stages, and as pump equals it in economy or success for purposes of irrigation. The fixtures for power cost $12, $15 and $18 each, according to size. It has now been in successful operation for eight months, in every depth from eight to one hundred feet, and for nearly every conceivable purpose, in twenty-four States of the Union, commencing at Maine and extending to the Rio Grande, and in New Brunswick and Cuba. The pumps have been solid everywhere on trial, and the failures to give entire satisfaction have averaged two to the hundred. I append a few notices, certificates and extracts of letters to justify my position:—

"The pump needs no priming to obtain water. The arrangement and operation are very simple and easily understood."—Life Illustrated, New York.

"This is a new pump, which is offered for public favor. Construction is greatly simplified, and appears to be designed for durability and efficiency. Those who have used it speak highly of it."—New York Observer.

"The piston discharges at both ends into the air chamber, causing a regular flow of water at the discharge pipe at top. If preferred every part can be galvanized except the piston, which keeps itself clean and is proof against rust."—New York Evangelist.

"This is a new invention, a working model of which has been shown us, which presents several novelties for a double acting pump, being exceedingly simple in construction, apparently very strong and durable, rendering the labor of working it, on account of the very small amount of friction in its working parts, very trifling in comparison to other pumps of a similar nature."—N. Y. Christian Advocate and Journal.

"As a specimen of the ease and efficiency with which this pump works, we can state that one man, working regularly, forced water from this pump, a distance of 540 feet, being 97 feet perpendicular height, which is good work as every one who is in the habit of raising water knows."—Scientific American, N. Y.

"There are no suction valves or complicated fittings; neither chains, pulleys, nor guide rods. It is easily arranged for any motive power, and lifts water to any desirable height without any waste of force. A woman or boy can work it with ease to raise water 10 feet, and a man can raise it 100 feet all day. The curiosity of it is the absence of all contrivances which waste power by increasing friction—the motion going directly from the handle to the valve by simple leverage."—The Independent, N. Y.

"The construction is simple, and it works with an ease that will surprise those acquainted only with the old fashioned order in this line. One of these pumps, now in use in this vicinity, enables us to state that full confidence can be placed in the statement contained in the advertisement."—Presbyterian Banner and Advocate, Pittsburg, Pa.

"It is calculated to work at any depth desired, and the great ease with which the highest columns of water are raised is far beyond anything we have yet seen or could have imagined. The pump we personally tested raised water with a very slight exertion with one hand and delivered a stream of water at this height at the rate of eight or ten gallons per minute. A small boy could have done it with ease."—The American Mining Chronicle, N. Y.

"We got one of them, which we have put into operation on our farm, and like it, so far, very much. It brings up a continuous stream of water, with little or no labor to the person working it. It must meet with a ready sale, and speedily grow very popular."—The Southern Planter, Richmond, Va.

"Having had considerable practical experience in the use of machinery of this character, after testing this with our own hands, we have no hesitation in according to it our unqualified favor. In truth, it surpasses everything for the purpose we have before examined."—U. S. Journal.

"One of our newest and most useful inventions of the day is a Double Acting Force Pump, owned by Mr. James M. Edney. It is without packing and without suction, is exceedingly simple in its construction, and, at the same time, possesses all the requirements of a good pump, and can be used either as a well, a cistern, or ship's pump."—New York Express.

"A boy of ten years of age can work it at 50 feet, and a man at a hundred feet. We have seen one in operation, and consequently speak from personal knowledge. They are adapted to almost every purpose where a pump is required."—New York Day Book.

"Having seen one of your pumps in operation, we consider it the best we have ever seen for general use; it is simple, and can be operated with less power than any pump we have ever known of the same capacity."—Galveston News, Texas.

"At the late State Fair in this city The American Pump took the premium, and met the approbation of all who examined it."—Raleigh (N. C.) Register.

"We extract from personal knowledge, and say, that of all the pumps we ever saw, we never saw one at all comparable to this. A man can scarce fail to be pleased with them. If you want a good pump get one of these."—St. Louis (Mo.) Ob. Advocate.

DORR'S FERRY, Nov. 7, 1859.

J. M. EDNEY, Esq.—Having one of your pumps in operation for several months on my premises at Dorr's Ferry, which forces the water up a hill to the distance of [illegible] and to an elevation of 97 feet, I am enabled to state that it more than met my expectations, and has not only given satisfaction but evidence of superior capability, strength and durability. ROBERT M. BRUCE.

RICHMOND, Va., Nov. 16, 1859.

DEAR SIR—In regard to your inquiry about the working of the "American pump," put in for Mr. Williams in March last, our Mr. [illegible] says: "It is the best pump he has ever seen," and he "recommends it to everybody in want." Respectfully yours, AUGUST & WILLIAMS, Editors Southern Planter.

CORNWALL, N. Y., June 17, 1859.

DEAR SIR—The pump for my well, of 46 feet, raises a good stream of water and a constant flow, works easily and gives me perfect satisfaction. The one for my cistern under my piazza, forcing water into my tower, 40 feet, answers the purpose so much better than anything I could find—gives me good satisfaction. Respectfully yours, JAMES MARSH.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., May 16, 1859.

DEAR SIR—We have had your pump put in on trial—the water comes—find within check for ($39) for the same. (Depth thirty-nine feet. Respectfully, F. S. & J. PARKER, (Paper Mills.)

INSTITUTION FOR THE DEAF AND DUMB, WASHINGTON HEIGHTS, Nov. 12, 1859.

J. M. EDNEY, Esq.—Having had occasion nearly three months ago, for a pump differing somewhat from those in ordinary use, after inspecting many kinds I met with your circular, and soon decided that your pump was just the thing we required. I ordered a No. 2 pump, the cylinder and piston of brass, the remainder of galvanized iron. It was well fitted up, works easily and successfully, and has thus far required no readjustment or attention whatever. Indeed, I regard it as the most durable pump I have seen, and as possessing all the merits you claim for it. E. B. PEET.

ASTORIA, Nov. 26, 1859.

DEAR SIR—I have had one of your No. 2 pumps in operation on my premises for seven months, and find it has worked uniformly well, answering the purpose of two families—being on the dividing line, and working by a double crank or lever. I take great pleasure in recommending it. Respectfully yours, JOHN H. MATTHEWS.

J. H. Nevin, of Pittsburg, Pa. (well of 67 feet), says, March 11—"I am quite well pleased with the pump; it works very handsomely indeed. Find check within for $40, and send me another pump just like mine."

Messrs. Rhodes & Deats, of San Antonio, Texas, Nov. 5, say—"We think your pumps will sell well here, and supersede all other high priced and highly priced pumps. Please send us six No. 2 pumps, with 30 feet of pipe and rods each."

D. S. H. Darst, of Gonzales, Texas, October 28, says—"Find drawings within for a pump for mining purposes (perpendicular, 150 feet). Inclosed find draft for $250; pay for the above pump, and send the remainder to me in No. 1 pumps with extra pipe."
